Captain Flavin's Team Displays Exceptional Basket Accuracy.

In a speedy display of clever floor work and passing the Georgetown University five decisively defeated the Lebanon Valley baskers 36 to 19, Friday evening in Ryan gymnasium. Capt. Flavin's team was in the lead from the opening play and at no time in the contest was the opponent from Pennsylvania dangerous.

In the opening minutes of the fray the Blue and Gray quintet ran up a big lead and maintained it throughout the contest. In the closing minutes of the last half an entire second team was rushed into the fray and succeeded both in holding the Lebanon team and in amusing a few points to their own credit.

Homan, left guard, and Metoxin, right forward, were the luminaries for the Pennsylvania quintet and played well throughout the entire entertainment. Otherwise the team passed poorly and was unable to cage the ball at opportune moments. They missed several easy shots and displayed bad judgment by trying several pot shots from the side line.

The entire first team of the Hilltoppers' aggregation had a field day in the basket shooting department. Each of the five had at least one goal from scrimmage. O'Keefe dropped in four before he was replaced by Joyce in the last half of the game. Flavin, Zazzali, and Carney all contributed three baskets apiece from the floor. Florence sunk three from the sidelines. He played a fine passing game and was at one end of nearly every pass made. Zazzali tossed in six from the free-try mark and Carney contributed two points out of three chances.

The game taken as a whole was a good test for the varsity and gave several of the second string men a fine chance to display their wares in a real game. They played well and from present indications many of them will be first-stringers in another season.

MULDEY VS. HEALY.

In a closely contested battle between the Melody and Mulledy quintets, the former succeeded in defeating the Mulledy boys by a score of 25 to 16. The teams were evenly matched and many times during the struggle the fast Mulledy team called for the bulwark of the fighting Healy team. The final period found the teamwork of the Healy men in full swing and when the whistle sounded they were still on the long end.

The dormitory boys met defeat when their rivals, the Ryantines, ran up a score of 52 to 2. They were evenly matched, played at top form, and the result was inevitable. The Blimp team had everything working for them. At no time did they defeat them by the high score of 52 to 2. The North team had everything working for them. At no time did they defeat them. The final period found the Healy and Mulledy quintets, the former making a large effort to gain victory. Each side played with excellent teamwork. TheRFC

G. U. RIFLE TEAM WINS

Georgetown's sharpshooters had no difficulty in winning 13 to 16, but they also shot the first stage of the annual National Rifle Association match. The formation of competition calls for serious work in two positions. The Blue and Gray target men shot even better in this match.

By a special arrangement with the rifle club of M. I. T., the targets fired upon by Georgetown and M. I. T. in the first stage of the N. R. A. intercollegiate match were to be held the record targets to decide the winner. Georgetown has two teams in the N. R. A. matches, so it was agreed that the scores made by C. McDonough (on team No. 1) R. C. McCann, G. J. C. Guilfoyle, W. Saffarrams, and J. N. Doran (the last four on team No. 2) would count against M. I. T. According to the scoring, the record was as follows:

New York A. C. Champions to Run.

With the Georgetown Indoor Games scarcely more than a week distant, interest grows in the annual contest. The usual indoor events, open fifty-yard dash, open quarter mile, half mile, mile, and mile and a quarter, will furnish a considerable amount of excitement, while the sprint series between McCallister, Lever, Lenox, LeConte, and others, will furnish a number of hair-raising finishes.

To bring out latent talent among the school boys of this section, a 1,000-yard scholastic race has been added to the usual 50-yard and 600-yard school boy events. Relays of various distances between school, college and club teams will fill out the program.

The New York A. C.'s national championship event—one mile—will run against a combined college team. Last year the New York team won the championship one mile four will run against school, college and club teams will fill out the program. Combined colleges may be composed of Herlihy, McNulty, Bownes, Higgins and Kelly, while that of the combined colleges may be composed of Herlihy, Koppisch, and probably consist of Wefers, Sellers, Higgins and Kelly. The team will not be probably confined to practice games Friday night and at the Wilco A. C. games Saturday night. In the former he started out fast and scored a handcrack in a handcrack 1,000-yard race, in which handcracks were given as high as fifty-five yards. Sixty-five minutes started all the competitors in a handcrack race, and first three men to finish started sixty yards ahead of Connolly, who failed to place.

Saturday night he competed in a 600-yard race against Jake Driscoll, Hellfrich, Koppisch, Eby and others. Jimmy was not in his distance, finishing in a tie for fifth with William of the Y. A. C.

The race was won by Koppisch over Hellfrich and Driscoll. Time, 1:23.

Heide Cages Seven Field Goals as Prep Triumphs, 37-25.

The basketball combination representing the Maryland School for the Deaf was no match for the Georgetown Prep here this afternoon, the embryo Hilltoppers winning to the tune of 37 to 25. The Prep were always in the lead, having a 10-point margin at half time, 24 to 14, the two teams virtually matching points during the first twenty minutes of play.

Heide, with seven floor goals, was the heavy point getter for the home team, while Winzbrecher took similar honors for the visitors. In fact, he and Bownes accounted for all of the Marylanders' points, the latter capping four goals from scrimmage with a long two-point shot, counting eight and adding another point in three attempts from the line of freedom.

This ends the Prep's last appearance in the junior basketball league this season.

ation, as it will give each individual in the cast an opportunity to grasp his character more fully.

It is the intention of the Mask and Bauble Club to secure patrons for this production. The financing will not be as difficult as that of last year's production of "Julius Caesar," but every effort is required to make a success from this angle. An admission will be charged. The last production in Gaston Hall, "Twelfth Night," drew one of the largest crowds, and it is expected that the audience will be fully as great this year.

The vogue for Shakespeare was never more evident than now. The interest in the works of The Bard has varied depending on whether or not the audience present was most intense. "The Merchant of Venice" is one of the most interesting and gripping of Shake- speare's plays, and is certain to prove a worthy vehicle for the presentation of the college society.

Visiting Scholar Lectures on Medieval Art and Its Symbolism.

Medieval Art and its Symbolism was the interesting theme upon which the Reverend Father Wilfrid Parsons, S. J., of Woodstock, focused his lecturing powers last Monday afternoon in Gaston Hall. With illustrations portraying a wealth of instruction he described and explained in detail the symbolic beauty of medieval art and gave to his enthusiastic audience a better appreciation of its motif.

"The architectural beauty of medieval art, declared Father Parsons, is another beauty in the sculpture and stained glass windows. The purpose of it is to teach Christian doctrine. This it does by symbols. Symbolism is a language; the statues and figures are words and the porch and windows are sentences and phrases. The knowledge of symbolism enables us to read this language. Therefore, the art is not pictorial, but is representational. The motive, the priest explained, is not to bring out physical qualities but to impart to the beholder an idea.

In illustrating, the lecturer dwelt mainly upon three points: The Life of St. Francis, the Statue of the Virgin and Child, and The Angelic Harp. Each of these points was shown and a symbol which interpreted the idea taken from the Old and New Testament. The conclusion, Father Parsons informed, is that people, who used to think of church in those times gathered from what they saw on the walls and windows an exact knowledge of the whole Christian economy.

Next Monday afternoon the Reverend Father Thomas J. Gasson, of Georgetown, will lecture. His theme will be on "Galileo: A Story of Trial and Trium-

A MATTER OF GREAT CONCERN.

Contrary to expectations, the Athletic Board did not select a coach for Varsity football at Georgetown at its regular meeting Monday. Last Sunday, it being deemed wise to leave the matter under consideration for another few days.

The next meeting of the Council will be held Saturday and by that time it is hoped that Georgetown will have officially named a coach of football for next year. The postponement, although intensifying the interest, indicates that the members of the board are giving the matter much thought and deliberation, and it is gratifying to know that things are being conducted in the right manner.

In the event that a selection is made next Saturday, the new mentor will have but a short time to prepare for the spring practice, which will begin at Georgetown for the first time this year. It has become a popular conditioning season in many colleges, although many would have us believe that the fall alone is suited for this work.

The Hoyas are anxious to have a coach selected soon as possible, that all arrangements for spring work, etc., can be made without delay, and it is our sincere hope that matters will be settled by the next meeting. Jackie Maloney is the choice of the Hoyas and we are confident that the great quarterback and auxiliary coach of Blue and Gray teams will not be overlooked when the solos get together.

A few years ago we hoped for a big schedule and it was a favorite cry around Washington that Georgetown needed a list of big teams. The Hilltoppers will meet some of the best teams in the East this fall and now that the schedule has been attended to, we feel that it is of greater importance to have a coach that can mold a team for the long grind. Without the proper coaching the great work of schedule making will be of no avail. We must have Maloney.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Have you seen the new trophy case in the Hirst Library? It satisfies a long-felt want at Georgetown, and being ideally situated is an addition that is of the greatest importance to have a coach that can mold a team for the long grind. Without the proper coaching the great work of schedule making will be of no avail. We must have Maloney.

Two titles gained by Georgetown's representatives in the track rialto last year will hang in the balance Saturday of Loren Murchison in the 220, Butler, a quartet are such men as Jones conqueror country in the Illinois A. C. On this certainty that a new world's record will be made for with such combinations as Ryders' combination of Boston College men. Little regard is shown for the ideals which we could aid without much effort.

Circumstances are odious in this case, which we could aid without much effort. Not that there is any great need of reformation. But general appearances seem to indicate normal temperance in smoking and other petty pastimes. It certainly is to be commended and we hope that every one may meet with success in his own little school of discipline.

HANGING IN THE BALANCE.

Two titles gained by Georgetown's representatives in the track rialto last winter will hang in the balance Saturday night and it will require unusual prowess on the part of the Blue and Gray to success fully weather the storm of opposition. At Buffalo the medley distance relay team will be called upon to defend its national championship over the one and seven-eighths miles distance and in Boston the one-mile relay quartet will attempt to wrest Catholic College honors in this specialty.

With two teams competing on the same night and two titles to be defended, the task is no easy one. To again win national honors Georgetown will have to face one of the greatest teams in the country in the Illinois A. C. On this quartet are such men as Jones conqueror country in the Illinois A. C. On this certainty that a new world's record will be made for with such combinations as Ryders' combination of Boston College men. Little regard is shown for the ideals which we could aid without much effort.

Circumstances are odious in this case, which we could aid without much effort. Not that there is any great need of reformation. But general appearances seem to indicate normal temperance in smoking and other petty pastimes. It certainly is to be commended and we hope that every one may meet with success in his own little school of discipline.

The beautiful Cardinal O'Connell trophy, one of the best captured by Georgetown tracksters last season, will be the prize for which the one-mile relay team will fight for on its northern trip. The Blue and Gray, defeated at the B. A. A. games by Holy Cross, will have to show its heels to the Worcesterites and Jack Ryder's combination of Boston College runners. Fordham will also be entered and the race will decide the Catholic College championship and the location of the Cardinal O'Connell trophy for the coming year.

Georgetown's representatives in these races will be in fine fettle for the respective clashes, as the new board track has been a great benefit to their training. Yet it would be foolhardy to be too sanguine over the outlook for an increase in conditions reveals the fact that it will be a difficult matter to kill two birds on the same side. The one-mile team will be without the services of Hass, who is to run the quarter at Buffalo, and the fact that O'Byrne has been ill will also hinder chances of a double killing.

We have established a great reputation in the track world thus far this year, and it is our belief that we will maintain it in Saturday's engagements. Circumstances are odious in this case, with two meets on the same evening; nevertheless, we expect that our representatives will figure very prominently in the final tabulation.

Perhaps you do not know who it is that has been assisting Coach O'Reilly in his track coaching and lending a helpful hand in managing the destinies of our track team at such times as the Silver Fox has had to attend to basketball or track affairs elsewhere. None other than James V. Mulligan, former Hilltop track star and one of the hardest working alumni Georgetown has. Last year "Jim" was the track team during the illness of Coach O'Reilly and did great work. Might be a good idea if some of our alumni, of whom we hear very little, would give Mr. Thomas T. All States and Insular Possessions take notice! Georgetown has had the largest Law School enrollment in the United States since 1911. See the Carnegie Foundation Report, "Training for the Public Profession of the Law," 1922-1925, enrollment is 1831. Georgetown a National Institution! Every State in the Union has at least one representative, and the same is true of most of the Insular Possessions.

Why? Read the History of Georgetown School of Law—Her Faculty and Graduates.

A Law School Under Ideal Conditions.

The City of Washington, the seat of government, the location of the supreme legislative body and the supreme judicial tribunal of the Nation, with its unequalled libraries and records, is the logical center of education in all branches of learning, particularly in law. The Senate and the House of Representatives, and the Supreme Court of the United States are in session throughout the academic year. Students have thus an exceptional opportunity to observe the work of both the legislative and judicial branches of the Government. Oral arguments are, of course, addressed to the Supreme Court of the United States, in addition to the submission of printed briefs, and the court follows the custom of announcing its opinions orally.

The student may thus hear the discussions of the Courts of the District of Columbia, who have held office during the past fifteen years, have been members of the Faculty, and two of them have been graduates of the School. In the same period twelve Assistant United States Attorneys for the District of Columbia have been graduates of the School. The Faculty consists of forty-one members. There are six full-time, resident professors, who teach the greater part of the courses on substantive law. The School aims to increase the number of these full-time professors. Judges and practicing lawyers instruct in evidence, pleading, practice and procedure.

Georgetown a School of Highest Standards.

The School is registered as an approved law school under the Regents Revised Rules of the State of New York, which insures standard requirements for admission to the School, and requirements in the matter of instruction in law. Eighty-six of the one hundred and forty-seven law schools in the United States are registered under the same rules. The diploma of the School permits to practice in the State of Texas, a privilege enjoyed by only eleven other law schools in the United States.

In February, 1923, the American Bar Association called a meeting of representatives of Bar Associations from all the States and of Boards of Bar Examiners to consider recommendations for the advancement of requirements for admission to law schools. The conference decided that two years of college work should be required for admission to law school. In accordance with the decision of the conference, at which the School was represented, the Faculty decided to require college work of applicants for admission as candidates for the law degree. In order that needed adjustments might be made, it was decided not to put this requirement into effect until October, 1923, when one year of college work will be required for admission, two years of college work being required for admission beginning October 1, 1925. For some time the conference agreed that graduation from a high school is not sufficient to prepare the student in the most thorough way for the exacting methods of study now demanded in the best law schools, and that the complex development of law requires a longer period of preparation for its study and practice, than is afforded by graduation from a high school. The student who has had all or part of college will be more mature when he begins the study of law. Most of all he will have had the benefit of the elevating influences and associations of college life, valuable elements in the formation of character.
RYAN HALL WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Enthusiasm Runs High as North is Defeated.

In one of the most brilliant games ever played in the Ryan Gym, the light Ryan quint triumphed over their larger rivals from the North. From the first whistle until the last, both teams fought hard. The first half, which was very fast, found the “Northmen” trailing 18-8, the smaller men outplaying their opponents in every department of the game. Both sides missed numerous chances to score, but the strong defensive work of the Ryan guards forced the Northmen to take long shots and their success is shown by the score.

The second half found North pressing their opponents and successive field goals by Werts, Smith and Malley put North in the running again. North did not, however, overcome or tie their opponents with the score 18-16. Haggerty, the Ryan guard, sunk one of the most beautiful baskets ever made on Ryan court, giving Ryan a 4-point margin. This lead was increased when Dailey and O'Shea each made one from mid-court. However, the brilliant uphill battle which the Northmen exhibited brought applause from the crowd and showed the courage and fighting spirit which characterized the champions of last year.

With three minutes to play and North trailing by two points, the crowd went wild with enthusiasm, and swayed by the fighting courage of the Northmen, clamored for them to tie the score. But Ryan, heretofore unable to penetrate the strengthened defense of North, was not to be outdone, and as the tying try rolled around North's basket, one of the Ryan guards forced the Northmen to fight more desperately, but despite the efforts of the Northmen to tie the score, Ryan, however, overcome or tie their opponents, and the final score was 22-18.

The summary:

Ryan: Dailey (4), Shea (3), Haggerty (2), Smith, Malley, Werts
North: Paquet (4), Smith, Malley (3), Dailey (2), O'Shea (2), Werts

Gahan Elected President

The last meeting of the Philodemic Society was held for the purpose of electing officers for the second semester. The results of the balloting showed the following elections: John Gahan, President; Thomas Petzold, Vice-President; John Keating, Recording Secretary; Thomas Corbett, Corresponding Secretary; Joseph Charles, Treasurer; Joseph McNamara, Censor.

The next debate of the society will take place two weeks hence, upon the proposition: "Resolved, That President Harding’s proposed legislation to prohibit strikes in railroad service should be enacted." The affirmative will be upheld by Mr. Charles and Mr. Quigley, while the negative will be defended by Mr. G. L. Burke and Mr. William Daly.

The probable date of the annual Merrick Debate is Sunday evening, February 25th, but this has not been definitely decided as yet.

WHITE SOCIETY.

At the last meeting of the White Debating Society, an extempore debate was held, the question being, "Resolved, That France should withdraw from the Ruhr district." The affirmative was upheld by Mr. Lyons and Mr. Cashman. The negative by Mr. McLarney and Mr. O’Leary. Mr. Lyons was chosen as the best speaker. This debate marked the inauguration of the new plan to stimulate extempore speaking. After each debate and subsequent discussion, a vote will be taken on the best extempore speaker of the evening, and that speaker will be credited with one tally. At the end of the year the member having the greatest number of tallies to his credit will be awarded a suitable trophy.
