HONOR CONFERRED ON PRESIDENT

Venezuelan Government Awards Medal of Public Instruction to Rev. J. B. Creeden, S. J.

The Official Gazette of Venezuela, which is for the Venezuelan Government what the Congressional Record is for the United States, contains in the issue of November 5, 1920, a decree of the President of Venezuela, awarding one of the highest honors in the land to the President of Georgetown University. The decree from the Gaceta Official is as follows:

United States of Venezuela, Department of Public Instruction, Bureau of Higher and Special Instruction.

Caracas, November 5, 1920.

Nos. 111 and 62.

Resolved: The provisional President of the Republic in conformity with Article 4 of the Executive Decree of May 27 of this year, orders that the Medal of Public Instruction be conferred on Reverend John B. Creeden, S. J., Rector of the University of Georgetown.

To be communicated and published.

For the Federal Executive.

José Antonio Linarens.

The announcement of this special honor conferred upon the President of Georgetown was made by Dr. Guillermo A. Sherwell, of the Inter-American High Commission writing to Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, Regent of the Georgetown School of Foreign Service on November 23. He says in part: "I know you will experience great satisfaction in knowing that the Government of Venezuela has so honored our Rector, and I beg you to advise the Reverend Father of the issuance of the decree and to present to him my heartfelt congratulations."

Dr. Sherwell, a member of the Faculties both of the School of Foreign Service and the Arts and Science Department of Georgetown University, was himself the recipient of a similar honor last summer on the occasion of his visit to Venezuela with a group of students from the School of Foreign Service. He has just been named Special Assistant to the Secretary of State and will accompany Mr. Colby this month on his official visit to the Argentine Republic, Brazil, and other South American States.

From all indications, the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Law School will be attended with the success promised by the ambitious plans formulated to commemorate the occasion. Return cards from graduates,signifying their intention to be present for the ceremonies, have been far in excess of the estimated number, a fact which augurs well for the great success of the celebration.

On Friday, December 3rd, at 9:00 o'clock, the ceremonies will be inaugurated with a University Prom., in which all the departments of the University will participate, at Wardman Hall. The sale of tickets indicates that the dance will be a grand success.

On Saturday, December 4th, at 2:00 p.m., at American League Park, a football game between the Varsity team and Bethany University will be staged. This game promises to be a well-contested one, with a large crowd in attendance.

At 8:00 p.m., in the evening of the same day, the formal opening of the new Law Library at the Law School will take place. Addresses will be made by Rev. John B. Creeden, S. J., President of Georgetown University; George E. Hamilton, LL. D., Dean of the Law School; Father Joseph Cantsilir, of New Jersey, on behalf of the Student Body of the Law School. In addition, short addresses will be made by delegates from prominent universities throughout the country.

Immediately after the ceremonies in connection with the formal opening of the New Law Library, Class Reunions will be held in the Assembly Rooms of the Law School. It has been decided to divide the Law School classes into groups, approximately five or six years to each group, and assign to each of these schools one class room in the Law School Building, in which the classes in that group may meet and hold their reunion. A Class Secretary or a member of the Faculty will be in charge of each of these groups of classes, as follows:

Graduate Class Room, 1872 to 1884, Judge Gould.

Hall No. 5, 1885 to 1892, Mr. Bryan Haney.

Hall No. 7, 1893 to 1898, Mr. James A. Toomey.

Hall No. 8, 1899 to 1904, Mr. D. W. O'Leary.

Hall No. 6, 1905 to 1908, Mr. J. S. Eshay-Smith.

Hall No. 4, 1909 to 1912, Mr. T. J. Fitzgerald.

Hall No. 3, 1913 to 1918, Mr. J. D. Sullivan.

Hall No. 1, 1919 and 1920, Mr. O. A. Alexander.

The Class Reunion will undoubtedly develop information concerning various graduates of the Law School of wide interest, which in addition to novel features arranged for this event, will make the Reunion profitable as well as entertaining.

On Sunday morning, December 5th, at 10:30 a.m., solemn Mass of Requiem will take place in the College Chapel in memory of Georgetown men who fell in the late war. The sermon for this occasion will be by Rev. Thomas J. Gasson, S. J., Professor of Natural and Canon Law.

At 4:00 p.m., in the Riggs Library Arena, an occasion will be held by the President, Dean and Faculty, to the alumni, students and friends of the Law School.

On Monday, December 6th, at 4:00 o'clock, Academic Exercises and Conferring of Degrees will take place in Gaston Hall. These exercises will be notable, indeed. Prominent representatives in the field of education will be present on this occasion, among whom will be Hon. Hamilton Douglas, Dean of the School of Law, University of Pennsylvania; Hon. Honer Albers, Dean of Boston University; Hon. Wendell P. Stafford, Associate Justice, Supreme Court of the District of Columbia; Dr. Peter J. McLaughlin, Vice Dean of the Catholic University of America; Mr. R. L. Huyck, Dean of the Catholic University of America; Mr. F. Stone, Dean of the Law School, Columbia University; Rev. George A. McGovern, S. J., Regent of School of Law, University of Detroit; Rev. Francis P. LeBuffe, S. J., Regent of the School of Law, Fordham University; Rev. Paul R. Conniff, S. J., President of Gonzaga College; Prof. Eugene Wambaugh, Professor of Law, Harvard University; Hon. Max Schoet, Dean of the School of Law, Marquette University; Paul E. Schorb, Esquire, of the North Dakota Law School; Hon. Wm. E. Mikel, Dean of the School of Law of University of Pennsylvania; Prof. Wm. H. Lloyd, Professor of Law, School of Law, University of Pennsylvania; U. S. Senator Selden F. Spencer, of Washburn University, St. Louis, Mo., and Hon. Charles N. Gregory, of the University of Wisconsin.

At 8:00 p.m., Monday, December 6th, at the New Willard Hotel, the celebratory banquet will be given by the Washington Bar Association and the City Bar Association. The banquet will be in honor of the annual lawyer-graduates of the Georgetown School of Law. The address of the toastmaster will be delivered by President Henry Healey, Secretary, and Frederick Stolzman, Treasurer. The banquet is to be attended by prominent figures from wide circles, and tickets may be obtained from the class secretaries.

G. U. FAILS TO STOP BOSTON

B. C.'s Overhead Attack and Brilliant End Running Too Much for Georgetown.

In a game featured by long forward passes and frequent penalties, Boston College, conquerors of Yale, piled up four touchdowns and one field goal for a total of 30 points, while Georgetown failed to score last Saturday at Bravos' Field. Georgetown was out-classed throughout, but broke after break netted Boston many yards. The first quarter Zube Sullivan blocked an attempted dropkick by Fitzpatrick and recovering the ball, ran to the 40-yard line, only to be called back on a penalty. There were flashes of brilliancy in the dealings of Flavin, but the Blue and Gray held for downs on the 3-foot line.

In the fourth quarter Georgetown unearthed a good overhead attack but the final punch was lacking in Flavin's long put, averaging over 50 yards, featured for Georgetown. He was easily Georgetown's star. The Georgia Tech shift, used by G. U., looked good for a time, but proved futile on a muddy field. Quinn, Comstock, Zube Sullivan and Keenoy starred for Georgetown in the line, while Jimmy Sullivan and Anderson, playing their last game, put up brilliant exhibitions. Georgetown put up a hard fight on defense but Boston College's overhead attack succeeded when Flavin missed a field goal and his last appearance in a Georgetown uniform, Smeach was hurt early in the first quarter.

Boston College put over its first touchdown late in the first period when, after being held on the 30-yard line, Fitzpatrick hurled a long forward pass to Urban who raced across the line with the ball. Fitzpatrick kicked the goal.

In the second period, after the ball had changed hands several times and Boston was held once more within the shadow of the Georgetown goal line, Fitzpatrick dropped back and booted a pretty field goal from the 30-yard line, bringing the score to 10-0.

At the beginning of the final period the score still stood 10-0, neither team being able to get within scoring distance of their opponent's goal line. In the final quarter with the ball on Georgetown's 23-yard line, O'Brien broke through and blocked Flavin's punt, and picking up the ball on the 1-yard line, raced over the line for B. C.'s second touchdown. Georgetown seemed to weaken at this point and on the first play after the kick-off, Roderick circled Georgetown's right end for a run of 75 yards and a touchdown. The interference was wonderful.

Georgetown received, but lost the ball after a few plays on a fumble. B. C. then ploughed the Georgetown line and pushed over its final tally. Georgetown came back strong but lacked the final punch to put a touchdown across.
F. S. FRESHMAN HOLD INFORMAL SMOKER

Catholic Community Club Scene of Freshmen Class Debut. Father Walsh Speaks.

At an informal "get-together" smoker given by the Freshman class of the Foreign Service School Thursday evening, November 18, at the Catholic Community Club, the new class of the Foreign Service School showed a splendid spirit of union and co-operation in pledging its efforts towards making a bigger and a better Georgetown. The smoker was the first social affair undertaken by the new class, and due to the efforts of the temporary class committee consisting of temporary class chairman William A. Scully, R. A. Carmichael, Frank T. Travey, John J. Boscarell, Edward G. Eichelberger, Henry H. Hill, and Gregory Cruetz, the affair was a huge success.

As the class elections were to be held the following Tuesday, the purpose of the meeting was to give the members of the class an opportunity to become acquainted not only with their classmates but also with the prospective candidates for class officers.

Rev. Edward Walsh, S. J., Regent of the Foreign Service School, was the guest of honor for the evening. Although he could not stay for the entire evening, Father Walsh made a short speech to the class, in which he advised the Freshmen to elect the right men for the various class offices. Briefly Father Walsh outlined the aims of the new Foreign Service School and told of its remarkable achievements.

Following Father Walsh's talk, toastmaster Gregory Cruetz called upon several of the prospective candidates whose names had been submitted for the different offices.

Towards the close of the smoker the toastmaster called for a speech from Doctor Richard Harvey, Professor of International Law at the Foreign Service School. Doctor Harvey, in his characteristic way, spoke of the great importance of forming real class spirit and friendships while at Georgetown for later on when the members of the class will be spread to all parts of the globe.

George Henderson, '22, at the piano, and Bob Moroney, '23, with the banjo, furnished the music for the evening.

SENIORS DEBATE.
The Senior Debating Club of the Law School conducted its regular meeting on Friday evening, November 26. The question was, "Resolved, That immigration into the United States be restricted for a period of ten years." The attendance was not as large as usual on account of the Thanksgiving holidays, but much interest was shown by those present.

John M. Karns, class president, gave a short talk to the society, in which he encouraged debating and spoke of the difficulties which often accompany public speaking which a lawyer can surmount by training in debating.

Two things might make you want to change your cigarette

For example, you might find straight Turkish cigarettes too rich for steady smoking, because of too much Turkish tobacco. Or you might find ordinary part-Turkish or Turkish Blend cigarettes "thin" and "flat", because of too little Turkish.

In either case (should you decide to change) the logical choice would be a cigarette containing "just enough Turkish."

The only cigarette that contains less Turkish than the straight Turkish brands and more than any other Turkish Blend is Fatima.

This is the basis for Fatima's claim of "just enough Turkish."

And scores of sales facts such as the one shown above surely seem to justify Fatima's claim.

CARROLL LAW CLUB.
The Carroll Law Club is now in full operation, and many interesting questions are on the calendar of the Congress for consideration. The club was organized for the purpose of giving the men of the Law School an opportunity to see how business is conducted in the lower branch of our Congress. The club convenes every Tuesday evening, and after a regular business meeting it adjourns to the Carroll Law Congress, where bills are introduced, referred to committees, considered by them, debated, and voted upon by the Congress in regular session. These meetings are presided over by a Speaker appointed for the evening by the Chancellor of the club.

JUNIORS ELECT.
The Junior Debating Society of the Law School held its second meeting for the purpose of selecting representatives for the Prize Debate during the month of December. The following men were selected to represent the society: George Renahan, Ralph Neary and Edward J. Marthiljohnni.

THE POINT OF IMPORTANCE

The greatest event in the recent history of Georgetown, the Golden Jubilee of the Law School, opens tomorrow evening with the University prom. The success of the anniversary celebration is assured from the fact that everybody in the University has been working heart and soul for it. The program, printed elsewhere in our columns, is most entertaining and promises to eclipse anything of its kind ever attempted here.

It will be a gathering long to be remembered, this fiftieth anniversary of the Law School. From all parts of the country are pouring in hundreds of the old grads. Gray-haired judges, attorneys with national reputation, young lawyers with struggling practices will mingle in one great men. Men, whose names are mentioned with awe in the high realms of the judiciary, will be but boys again, throwing aside the robes of the law, to make merry amidst the scenes of their college days. All Georgetown will hold "open house" extending to the thousands of guests that open-hearted welcome that Georgetown alone can give.

The HOYA, in the name of all the departments of the University, extends a cordial welcome to the old grads of the Law School. They rank among Georgetown's most distinguished sons. Their homecoming at this time, after their fame has so increased the fame of the University, will be one long to be remembered.

If there is one message that the HOYA might give to the Georgetown men of yesterday, if there is one outstanding thought for the old grads to take away with them, it is the need for the students and the graduates of each department of the University to work for the union of all the departments to the greater good of Georgetown. When the anniversary celebration is over, and the hundreds of old Georgetown men return to their daily tasks, it is to be hoped that they will not forget the many needs of their Alma Mater.

Their sons and the sons of business, many of them are at this time attempting to decide their college. To keep Georgetown standards at their traditionally high level, the finest of the country's old grads to take away with them, it is the need for the students and the graduates of each department of the University to work for the union of all the departments to the greater good of Georgetown. When the anniversary celebration is over, and the hundreds of old Georgetown men return to their daily tasks, it is to be hoped that they will not forget the many needs of their Alma Mater.

BANQUET PLANNED BY GEORGETOWN ALUMNI

500 Prominent Graduates to Attend Banquet at Willard During Jubilee Celebration.

Plans for the biggest banquet ever given by alumni of Georgetown University are being made in connection with the golden jubilee celebration.

More than 500 alumni will attend the banquet on the evening of December 6 at the New Willard Hotel, it was announced today by the committee in charge of arrangements. The event will serve to bring to a close the series of exercises beginning December 4 when distinguished graduates of the Law School will come to Washington.

Plans for the banquet are in charge of Frank J. Hogan, who is chairman of the general committee, and Joseph Sullivan, chairman of the special banquet committee. Addresses will be made by prominent graduates representing the bench and the bar, the list of speakers being announced later.

A feature of the banquet will be a continuous cabaret performance given by theatrical stars who will be playing in Washington at that time.

The banquet will be held following the bestowal of honorary degrees by the university upon distinguished alumni and others who have been identified with the university, and particularly the Law School. These exercises will be held on the afternoon of December 6 at the college.

UNIVERSITY PROM TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Everything Set for Social Event Which Starts Anniversary Celebration.

The Georgetown University Prom, held in connection with the Golden Jubilee of the Law School, will be held at Wardman Park Inn on Friday evening, December 3. This dance is the first affair of the year to be given by the entire university, and the proceeds will be given to the Athletic Association for the purpose of helping to wipe out the A.A. debt.

H. Murray MacElhinny, '21, the President of the A.A., is the chairman of the Prom Committee, the other members being the presidents of every class in each department of the University, with Charles F. Regan, '21, and Paul Carlin, '21, the secretary and treasurer of the A.A. The Prom is considered the biggest social event of the University season, and has become a regular feature of the evening, according to Dr. John B. Creeden, S. J., of Georgetown, that former Chief Justice Willard Bartlett, of the Supreme Court of Oklahoma.

The intermission will be the most interesting part of the evening, according to the committee. The menu has not been given out, but no one need fear that the viands will fall below the general standard of the dance.

Tickets may be purchased from the presidents of any of the classes, and by the number purchased already, the success of the Prom is assured.

PROminent ALUMNI Here for Jubilee

Golden Jubilee Celebration Draws Many Distinguished Graduates to Washington.

The Semi-Centennial Celebration of the opening of the Georgetown Law School will be the occasion of the assemblage of hundreds of men prominent in judiciary circles. Distinguished graduates from each of the forty-eight states, Alaska and the Philippines will come to Washington.

Among those of prominence are the following: Hon. William M. Morgan, who received the degree of LL. M. in 1899, and is now an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Idaho and prominent in national law circles; Hon. Charles Donnelly, '96, of St. Paul, who is prominent both in law and railroad circles, and was recently made president of the Northern Pacific Railroad; Hon. Amasa S. Crossfield, who as an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands. Mr. Crossfield is the father of Clair B. Crossfield, who is accredited as being one of the most brilliant students the Law School ever had. He received the degree of LL. B. in '11 and that of LL. M. in '12; Hon. Frank H. Norcross, of Idaho, who received the degree of LL. B. in '94 and is now the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Idaho; Hon. William Rogers Clay, LL. M. '88, LL. B. '89, who is a Justice of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky; Hon. Mathew H. Kane, LL. D. '16, who is the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Oklahoma.

LAW SCHOOLS SEND ENVOYS TO JUBILEE

Representatives of Law Schools From All Over U. S. to Come Here.

Nearly every important law school in the country will send an official delegate to the reunion, at which it is hoped problems of vital importance to the profession will be threshed out.

Catholic University School of Law and the National Law School were the first two legal institutions to appoint delegates to the reunion. Dr. P. J. McLaughlin, vice dean, will represent the former, while Prof. Hayden Johnson will represent the latter.

Both professors received their legal training at the Georgetown Law School.

BARTLETT TO SPEAK.

Announcement was made by President John B. Creeden, S. J., of Georgetown University, that former Chief Justice Willard Bartlett, of the Supreme Court of New York, will deliver the principal address at the academic celebration on December 6. The exercises will be held in Gaston Hall, in the presence of distinguished alumni from all parts of the country.
BETHANY HERE FOR WINDUP OF SEASON

The final game of the football season took place on the day after tomorrow when the Blue and Gray clashes with Bethany College, of Wheeling, West Virginia, in connection with the Law Jubilee.

Bethany has already appeared in Washington this year, when they trimmed Georgetown, on the 30th of October. They showed in that engagement that, although a small college, they are masters in the art of football. Their coach is Jack Kellison, an old West Virginia Wesleyan star, and he has taught his charges some pretty football. All through the season the outstanding feature of their play has been lighting speed. Speed in running, speed in getting off plays, speed in interception gained in forward passing — it is their best asset and they make the most of it. The team is not very large, but the irresistible swiftness of attack was enough to sweep through the huge Detroit University eleven for a 26-0 victory. and the Hilltoppers know to their sorrow that Detroit is no mean opponent.

Bethany lost to West Virginia by a small score, but that does not detract from their prestige. They were in a battle all through, and West Virginia had a vastly heavier and a more experienced team.

The battle will be interesting from a football and a spectator's point of view, for both Georgetown and Bethany use much the same style of attack. Both depend on speed and quickness, and it will be well worth watching, to see whether Bethany with her three sprinters, Latto, Armstrong, and Kelley, in the backfield, and a line like greased lightning, can do against the equally fast Flavin, Cronin, Malley, and Leighty. Georgetown's line, while heavier than that of the Green, was also selected this year for their swiftness, and if indications are true, it will be a great contest, with both teams using quick sweeping end runs, with practically the same wide interference. Both use the unbalanced line with a view to faster interference, and both use "line around." In the George Washington game Bethany used Exended's old standby, the criss-cross with the backfield at full speed, making either a tackle or a wide end run. And they carried it off with the smoothness of the Hilltoppers.

Not that there is anything unstable or shaky about either team. There is good, simple football as the basis of the "Glenn Warner attack," but there must be eleven fast men on a team to get away with it.

The Blue and Gray squad came through the Boston battle in fairly good shape. Joe O'Connell will probably be kept out, as he hurt his knee rather badly, but no one else received more than minor injuries. The line will be practically the same as last week, Kenyon getting his chance. Swencke is a "sure football," Sullivan tackles, Comstock and Quinn guards, and Anderson center. The backfield has been juggled around so much lately that it is impossible to predict who will start. Jim Sullivan showed up well at Boston, and may pilot the team Saturday. Cronin's defensive work was the surprise of the season. He is a "sure football," either Malley or Leighty may cinch the other halfback position. Buck Wise's injured back is still troubling him, but he may get into the game at end, where he shone at Atlanta.

GEORGETOWN Loses HARD GAME TO GENRALS

In Fast, Hard-Fought Battle
W. & L. Wins From Georgetown.

Georgetown lost its third consecutive game on November 20 to Washington and Lee, falling before the Generals in their excellent overhead attack, 16-6. Neither team was able to gain consistently through the line, but when the Generals opened their attack they found weak spots in Georgetown's secondary defense, and both of their touchdowns were made by this route. Georgetown could not gain by forward passes, although they tried time after time desperately in the last quarter. Both backfields were handicapped by the heavy condition of the field, the end running being especially slow.

Washington and Lee kicked off to Flavin, who returned to the forty-yard line. After feeling out the line, Leary sent Flavin around left end. The interference was perfect, and Jack got clear without any effort. Both teams showed how difficult the running was, the interference and defence seeming scarcely to be moving. Flavin was stopped from behind on the Generals' five-yard line. On two plays Georgetown gained but three yards, and on the next play Flavin went over the line, only to fumble, when tackled, the ball going for a touchback. Lee started on a slow steady march down the field. One forward pass took the ball past midfield, and on the next, a long brave, Bennis grabbed the ball out of the air and started for the line. Flavin was coming in fast, and in trying to turn alipped on the muddy base path, and Bennis got by for a touchdown.

The Hilltoppers, startled by the sudden break, came back hard, and after an exchange of punts, started an end and tackle attack which took the ball to the Generals' twenty-five yard line, from where Dutch Leighty took it over on a brilliant dodging end run. Kenyon failed to kick goal.

In the second quarter the Generals abandoned the aerial attack for a time, and tried bucking the line. There wasn't much to be gained there for either team, and the quarter resolved into a punting duel, with Flavin having a big day over on Silverstein, his opponent. Finally W. and L. decided to run the ball, and after a few line plunges advanced the ball to the Blue and Gray's twenty-five yard line. Georgetown took a brace here, and held hard. Silverstein dropped back to the thirty-five yard line for a dropkick. Paget passed high, and Silverstein jumped for the ball, but he got it away just as the Georgetown forwards charged through. The kick was low and wobbly, but it passed over the bar with an inch to spare for three more points.

After the last half started, the Generals abandoned their aerial attack, which was especially slow. They began to find holes in the Georgetown line, which always tightened near the goal line. By line bucks and end runs they got within striking distance of the Hilltoppers' goal, and from the thirty-yard line started what looked like a runskipping right end. But instead of trying to spell Kenyon, the interference sped past him, and just as his arms closed around Mattos, the Generals' halfback turned and threw the ball a few yards to Silverstein, who took his time and got off a neat toss to Moore on the twenty-yard line. Lee was fighting for a touchdown, and hurled all their weight upon a line back. The Blue and Gray line held firm, and again the Generals' backfield charged, but Silverstein turned back and shot a quick pass to Tucker who was standing on the goal line, and merely had to fall across. Silverstein kicked goal.

Neither team did much in the remainder of the period, and Georgetown came back after the rest with one last effort. Jim Sullivan was sent in for Leary, and opened up with pass after pass. Most of these were incomplete. The Generals opened from a power line back, to be tackled on the fifty-five yard line, but was called back for a penalty. Washington and Lee played safe, bucking the ball a few yards at a time, and the quarter ended without either team doing much.

The kick was low and wobbly, but it passed over the bar with an inch to spare for three more points.

After the last half started, the Generals abandoned their aerial attack, which was especially slow. They began to find holes in the Georgetown line, which always tightened near the goal line. By line bucks and end runs they got within striking distance of the Hilltoppers' goal, and from the thirty-yard line started what looked like a runskipping right end. But instead of trying to spell Kenyon, the interference sped past him, and just as his arms closed around Mattos, the Generals' halfback turned and threw the ball a few yards to Silverstein, who took his time and got off a neat toss to Moore on the twenty-yard line. Lee was fighting for a touchdown, and hurled all their weight upon a line back. The Blue and Gray line held firm, and again the Generals' backfield charged, but Silverstein turned back and shot a quick pass to Tucker who was standing on the goal line, and merely had to fall across. Silverstein kicked goal.

Neither team did much in the remainder of the period, and Georgetown came back after the rest with one last effort. Jim Sullivan was sent in for Leary, and opened up with pass after pass. Most of these were incomplete. The Generals opened from a power line back, to be tackled on the fifty-five yard line, but was called back for a penalty. Washington and Lee played safe, bucking the ball a few yards at a time, and the quarter ended without either team doing much.
On November 23, 1900, the faculty of the College entertained at dinner the Executive Committee of the Conference of Catholic Colleges and the Committee on Entrance Requirements, appointed at a general conference of the Catholic College Conference, held the April previous in Chicago. Father Fagan, S. J., the prefect of studies at the College then, was the chairman of the Committee on Entrance Requirements. Among the guests of the evening were: The Right Reverend Monsignor Conaty, Rector of the Catholic University; the Very Reverend William L. O’Hara, President of Mount Saint Mary’s College, Emmitsburg, Maryland; the Rev. Vincent Huber, O. S. B., Rector of St. Bede College, Peoria, Illinois; the Rev. Lawrence A. Delehuy, O. S. A., President of Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.; the Rev. James A. Burns, C. S. C., Superior of the Holy Cross College, Washington, and the Rev. James French, O. S. C., Vice President of the University of Notre Dame.

Joseph Crowley, of the class of ’19, was married to Miss Frances Peak, of Washington, on Tuesday, November 23d. The wedding took place in St. Paul’s Church. After a short trip through the eastern states the couple will reside in Washington.

Word has been received that Edward Barrett, ’15, is to be married to Miss Lois Smith, of Smithville, N. J., on the 16th of December.

Donald Kersey, ex ’18, writes, “I had occasion last evening to attend my first meeting of the New York Alumni Society. To say that I was greatly impressed with the various speeches and fine group of boys I met and the general enthusiasm of the whole body, would only feebly express my feelings. Dr. Pallan made one of the most stirring addresses I have ever listened to on present day conditions. His speech thrilled all who were in attendance at the dinner.”

Joseph J. Ryan, ex ’13, died on the 25th of October in his apartment at the Hotel Ansonia, in New York City. Mr. Ryan returned from France about eighteen months ago, and ever since has been suffering from rheumatism and nervous trouble. He is the youngest son of Ida M. Ryan, who donated the Ryan Building to the College.

On Friday evening, November 19, the Alumni of San Francisco met in the Flood Building. The purpose of this meeting was to organize a Georgetown University Club. The Alumni of the East have long been desirous that such an organization be effected, feeling that it would be a great help to graduates settling in the West.

WHAT man doesn’t like his pipe? There’s nothing whets your smoke desires like seeing a good pipe lying around. Because you know that in it is the only real smoke satisfaction. Your appetite will be doubly whetted if it is a W D C, because in W D C Pipes all the sweetness and mellowness of the genuine French briar is brought out by our own special seasoning process. Then, too, W D C Pipes are good to look at. The designs are pleasing and workmanship perfect. You’ll agree with us that our craftsmen are accomplishing their purpose—to make pipes that are without peers in all the world. Ask any good dealer. Be sure and look for the Triangle trademark. It’s a guarantee against cracking or burning through.

What Is Air?

BEFORE 1894 every chemist thought he knew what air is. "A mechanical mixture of moisture, nitrogen and oxygen, with traces of hydrogen and carbon dioxide," he would explain. There was so much oxygen and nitrogen in a given sample that he simply determined the amount of oxygen present and assumed the rest to be nitrogen.

One great English chemist, Lord Rayleigh, found that the nitrogen obtained from the air was never so pure as that obtained from some compound like ammonia. What was the "impurity"? In co-operation with another prominent chemist, Sir William Ramsay, it was discovered in an entirely new gas—"argon." Later came the discovery of other rare gases in the atmosphere. The air we breathe contains about a dozen gases and gaseous compounds.

This study of the air is an example of research in pure science. Rayleigh and Ramsay had no practical end in view—merely the discovery of new facts.

A few years ago the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company began to study the destruction of filaments in exhausted lamps in order to ascertain how this happened. It was a purely scientific undertaking. It was found that the filament evaporated—boiled away, like so much water.

Pressure will check boiling or evaporation. If the pressure within a boiler is very high, it will take more heat than ordinarily to boil the water. Would a gas under pressure prevent filaments from boiling away? If so, what gas? It must be a gas that will not combine chemically with the filament. The filament would burn in oxygen; hydrogen would conduct the heat away too rapidly. Nitrogen is a useful gas in this case. It does form a few compounds, however. Better still is argon. It forms no compounds at all.

Thus the modern, efficient, gas-filled lamp appeared, and so argon, which seemed the most useless gas in the world, found a practical application.

Discover new facts, and their practical application will take care of itself.

And the discovery of new facts is the primary purpose of the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company.

Sometimes years must elapse before the practical application of a discovery becomes apparent, as in the case of argon; sometimes a practical application follows from the mere answering of a "theoretical" question, as in the case of a gas-filled lamp. But no substantial progress can be made unless research is conducted for the purpose of discovering new facts.

MULLEN EDITOR OF YE DOMESDAY BOOK
Editors for Yearly Publication
Appointed by Foreign Service School.

Last week John J. Mullen was appointed editor of the Foreign Service Department of Ye Domesday Book. Mr. Mullen has had considerable experience in the newspaper field. His associate editors will be Russell G. Jones, William Kilcooin, Raymond T. Chaff, George Cremer, William Kane, Andrew Lane and H. Bentley McKenzie, all members of the class of 1921 of the Foreign Service School. Questionnaires dealing with information to be published in the book have been passed around to the students. Those who have not received them will find copies in the office of the regent. There will be a box in the office for returned questionnaires. The students are requested to fill out the questionnaires as soon as possible so that all the copy may be in early. It is the intention of the editors to have the book published before April 1.
