Permanent Officers Elected For '21—Commencement Ofi-cials Chosen.

The Senior Class of the college inaugurated a new custom last Friday by electing a permanent body of officers for '21. These officers hold their position for life, and are the governing council of the class in all alumni matters, and at the five-year reunions. Leo J. Casey, the former Editor-in-chief of the Hoya, was chosen as permanent president, with Thomas A. Kane, vice-president and Bernard L. Grove, Jr., secretary. The commencement officials were also elected at the meeting Friday. William S. Dudden was elected class marshal for the commencement exercises.

J. Henry Couchun was chosen as speaker at the Farewell Banquet. The custom is that every year one of the graduates shall deliver an informal valedictory to the undergraduates. James E. Sullivan was named as chair- man of Class Day Exercises. On the evening of class day the exercises are given in the quadrangle, and include the Colonnades Oration, the reading of the Class Ode, and the suit for possession of North Porch, besides many entertaining skits and short speeches. Mr. Sullivan is well known in Georgtown as an original entertainer, and it is assurred that the exercises will not lag with him running them.

WHITE AND GOULD, GREAT JURISTS.

DEAD—BOTH GEORGETOWN ALUMNI

Following closely the death of Chief Justice White, Georgetown lost another distinguished jurist, Justice Ashley M. Gould, Of Supreme Court of District, Passes Away.

Chief Justice Edward Douglass White, of the United States Supreme Court, who died last Thursday morning, April 19, mourned and honored by all his countrymen, was one of Georgetown's most prominent alumni. Before the Civil War, Chief Justice White was a student at the College and would have graduated with the class of 1860 had not the break between the North and South called him from Georgetown to enlist in the Confederate ranks.

During the past thirty years of his life, which he had spent for the most part in Washington, Chief Justice White was one of Georgetown's warmest friends, and took an active part in affairs of the University, especially in the Law School, in which he received the degree of Doctor of Laws. For several years Justice Gould has been a lecturer at the Law School, specializing on constitutional law, and insurance, and his value as a member of the faculty of this school has been recognized by all his students, and has been responsible for many students' interest in the study of law when he had been otherwise discouraged.

Justice Gould, who had been in his sixty-second year, had been confined to his home since Tuesday a week ago, but his illness was not considered serious until Thursday morning, when he sufered several fainting attacks. His death was due to acute dilation of the heart.

Justice Gould was born in Lower Horton, Nova Scotia, the son of Charles Edward and Mary Jane Gould. He graduated from Amherst College, receiving the degree of bachelor of arts in 1881 and later receiving the degree of LL. B. at Georgetown University in 1884. During that same year he was married to Margaret Gray, daughter of Horace J. Gray, of this city.

Soon after his marriage he was admitted to the bar and then took up residence in Maryland, being later elected to the House of Delegates of that State.

He was appointed an Assistant United States District Attorney here in 1898, serving under Henry E. Davis as District Attorney. In 1901 he succeeded Davis and remained in office until 1902. In the same year he was appointed to the bench of the District Circuit Court, where he served actively and faithfully until his death.

Word of Justice Gould's death cast a spell of gloom over the students of the Law School who had been individually received the degree of Doctor of Laws. For several years Justice Gould has been a lecturer at the Law School, specializing on constitutional law, and insurance, and his value as a member of the faculty of this school has been recognized by all his students, and has been responsible for many students' interest in the study of law when he had been otherwise discouraged.

GEORGETOWN SENDS 2 PRIESTS TO PHILIPPINES

Fathers Morning And Hohman Ordered To Far East Missions.

Following the announcement in a previous issue of the HOYA that a part of the faculty of Georgetown College may be sent to the Philippines to take over the missions and the various Jesuits missions in the islands, it was definitely stated that two members of the present faculty of the University will leave soon with permission after the closing exercises this June for Manila. They are the Rev. Arthur H. Hohman, S. J., professor of chemistry at the College, and the Rev. John A. Morning, S. J., Headmaster of the new Georgetown Preparatory School at Garret Park.

Father Hohman has been at Georgetown for the past year and his presence at the College next year will be greatly missed by all the students. Father Morning has been Headmaster of the new Prep School since its founding and has been one of the driving powers behind the new school that has made it the outstanding success that it is today.

It has been only recently that the Maryland-New York Province of the Society of Jesus has been given jurisdiction over the Philippine Islands. Most of the Jesuits will be sent from this Province next month to fill the numerous vacancies in the Islands and it was anticipated that several members of the faculty would be sent from Georgetown.

Since the Spanish have established many schools and colleges in the Islands, they cannot leave until the Americans take over the work. Therefore, about twenty-five men are being sent immediately to take over the College of Atenal at Manila, as the next semester begins on the first of June. It is not expected that the party will arrive there at that time, but they will take over the college as soon as they arrive.

About sixty men will be sent later to charge of the Province of St. Joseph at Vigan, the islands, and the many churches scattered throughout the Islands. The sending of these men will impose quite a strain on the Province, as all of their men are needed there. The Province also has charge of the Jamaica missions in the West Indies.

JUNIORS HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

'22 Has Lively Time At Hotel Lafayette—Le Gendre Honored.

The Junior class held its annual banquet at the Hotel Lafayette on Tuesday evening, May 17. "P. C." Lawtinger, president of the class, acted as toastmaster, and kept things humming from the beginning to the end of the banquet. Addresses were made by Father Toohey, Father Donovan, and Mr. Smith. George Brennan entertained his classmates with rare bits of humor. "Class Spirit" was the subject chosen by John McCann for his speech. Raymond Savage spoke on "First Impressions."

Bob LeGendre, the famous track star, who is a member of '22, was the guest of honor, and was presented with a traveling bag as a mark of the appreciation of the class for his performances this spring.

The committee in charge of the affair, composed of Frank Sullivan, John O'Rourke, and Charlie McNally, deserves much praise for the splendid way it handled the banquet.

JOTTINGS.

Copies of the proposed constitution for the Georgetown College Yard were distributed to the student body Sunday evening, under the direction of Father Murray McElhinney. President H. Murray Murray McElhinney informed the student body that the Faculty and the Student Council had already sanctioned the proposed constitution and that within a few weeks it would be submitted to the student body for their approval or disapproval. He urged the members of the student body to give thoughtful consideration to the proposed document which will regulate the handling of the various classes of the college and expressed his wish that it would meet with their approval.

On the conviction of Arnstein, a remarkable tribute was paid Judge Gould by the defendant. Rising from his place at the bar, Arnstein said:

"Justice Gould, I have attended many criminal trials, but I want to say that I never knew one to be more fairly tried."

Besides his widow, Justice Gould is survived by one son, Ashley M. Gould, Jr., of California, and three daughters, Mrs. Gordon Starrow, Mrs. Samuel Queboda, and Mrs. M. Anderson, all of Washington.

Chief Justice White Dies

entire ceremony. Mgr. Lee, rector of the church, celebrated a requiem mass.
A group of clergy, including Mgr.
Banzo, the papal delegate, gathered at the altar, where the casket was banked with flowers.

A simple service, Mgr. Lee officiating, was held at the home of the late Chief Justice, 1117 Rhode Island Avenue
Northwest, before the services at St.
Matthew's, which started at 10 o'clock.
Only Mrs. White, members of the Supreme Court and a few relatives were present. The procession to the church was headed by Mgr. Lee.

Hundreds of admirers waited outside of St. Matthew's as the procession arrived. After the procession passed inside, committees of Congress were ad-mittted. Senators Lodge and Underwood headed the Senate committee, which included Senators Ranisdel, Brossard, Nelson and Overman. Speakers Gellott headed the House committee, consisting of Representatives Mondell, Garrett, Voyleton and Thomas, and members of the Louisiana delegation.

Pershing and justices of the District Supreme Court also were present.

Twenty-five policemen were busy directing the traffic in front of the church and in restraining the throng as hundreds tried to gain admission.

President and Mrs. Harding, who arrived a little before 10 o'clock, accompanied by Col. C. O. Sherrill and George B. Christian, Jr., did not accompany the body to the cemetery.

Several members of the faculties of the different schools of the University together with representatives of the student bodies of the College and the Law School were present at the funeral services.

Last Thursday, the day of the Chief Justice's death, both Houses of Congress adjourned at noon immediately following the roll call, and all courts were suspended throughout the District out of respect for the dead jurist.

The stream of messages attesting Justice White's high place in the legal fraternity continued to pour into the Supreme Court from men of the law throughout the nation. Hardly an organized society of lawyers had failed to add its share to the flow of tribute and affection when the day ended.

At the residence, too, messages of sympathy piled up through the hours from every part of the world, but relatives of the late jurist did not make these public, perhaps out of respect to the privacy of the man whose virtues the messages extolled.

As last arrangements for the funeral were completed, the President's orders were filtering over the world by cable to bring to half-mast for thirty days flags that fly over American diplomatic and consular missions. Already the orders had been flashed to army and navy bases and the navy ships at sea that would bring the colors to the world-old sign of mourning, and with these went instructions that a funeral salute of seven guns should boom at the funeral hour.

THE HOYA "ORGANIZATION"

The professional departments of Georgetown University have long been in need of some sort of organization which would bring the students more closely in contact with each other. The Georgetown Union, which was recently organized, is serving that purpose admirably. As it continues in existence it will grow larger and cement more firmly the bonds between these schools.

Within the different departments themselves, however, there is certainly a lack of organization which should be remedied. This is largely due to the absence of campus life and the short amount of time the students have to devote to the activities of the school. The Law School, for example, holds classes from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Practically all the students are working during the day, and consequently must have their evenings for study. This leaves no time for other activities.

Due to these facts, the students find it extremely difficult to become acquainted with their fellow students.

The HOYA has a plan which it wishes to submit that is calculated to remove these difficulties. It consists in the students of the Law School forming an Association of the Student Body. The Foreign Service, Medical, and Dental Schools should do likewise. The end of this association would be twofold. Its primary object would be for the betterment of the student body in general. Secondly, it would tend to enlarge the capacity of the individual to receive the benefits of the University.

This could be accomplished in various ways. In the plan we propose all the students from the departments would be eligible for membership. The Association of the faculty would hold meetings once a month, at which all the members would be present. This could be brought about by making the meetings attractive to the men. Something in the form of an entertainment should be offered. Here the men would meet socially, and instead of being slightly acquainted with a few members of their own class, would at the end of the year know intimately all the men in the school.

The benefits of such an association would not stop here. They would have the leaders, who have looked into the needs of the departments and the University. Thus they could make arrangements to receive the incoming classes each year. They could impose freshmen rules on the new men, which is now being needed. They could care of the housing of the students. This is an important factor, as comparatively few men belong to fraternities. They could elect a committee to consult with committees from the Associations of other departments on plans for the University Prom.

Countless other things could be accomplished by such an organization. In time its power and prestige would grow and more and more activities would be intrusted to its care.

It is not too late for such an undertaking to be started this year, but it should be considered seriously by the members of the "down-town schools," and they should start work on it as soon as they return in the fall.

EXPLANATION.

At various times during the year reports have been brought to us that the students and faculty were dissatisfied with the treatment they have received at the hands of the HOYA. This seems a bit unfair to us, as we fail to see where the fault is.

Several men from the law school were members of this year's staff. They have done some excellent work, handing in articles both in quantity and quality of news value. It is impossible, however, for two or three men, who have various other demands on their time, to cover such a vast amount of territory as is taken in by the HOYA.

We feel confident that there would have been no such complaints if the students realized that the reason they were not allotted more space was simply because they have neglected to hand in copy.

It is impossible for the HOYA to keep a man at the law school to get news. The members of the staff can not afford the time taken up from their studies. Consequently the only solution is to have a reasonable number of men who are attending classes there and are willing to do the work, connected with the HOYA staff.

It is our intention next year to install a system which we feel sure will bring results. It consists in having a law editor, who will have men from each class and probably one man from the various fraternity houses and clubs from the law school.

Then if there is any error made in the write-up or any complaint to be made as to the space given, the men who feel that they have been slighted can go directly to the man in charge of that particular department and demand an explanation.

It is our hope that this system will alleviate the difficulties that have been prevalent during the past year.

COURTESY.

Last week a rather unusual thing occurred. The Virginia Military Institute baseball team was playing a match on the Varsity courts. Simultaneously with this the Freshmen baseball team was playing a game with Gonzaga, on the Prep field, which is directly east of the courts.

On one occasion the Gonzaga backstop, the court.

On one occasion Gonzaga backstop, in an endeavor to catch a foul ball ran onto the court. Aside from interfering with the play, his spikes left deep holes in the court.

This is bad, as it leaves a poor impression on the members of the visiting team. We feel certain, would he only too possible for the business department of the business department of the University Prom.

It is hoped that those who are in a position to get in touch with graduates of Georgetown during the summer, who are not already subscribers to the HOYA, will do all in their power to induce them to send in their subscription. For this purpose, the HOYA is trying to obtain a number of the old grads. They came through in good shape, a great number of them sending in their subscription.

The HOYA is grateful for this support. It makes the publishing of a better paper possible.

In view of the fact that it will be impossible for the business department of the HOYA to get in touch with each individual of the alumni subscriptions which have been on our list for the past year will be automatically continued until further notice, unless we are notified to the contrary.

FRATERNITY PAYS HONOR TO JURIST

Chief Justice White Mourned As Most Distinguished Of Delta Theta Phi.

Of the organizations that were deeply affected by the death of Chief Justice White, none was more severely grieved than the Delta Theta Phi law fraternity, of which the Chief Justice was a member. His association with the members of the fraternity was of a most intimate character, especially with those of this city. The Georgetown University chapter of the fraternity was known as the Edward Douglass White Senate, being named in honor of the late Chief Justice.

At the funeral mass in St. Matthew’s Church Saturday, the floral contributions from the national senate of the fraternity at Cleveland and those from the local chapter were readily noticed, the silent tribute of the fraternity being impressively conveyed by the fraternity Greek letters woven into the massive floral offering from the Washington chapter.

Chief Justice White had been honored by Delta Theta Phi more than any other member of its brotherhood. In 1914 the supreme senate passed resolutions at its annual convention, by which the Chief Justice was presented with the diamond crowned badge of the order—a significant honor, there being but two other badges of its kind in existence. On the occasion of his birthday in November of that year the badge was presented to him, together with a copy of the resolutions engraved on a solid gold plate and framed. On the same day every chapter of the fraternity in the country sent to the Chief Justice a bouquet of flowers.

Since his death, the picture of the Chief Justice, which hangs in the local chapter house at 1 Dupont Circle, has been draped in black. The picture itself is indicative of the sincerity which characterized the life work of the deceased, for on it he had written, “That the society and its members may not only have personal success in life but may keep alive in the hearts of others the love for our constitutional institutions is the wish of E. D. White.”

The following delegation represented the fraternity at the funeral: Joseph Leo Hurley, S. Duvall Schell, John J. Courtney, and W. Jarrel Smith.

Hyman Loses His First Game Of Season—Homer In Ninth Wins For Penn.

Playing the first game of the season away from home, Georgetown's baseball team went down to defeat at the hands of the University of Pennsylvania Saturday afternoon on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, by the score of 9 to 7. Sam Hyman, on the mound for the first time in his career, lost his first game of the year after seven successive victories piloted to an additional victory, but was not in his usual good form, issuing four bases on balls and allowing ten hits. In the early innings of the game he was touched up frequently, but from the third to the ninth Sam tightened up, and during those innings but three hits were made off his delivery.

With two men out and second and third bases occupied with Georgetown runners, the Pennsylvania captain, hit the ball to deep left field for a double header. Continuing the game of the three runs thus tallied gave the game to Penn over Georgetown by the score of 9 to 7. It was Hyman's first defeat since April 1 of last year, when in the second game of the double header Cornell defeated the Hilltoppers by the score of 5 to 4.

Del Bisio turned in the most spectacular play of the afternoon in the ninth inning, when he made a daring and winding catch of a fly ball, while on the full run at his shoe tops. In making the catch "Del" fell headlong, rolled over twice and came up with the ball in his glove. A runner was on base at the time and Georgetown was one run to the good, and had the ball got by him it would have been good. Bisio would have brought home the tying tally, and, in all probability, would have given the Hilltoppers the game.

But was weak at the bat. He robbed Captain Harvey of a homer in the seventh inning by taking the ball just as it was going over his shoulder and while running at top speed. Murphy was robbed of a hit in the very first inning by Monradian, who made a pretty catch of his fly ball of the afternoon.

GEORGETOWN DROPS GAME TO QUAKERS

The team got off to a bad start on its road trip by losing to Penn, but it is indicative of no great weakness in the club. Georgetown still has chance to redeem herself against the remaining teams on the schedule.

Captain Bill Kenyon's absence was severely felt in Saturday's game. The team seemed to lack the fighting spirit which is characteristic of it when Kenyon is behind the bat.

Art Reynolds had a good day at bat and averaged .500 for his afternoon's work. "Specs" scored the Hilltoppers' first run in the third. His single in the fifth scored Sheldon and again in the ninth he scored Shedly with a safe hit.

Jack Flavin also had a good day with the willow, getting two hits in three at bats. Jack did not have a chance in the field.

Sam Hyman lost his first game since the afternoon of April 1, 1920, when Cornell defeated Georgetown by the score of 5 to 4. Sam has an enviable record and back that could hardly be equalled by any college pitcher today.

Fittin Field, Holy Cross' home diamond, should have a record crowd on hand at Saturday's game with Georgetown. Every ticket for the game has been sold. Worcester's baseball fandom turns out strong for the games and they should be given a rare treat when the Hilltoppers meet the Worcester Collegians. Either Hyman or Bissolette will oppose Horan, and it is to be hoped that Bill Kenyon will be in shape for the game.

Boston College, judging by its showing against Holy Cross last Saturday, should not furnish very stiff opposition to the Hilltoppers on Memorial Day.

Summary: Two-base hits—Larsen, Sullivan, Tom Fitzgerald will wear the Georgetown colors at the big classic of the college track season.

The mile run should be the big event of the Intercollegiates and with such men as Connolly, Campbell of Yale, Irish of Cornell, Bob Crawford of Lafayette, and Larry Brown of Penn entered, the race should be a thriller. Jimmy has been training hard for the race and although several of the above mentioned runners have done under 4:25 for the distance, Jimmy is expected to come through a winner. In his recent three trials on the Georgetown track Connolly did under two minutes for the half-mile, and in the mile turned in a performance of 4:46 without any opposition. In the 220-yard hurdles and with such a strong field against him Jimmy should give a good account of himself.

Captain LeGendre will be entered in the field events and should earn a place in each event. In the broad jump Ned Gourdin of Harvard will furnish stiff opposition to Bob, as last Saturday in the Harvard-Princeton dual meet Gourdin set a new record with a jump of 24 feet, 6 inches, which was just two inches short of the American record set by Sol Butler of Dubuque, Iowa, in the Olympic trials last July.

Tom Fitzgerald is expected to run the half-mile and although he will have to compete against Campbell of Yale and Earl Eby of Penn he should show to good advantage. Tom's showing in the half-mile run in the South Atlantic championships stumped him as a game runner.

A COLLEGE man may not now know his choice of his future life-work, but he knows that he has in him the seeds of success. And he knows that the big rewards in this life go to the man who sells, for he hears and knows of men who are earning from $5,000 to $30,000 and more a year selling. He may want to become a salesman. He is a man of promise—a man that every one knows will make a great success in life if he is given the chance.

We Want to Give Him a Chance.

If you are that man write to us. We have a proposition to make that may be the means of determining your future. But write now—before you forget it—and remember, we are just as anxious to hear from you as you can possibly be to connect yourself with this great organization, now in its forty-second year.

Taking up the subject of the earnings of life insurance agents generally, in comparison with men engaged in other occupations, we cite the experience of college men as tabulated by a Yale University class. A class which graduated a few years ago published six years later a table showing the average income earned by the individual members of the class during the first five years after graduation, according to their several callings. The incomes of life insurance agents during the first year were much better than those in any other calling, due in part to the fact that they were ready to begin earning at once, without capital or previous training. Below are the statistics as given out by a Yale University class:
