MAMMOTH PLANS FOR LAW JUBILEE

Tendering of Library, Class Reunions, and Football Game Features.

The opening exercises of the Law School, featured by formations of plans for the Golden Jubilee of the school, were held in the Georgetown Law School Building, 506 E. Street Northwest, Washington, D. C., at 5:10 o'clock, Friday, October 1, 1920. George E. Hamilton, LL. D., Dean of the Law Faculty, presided, and introduced Rev. John B. Creeden, S. J., President of the University, who delivered the principal address. President Creeden referred to the fact that the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Law School would be celebrated on December 4, 5 and 6, 1920, in the Law School Building. He announced the appointment of a general committee in charge of the celebration of the anniversary, as follows: Chairman, Rev. John B. Creeden, S. J., President of the University; George E. Hamilton, LL. D., Dean of the Law School, in charge of Academic Celebration; Hugh J. Fegan, M. A., LL. B., Ph. D., Assistant Dean of the Law School, in charge of Opening of New Law School Library; Daniel W. O'Donoghue, Esq., in charge of Class Reunions; Conrad Reid, in charge of Football Game.

Honorable Ashley M. Gould, a graduate of the Law School, class of '84, outlined in detail the plans for the celebration. On Saturday, December 4, 1920, the celebration ceremonies will commence with a football game, between the Varsity and a college team from outside the city. Harry Costello, Moriarty, and other Georgetown football stars of former years, will be present. On Saturday evening the new Law School Library will be formally tendered to the President and Directors of Georgetown College by Dean Hamilton. At these exercises an address will be delivered by a prominent legal scholar. On Saturday evening, also, informal reunions of Law School classes will be held at the Law School Building. For this purpose President Creeden has appointed a Secretary for every law school graduating class since the class of 1872; enthusiastic meetings of these secretaries have been held and plans adopted for securing a large attendance of members of all law school classes. A prize is to be offered to the law school graduate who makes the longest trip to attend the celebration. Honorable Amasa S. Crossfield, LL. B., 1883, and LL. M., 1884, Associate Justice, Supreme Court of the Philippines, and Honorable Robert W. Jennings, U. S. District Judge, of Sitka, Alaska, are expected to be among the strongest contestants for the prize; both are graduates of the law school. On Sunday morning, December 5, 1920, a Military Mass will be celebrated at Georgetown College, in Dahlgren Chapel, for the Georgetown Law

NAVY CONQUERORS HERE SATURDAY

Supposedly Easy Game With Tar Heels Appears as Hard Battle.

Georgetown will run against the first real opponent of the year day after tomorrow when the Blue and Gray plays North Carolina State at the American League ball grounds. The contest had been rated as an early season practice game, but the game last Saturday, when the Tar Heels ran rough shod over Bob Folwell's Navy eleven and defeated them 14 to 7, changed the situation. In the Navy game the North Carolinians showed an attack advanced far beyond usual early-season form, using the aerial attack to gain ground repeatedly. Both their touchdowns against the middies were made by this route, Faucett to Johnson. Johnson has the reputation of a flashy runner, and if he gets on the receiving end of a forward pass, according to reports, he never fails to gain.

Exendine's defense formation is calculated to work well against the overhead game, with the brunt of the game resting on the secondary defense.

The Hilltoppers have not met the Tar Heels since 1916, when the North Carolinians went down to defeat by a close score. Before that Georgetown usually won, but the games were always close and hard.

The game last Saturday, while uninteresting from a spectator's viewpoint, gave the coaches a real line on their material, O'Reilly using every man he had. In one way the game was disappointing, as there was no opportunity to judge the team on defense. St. John's had the offensive but once or twice, and even then displayed no strong attack.

If a strong reserve force is the backbone of a team, the coaches believe Georgetown to be a winner. The second team displayed as much pep as the first, and in the last quarter even the third and fourth string men ran up four touchdowns in ten minutes.

The team that started against St. John's showed well and will probably remain in first string positions. Zazzali and Jack Sullivan worked cleverly at the ends, but most likely Kenyon will be in shape by Saturday. Jim Sullivan also will probably hold his berth, as he has more experience and ability than the other candidates for quarter. Dutch Leighty twisted his ankle last week, but it will not keep him out of the line-up.

G. U. ENROLLMENT EXCEEDS 2,000

Medical School Enlarged to Accommodate Larger Registration.

With the opening of the downtown schools on October 1 the registration for the University is now in excess of 1,850 students and bids fair to eclipse the 2,000 mark. This is an increase of over a hundred for the same time last year, when all records were broken, as on October 7, 1919, the registration totaled 1,710.

The Law School alone of all the departments showed a loss in the number of students enrolled. For the first lecture last year 891 men reported, while the number so far this year shows only 761. The decrease, Assistant Dean Fagan says, is easily explained by the small Freshman class now entering. Last year there was a great influx of lower classmen due to the entering of men who should have entered in '16, '17, and '18, but were forced to delay their entrance on account of the war. Another explanation of the smaller number is the fact that the requirements for entrance to the Law Department have become more strict. By this means the faculty assures itself of having only men whose preliminary education warrants them following the study of law.

At the Dental and Medical Schools a large increase has been made in the number of students accepted. Formerly in the Medical School the Freshman class has been limited to 50, while this year the limit has been raised to accommodate many of the men who took the Pre-Medical course here last year. These two departments have now 307 students registered, showing a gain of 104 over last year.

The College was forced to turn away prospective students, as was the School of Foreign Service.

The registration at the Foreign Service school is limited to 350 on account of lack of classrooms. Already twice this number have applied and Fr. Walsh has turned away many, selecting only those best fitted to pursue the course. The 350 limit has nearly been reached, and the remaining vacancies will soon be filled.

Up on the Hill, the College has enrolled the largest Freshman class that has ever entered the Arts and Sciences Department. To date this class numbers 178, and the entire college numbers 400, which is a considerable increase over last year. The Senior class promises to be a record breaking one, numbering 54 to date.

By the middle of October the total enrollment should exceed 2,000.

NEW SONG MAKES PRONOUNCED HIT

Feature of Banquet—Written by Lennon and Corcoran of Law School

Amid the blare of a jazz band, with the dining hall decorated in gala array, the annual "Welcome Back" banquet of the college was held last Sunday evening in the Ryan refectory. President of the Yard MacElhinny acted as toastmaster. The class songs and cheers were run off in snappy fashion with the freshmen contributing their first effort in that line.

The feature of the evening was the introduction of the new Georgetown song with the words and music written by Larry Lennon, Law, '22, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Frank Corcoran, Law, '21, of New Haven, Conn.

The singing of the song by Jack Sullivan, Fordham, '14, now of the Law School, was the signal for a spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm and cheering that rocked the dining hall for several minutes. Mr. Sullivan was encored again and again until the assembled student body had caught the words and tune of the piece.

Mr. Lennon is planning to have his song published as soon as possible, with a number of copies ready for the game with North Carolina day after tomorrow. It will be introduced at all the different schools of the University and will be practised by the entire student body on the first "University Night," which it is hoped will be held sometime in the near future.

After the banquet an informal entertainment was put on in the college quadrangle. Larry Lennon's song was again in great demand and Jack Sullivan sang it several times, as well as a number of popular songs. Jimmy Sullivan, last year's baseball captain, rendered several of his popular vocal numbers, as did Joe O'Connell, the football and basketball star. Tom Morrissey, '23, was present with his inimitable line of humor, while a namesake of his from the freshman class entertained on the cello. Henderson, '24, on the trombone, and Maroney, '24, on the banjo, were other yearlings to take part in the entertainment.

The feature of the evening exercises in the quadrangle was the administering of the oath of office to the Postmaster, the Georgetown freshman officer. Paul D. Page, '21, was impressive as the master of ceremonies, while Charlie Williams, '21, made a hit as the clergyman. After the oath was duly administered to the candidate, Leo J. Casey, '21, editor of THE HOYA, brought the program to a close and gave an unexpected and pleasant twist to the ceremonies in the manner in which he explained the features and purpose of the Postmaster campaign which had been running at the college for a week.
