NEW DORMITORY AT GEORGETOWN

G. U. WINS THIRD VICTORY BY BEATING FORDHAM 28-13

DR. McELWEE BEGINS LECTURE SERIES

Imposing Structure Expected to be Completed by Next October.

With the five million dollar George town University Endowment Fund movement now well under way, definite arrangements are being completed for the erection of the new dormitory building which includes the plans for a Greater Georgetown. This will be the magnificent new dormitory hall for the students at the Hilltop which will be located on what is now the Varsity Field. Permission from Rome is all that at the present time prevents the immediate laying of the foundations, and with the expected receipt of this permission, operations upon the new building will be commenced at once. It is hoped that the first stone will be laid in charge to begin construction work, including breaking the ground and laying the cornerstone some time before the cold weather sets in. According to construction engineers, six months will be required for the complete erection of the hall, so that the actual building will be started at about the middle of March. It is intended that the hall will be ready for occupancy by the students not later than the beginning of October.

QUANTICO MARINES HERE SATURDAY.

The strong eleven of the Quantico Marines are the opponents for Saturday's game at American League Park. This contest promises to be one of the most interesting of the season for the Georgetown team. The Marine line-up contains many former college stars now officers in the Marines, and well experienced in football tactics. One of the features of the game will be the cheering of the Quantico contingent, which has the reputation of having one of the best organized cheering sections in the country. About 5,000 rooters for the visitors are expected to be on hand to support their team.

Georgetown journeyed to New York and the Polo Grounds last Saturday to administer to Fordham their football defeat of the year. When the final whistle blew the scoreboard high over centerfield bleachers showed: Georgetown, 28; Fordham, 13. That doesn't tell the whole story. The game was one of surprises from the first kick-off and was marked by bundles all the way through, a good game from the disinterested spectator's point of view, a good fight on the part of Fordham, but a game in which the flashes of Georgetown's true power were few and far between. The redeeming quality for the Blue and Gray was the way in which they followed the ball. In the first quarter when Fordham seemed unable to hold the pigskin a blue jersey was always on the spot ready to fall on the ball. Two of these were turned into scores that in later in the game contributed very materially to the peace of mind of the Georgetown rooters on the north side of the field.

The stonewall defense put up by the Fordham line in the first ball of the game proved a stumbling block for the Blue and Gray backs, but they were able to get the ends for early gains at many times during the contest. In this department the open field work of Lowe was the feature. He showed a speed and elusiveness that baffled the Maroon team in a way that gained many yards for the Blue and Gray. Flavin consistently outpointed Meyers, who did the booting for Fordham, and his scoring spirals caused the opposing side the man considerable trouble. The work of the ends, Snell and Florence, was also brilliant, and both showed an ability to spear forward passes from any angle, even though entirely surrounded by Maroon players. The most concerted action on the part of Georgetown came in the third quarter, when the team staged a steady 50-yard march down the field for a touchdown that was earned in every detail. Kenyon scored the last three points for the Blue and Gray by placing a well-directed dropkick from the 35-yard line.

Details of the game bring out interesting features in the play of both teams. Fordham won the toss and elected to defend the north goal. Kenyon kicked off to Fallon on the Maroon's 18-yard line. The next play began with a pass from the Blue and Gray which was forced to kick to Kenyon on and Malley made small gains and Flavin's 30-yard punt from the 40-yard line. Malley made small gains and Flavin kicked the ball going over the Fordham goal. Kenyon next kicked off and the Blue and Gray made the first costly fumble for Fordham, and Werts recovered on his opponent's 15-yard line. Kenyon gained 6 yards, Flavin 4, and Malley placed the ball on the 2-yard line. Byrne plunged for the touchdown. Malley dropped a kick for the point after touchdown.

Meyers kicked off to Flavin, who, aided by Georgetown's flying wedge, ran the ball back 23 yards before he was downed by Smeden. Kenyon failed to gain, but Flavin went around Healey's end for 15 yards. Georgetown was unable to gain in the next two plays and Meyers kicked to Boutot received his 5-yard line. Meyers kicked to his own 35-yard line and Fordham was penalized for faking on the line before a Georgetown man had touched it. Flavin's attempted drop-kick fell short and it was Fordham's ball on their own 20-yard line. Meyers attempted a kick, but it was blocked by Butler. The Maroons recovered, only to lose it again on another fumble. Snell grabbed the ball, and managed to squirm over the line for a touchdown. Flavin failed to kick goal for the extra point. Meyers kicked off to Byrne, who ran the ball back well. Byrne again took the ball and gained 8 yards around the end. The quarter ended with the ball on Georgetown's 42-yard line.

With the start of the second quarter McDonough fumbled Flavin's punt and Kenyon, scooping up the ball, raced 12 yards for a touchdown. This touchdown required just two minutes of play. Meyers again kicked off to Byrne, who made 30 yards this time before he was downed. Three attempts at right tackle failed and Flavin was forced to kick. There was another exchange of kicks and the ball returned to Georgetown on the 40-yard line. Flavin fumbled and Healey was able to carry the ball to the 5-yard line. Fordham was penalized 15 yards for slugging, but this failed to stem their rush and in the next play Meyers gained the whole 20 yards needed for a touchdown. Meyers failed to kick the goal.

After the kick-off Flavin fumbled one of Meyers' punts and Fordham rushed the ball to the 2-yard line before they were stopped on the last down. Flavin parted out of danger. The half ended with the score Georgetown, 19; Fordham, 6.

Flavin returned the kick-off 22 yards, and forced his way 12 very yards before being stopped on the 30. Lowe and Flavin were thrown for losses and a forward pass from Flavin was intercepted on the 50-yard line. Kenyon attempted a fumble for the Blue and Gray and Smeden gained 12 yards. The play was not allowed. An exchange of punts followed, giving the ball to Georgetown on their own 37-yard line.

Dean of F. S. Department to Speak on Art and Architecture.

Dr. Roy S. McElwee, Dean of the University's Foreign Service Department, has commenced his series of Wednesday lectures on the "Appreciation of Art and Architecture," which will continue throughout the year. These lectures are being given primarily to supply a cultural course for Foreign Service students; but the popularity of the subject has influenced the department to declare the course open to the general public and a considerable number of non-students have attended the opening lectures.

The lectures begin with the consideration of the origin of Art, taking in the various periods of development as far as the Modern Classical and Mid-Victorian schools. The second semester will be concerned with painting and plastic art from the period of Early Italian Renaissance up to the present.

The lecture subjects are as follows:

1. Origin of Art.
2. Greek.
3. Greek; Phidias and the Parthenon.
4. Greek after Phidias.
5. Etruscan and Roman Art.
7. Moorish, Arabian, and Eastern Forms.
8. Romanesque and Mediaeval.
12. Early Renaissance Architecture in Italy, etc.

FATHER WALSH REPORTS
WORK IN RUSSIA

Former Dean of F. S. Department
Wrote of Conditions
in Crimea.

The Rev. Fr. Edmund A. Walsh, of Georgetown University, who has been with the American Relief Administration in Russia, has been selected by Pope Pius XI to take complete charge of the distribution of food supplies there through the papal relief mission. Fr. Walsh will remain in Russia another year. He will direct the Moscow headquarters in cooperation with the government's work.
The following letter was recently received from him:

Eupatoria, Crimea,
September 9, 1922.
Rev. John B. Creeden, President,
Georgetown University,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Father Creeden:

If P. Barnum were still with us he could tell you all about it into the bargain. But I am afraid even his wonderful powers of narration could hardly do justice to the facts, i. e., the destruction and desolation in this once prosperous seaport.

I have my office here for the present,
organizing the work of the Pontifical Relief Expedition to Russia. The other relief workers sent by the Holy Father
from the different nations—Italy, Spain, Germany, Jugo-Slavia, Greece, etc.—have now arrived, and His Holiness has laid on me the heavy burden of directing the Vatican relief operation in Russia.
We have taken over an area here in the Crimea where the famine threatens to be as bad as it was last year in the Volga, which the whole country is demoralized and disorganized as a result of wars, pestilence, drought, and general economic exhaustion. The Secretary of State of this Republic informed me not long ago that not twenty per cent (20%) of the normal harvest was to be expected and that hence the food stocks would be exhausted before the winter had half passed. For this reason the Soviet Government has requested us to concentrate our efforts here in the Crimea, during the present emergency.

Our program calls for the feeding of 40,000 children in this northern part of the Crimea, the establishment of smaller stations at Rostov-on-Don, Ekaterinador, and Moscow. In view of the relief required during the coming winter I fear you can hardly expect me back for the next school year. Please convey my greetings to the Foreign Service fac-sion on opening night and assure them that there will be work and opportunity for all in this great land when it has passed through the agony and comes again to its proper place among the nations of the earth.

We praise also the faculty of the School forS., Washington, and assure them of my continued and deep interest in the work both of the School and the individual professors. The Foreign Service School was never nearer to my heart and thoughts than during the years, when the need of service is so apparent on all sides. And when the work is done I hope to resume the pleasant relation with them which now form one of my cherished possessions, as there is not another than within 200 versts (more than 100 miles).

With warmest personal regards to yourself and all the College faculty,
Faithfully yours,
EDMUND A. WALSH.

LECTURE COURSES BY
F. S. PROFESSORS.

Dr. Roy S. MacElwee, Dean of the Foreign Service School, lectured
Wednesday evening on the architecture of Greece, one of a series of Wednesday evening lectures, to which the public is invited. In establishing a course on architecture at the school the faculty has taken a distinct step to meet a need that is usually made upon those who engage in foreign service. The school recognizes the fact that some knowledge of the history of architecture
in foreign countries is an essential to business dealings, particularly in Europe, and for this reason every student who intends to enter foreign service is urged
and is expected to attend the course on architecture.

Baron Serge Korff, who is continuing his Tuesday evening public lectures on the history of politics and diplomacy in Europe, will deal this week with the history of the military and political changes in England. These weekly lectures have proved popular with friends of Georgetown, and an increasing number of women are attending them.

CLASS ELECTIONS AT FOR-EIGN SERVICE DEPT.

The third-year class of the School of Foreign Service recently elected the following officers: Charles J. McMann, of Connecticut, president; F. T. Tracy, of the District of Columbia, vice president;
W. E. Prank, of New York, secretary;
Murray J. Crosse, of Minnesota, treasurer; F. J. Whelan, of Connecticut, historian; and F. Real, of Connecticut, and E. M. Chapman, of Oklahoma, sergeant-
-at-arms.

John H. Matter, of New Jersey, it was announced, was elected president of the second-year class at the Foreign Service
School. The other officers are: Julian
B. Foster, of District of Columbia, vice president; W. L. Peters, New York, secretary; R. Comstock, Oklahoma, treasurer; Richard Long, Texas, historian;
and O. K. Smith, Georgia, sergeant-
at-arms.

GEORGETOWN GRADUATES
IN EUROPE.

Prof. C. E. Jerring, who taught at the Foreign Service School in 1920 and 1921,
it is learned, is now American commercial attaché at Berlin. He has co-operated with Robert J. Scovell and Maurice Parmalee in preparing a pamphlet on German reparations, budget, and foreign trade for the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Mr. Scovell is a former Foreign Service School student.

Another well known alumnus heard from is John F. Crosby, of the class of 1912 on the Hilfskreis. He was winner of the Merrick debates medal, editor of the journal, and member of the crew in his college days. During the Wilson administration he was special assistant attorney general.

Maurice Francis Eagan, formerly United States minister to Denmark and Georgetown alumnus, was recently made president of the International Association of Arts and Letters.

MEMBER OF F. S. FACULTY HONORED.

Dr. James Brown Scott, of the For-ear Service School faculty, has just returned from France, where he attended the sessions of the Institute of International Law. At the convention Baron Serge Korff, another member of the fac-culty, was elected an associate member of the institute. This is a signal honor, as the institute comprises the leading lawyers in the world. Its full membership is limited to sixty, while only sixty associate members from all over the world are admitted.
It’s an excellent idea, this furtherance of class activities, and should be given support. The freshmen-sophomore football battle is not far away, and the spirit that we know will be shown on that day should be continued without a let-up throughout the year. More class spirit means more college spirit, and better individuals make for a better University.

THE OLD GRADS.

This year to date The Hoyia has been very generous toward the alumni in the matter of publicity for the doings and activities of the old grads, and space has been given indiscriminately to them.

We are sorry to say that our older brothers have been very slow in responding to subscriptions for the paper. It is our earnest wish that The Hoyia, besides being a medium of interest for the present students at the University, should be a connecting link between the men that held our places in the days gone by. We feel sure that the alumni will support our every endeavor and that this appeal will not be disregarded. It is unnecessary to mention the financial problems that must be faced in the maintenance of the paper. It cannot exist without financial backing, and we hope for a hearty response from the old grads. We would like to make The Hoyia as much your paper as it is ours, and with this in mind will continue our policy of generous publicity for your activities. Subscription fee is $1.00 a year, and checks should be made to Mr. Frank Maloy, Business Manager, The Hoyia, Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.

AN INVENTORY.

Business concerns, large and small, throughout the United States pause for a time during the rush of the year to take stock; an inventory of the goods on hand is made, reports of past endeavors are recorded and properly filed, failures are likewise invoiced, and side by side, assets and liabilities are tallied that their owners may reason better their plans for the future over the uncharted seas of modern business which has become like a valley wherein everyone carries a club that is swung indiscriminately. A furious hot fascinating passage which ends successfully only with the safe emergence of all who would enter.

Curiously enough, meticulous as is the workmanship with which man’s frail structure has been built, his life is not entirely different from the modern business world. To emerge from the many dim passageways that he must enter man must equip himself with a mythical club that will ward off his enemies and bring about the doldrums of existence, the monotony of the beetle.

Many will be interested to know that John J. McGrane, graduate of the Law School in 1920, has been nominated to run for Senator in the Twenty-first District of Providence, R. I., for Representative in the Twenty-second, and for Commander of the Georgia Tech-Navy game at Annapolis last Saturday.

Mike Thompson, formerly graduate student at the University of Denver, is now in the oil business in New Orleans.

- With the Debaters -

Philodemic.

On last Tuesday evening, October 17, the Philodemic Society was treated to a very interesting debate, the question being “Resolved, that prohibition legislation should be modified so as to permit the sale and manufacture of beer and light wines.” The negative, consisting of Charles L. B. Lowndes and William J. McGuire, were adjudged the winning side of the evening against Robert McCann and Charles J. O’Byrne, who appeared for the affirmative. The distinction of best speaker was awarded to Charles Lowndes. No miscellaneous business transpired at this meeting. The question to be debated Tuesday, October 29, was assigned as follows: “Resolved, that the Federal Government should grant a subsidy to privately owned American merchant marine.” The debaters for the evening will be Thomas W. Corbett and John W. Gahan, for the affirmative, against Jerome P. Casey and Thomas H. Fitzgerald, for the negative.

Philonomosion.

The debate for meeting of Tuesday, October 17, was won by Louis Boislinere and John Gibbons, who maintained negatively that an athlete who transfers from one college to another should be allowed to participate in athletics immediately. John Goodwin and James Grove comprised the affirmative side. Louis Boislinere, of the negative, was adjudged the best speaker of the evening. The debate for October 30 will be announced at a later date.

top will therefore be doubled. But expediency in the way of rooming space has not been the sole outlook of the architect, for the imposing Healy Building itself will be rivaled in beauty. The main hall of the dormitory will be situated at the north end of the Varsity Field, facing toward the river, and parallel to the current wall. Two wings will extend obliquely from the ends, on the plan of the Wardman Park Inn. The structure will be four stories high and from the center will rise a six story square tower, at the base of which will open an imposing entrance. The breadth of this tower will be such as to include on the first floor a small auditorium, in which lectures and dances or other social functions may be held. The north end of the room will terminate in a conservatory of glass where a stage can be used for a lecture platform or for an orchestra, as the occasion demands. The first floor will also include a library and small reception rooms. The living suites, filling the rest of the building, will consist of two rooms and a bath, each suite to accommodate two students. The furnishings of the various rooms will be of a superior quality, and will have brass beds, lounge chairs, roll-top desks, tables, etc. Additional features of each room will be running water, spacious closets, a combination safe and, if desired by the occupant, a private telephone.

Occupancy of the rooms by students will be determined by the preference of the individual benefactor. If a suite is endowed by a city, it may be reserved for residents of that city; if endowed by a private family, it will be held for relatives or descendants of that family. In this way the hall will be occupied by members of all the classes, and except in the final selection there will be no preference to seniority. It is planned that the ground in front of the Healy Building and what is left of the Varsity Field will be united into one large campus, appropriately laid out, and around which will be built a concrete automobile drive. The Varsity Field will be transferred elsewhere on the extensive grounds around the College.

An illustrated booklet is now being printed, describing in detail the new dormitory hall, its plan, equipment, and containing suggestions for its endowment. This will be issued to the students some time before Christmas, and a fuller comprehension given to the prospective improvement of the College.

Gaston.

John G. Hayes and Edward M. De Castro, debating negatively on the question, “Resolved, that the United States should recognize the Soviet Government of Russia,” were awarded the palm of victory over Joseph B. Brennan and Joseph E. Marr, of the affirmative, at the weekly meeting of the Gaston Debating Society, Monday, October 16. The question was well debated by both sides, and the society voted in favor of Joseph Brennan as the best speaker. Messrs. Crowley, McMamany, and Conklin were admitted as new members, as were also Messrs. Castellini, Manucy, Breslin, Mack, Cavanaugh, and Cooney, who spoke successfully in the try-outs. The debaters appointed for the meeting on October 20 are Richard B. Homan and Anthony Brennan, who will defend the affirmative, opposed by John E. Joyce and John Kelly for the negative. The question, “Resolved, that the United States should provide a ship subsidy,” was also debated.

White.

From the twenty-one candidates who appeared for try-outs at the last meeting of the White Debating Society, Wednesday, October 18, the following were elected as new members: Messrs. Stiger, O’Shay, Ruffer, Cashman, Russell, Blummer, and Smith. The question, “Resolved, that foreign ships should be permitted to enter our ports if their assignment of liquor is withheld from sale,” will be the topic for debate Wednesday, November 1. The affirmative of this question will be upheld by Thomas H. Fenlon and William J. Kalt in opposition to James E. McLaren and Ralph J. Noble for the negative.

Georgetown, after downing her first three opponents without any great difficulty enters upon the first of a series of stiff contests extending through the second half of the season. The order of stiff contests extending through the battle with the Devil Dogs, Holy Cross, Bucknell, and Lafayette are to be met in the order named on successive Saturdays with George Washington also figuring on the card.

This string of games is one of the hardest schedules that a Georgetown team has been called on to meet in several years and Coach Exendine plans to drive his charges without any let-up until the curtain rings down in order that the Hilltoppers will be able to meet the acid test.

Meet Marines Saturday.

With the exception of Pauly Byrne, right halfback, the Hilltoppers came out of the battle with Fordham without any injury to his side which prevented him from taking part in the action. The game was far from pleasant to the showing of his charges. The Washington boy is expected to be ready for Saturday. In their games to date the Georgetown backfield is one of the stars in the backfield, was one of the stars in the Varsity. Wednesday the usual stiff hour's practice will be held on the Twelfth Street Field. Boston College will be played at Braves Field, November 25th, and Boston College will be played at Harvard.

The game was only about six minutes old when the Washington team put its first touchdown across. This was due to a fumble by Tommy Myers, captain of the Fordham team, who dropped the ball on Fordham's 4-yard line. Georgetown recovered the pigskin and, after making a first down on three rushes, Byrne took the ball across from the 20. Byrne gained two more yards and then dropped the ball to Florence, who broke up the line for 21 yards, and Kenyon and Flavin completed a lateral pass for 8 yards more. Flavin threw a long forward to Florence, who jumped high for the ball, taking it just over the head of three Fordham players. Snell completed the third pass and brought the ball to the 8-yard line. Lowe intercepted the ball on this play.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter the Georgetown coach lost the ball on a down at the 5-yard line. Flavin put an end to the threat of the ball carrier by punting it out of bounds. The game ended here with but a yard to go.

The Washington Times, in its article on the game, said in part: "The Georgetown football team scored its annual victory over the Fordham eleven in the contest between the traditional rivals at the Polo Grounds yesterday, 20-0. The Golden Tornado will be met at Atlanta. The Hilltoppers, thrice defeated by Coach Alexander's eleven, will endeavor to cop their first victory from the Georgians.

Bucknell will be a strong opponent on November 18th. Navy has found this team a hard nut to crack in the past two years and doubts Georgetown will have to use any time with the Pennsylvanians. Boston College will be played at Braves Field, Boston, on November 25th, and this game should be fraught with many thrills. The traditional rivalry between Bucknell and Carman would gain figure in this contest and as the Chestnut Hill school is possessed with a much stronger aggregation than the one which Georgetown defeated last fall, a battle royal can be looked for. The game will start here. Washington is the Thanksgiving Day opponent of the Blue and Gray at American League Park. The season closes with Coach Jock Sutherland's undefeated Lafayette team on December 14th, which should prove to be one of the hardest fought struggles of the Eastern college football domain.

Kenyon made 10 yards through center, followed by Mally and Lowe made substantial gains. Georgetown was penalized for holding. Two long runs by Lowe, a forward pass, Flavin to Lowe, and an interception by Glass encouraged the ball carrier. Kenyon accomplished the fourth touchdown for the Blue and Gray.

Meyers kicked off to Butler, who carried the ball to the 40-yard line. McAnany went around Fitzgerald's end for 17 yards, and Kenyon and Flavin completed a lateral pass for 8 yards more. Flavin threw a long forward to Florence, who jumped high for the ball, taking it just over the head of three Fordham players. Snell completed the third pass and brought the ball to the 8-yard line. The placer ended with the ball in this position.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter the Georgetown coach lost the ball on a down at the 5-yard line. Flavin put an end to the threat of the ball carrier by punting it out of bounds. The game ended here with but a yard to go.
RIFLE TEAM CHOOSES OFFICERS FOR 1922-23

McCann Elected President For Ensuing Scholastic Year.

Great things are expected of the Georgetown Rifle Team for the coming year in the line of competitive meets, and it is hoped that the Blue and Gray will again win the rifle championship that it held two years ago. Robert McCann has been elected president, and it is stated that the prospects of the team for the coming year are exceptionally bright.

The rifle range is being repaired and will be in first class condition within a few weeks.

Although there are only a few of the veterans of last season available the new material is very good and the team as a whole should shape up well. They have been doing well in the short practices that have been held so far, and with a little more seasoning should be in top notch form.

Those who wish to try for the team should confer with Manager James Kerwin, who will give them adequate directions and general information about the work of the team in general and the plans for the year. All freshmen are eligible and some of the veteran students will be in first class condition within a few weeks.

Already Manager Kerwin has received several challenges from some of the best collegiate rifle teams in the country, and several good matches are expected in the near future.

At a meeting held for the election of officers the following men were chosen: Major Hobson, executive officer; Robert C. McCann, president; James J. Kerwin, manager; John N. Doren, assistant manager; and Gerald Gulliford, captain.

The concern of last year's rifle team is very commendable. In the intercollegiate matches they won all except two and eclipsing the record of the 1921 team. Georgetown entered three teams in the N. R. A. competitive shoot and made a successful showing. There were forty teams entered from the various colleges and clubs of the country. Georgetown's first team took second place in the match, the second team made fifth, and the third team took sixth in the competition. Former Georgetown Tennis Star Shows Up Well In Championships.

Raymond J. Kunkel, Georgetown, '22, was defeated by Edward T. Herndon in the final round of the tennis tournament for the championship of Harvard University. Kunkel was champion while he attended Georgetown and a year before he won the singles in the South Atlantic meet. He is now attending Harvard Law School.

Herndon, who won the championship of Harvard by defeating Kunkel, formerly held the title of champion at Princeton and is attending the graduate school at Harvard.

FRANK J. HOGAN LL.B., '02, SPEAKS ON EUROPE.

A vivid description of conditions in England and continental Europe was given some time ago by Mr. Frank J. Hogan, LL.B., president of the Foreign Service School. Mr. Hogan, who has been abroad for three months expressly for the purpose of studying the economical conditions abroad, went into minute details and gave a complete account of the after effects of the war.

"England," Mr. Hogan said, "was the only nation of Europe that has returned to what we call normalcy as yet." He stated that there was war in the air, not of bloodshed, but of the business section.

Most interesting, in study, of all the nations that are feeling the after effects of the war is Germany, which, he said, is totally devastated, not however by shot and shell but by constant persistent deterioration of economic conditions.

In his talk Mr. Hogan spoke of the circumstances in France, Italy, and Belgium, and gave many illustrations to bring home the real truth of the present status of Europe.

INTER-CLASS TRACK MEET NOVEMBER 1.

The annual inter-class track meet held exclusively for Georgetown students will take place Wednesday morning, November 1, at the college field. With the purpose of determining the caliber of the track candidates and uncovering hitherto unknown ability among the student body, this meet is looked upon every year as one entailing considerable importance.

Mr. John D. O'Reilly, coach of track, will in all probability have supervision over the games and will be on hand to line up future prospects. It is understood that no student will be permitted to participate in any event who has not undergone a few weeks of training. The events of the day as announced by the track management are as follows: The 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes, the half mile, mile, and mile and a half, hurdles over the running broad and high jumps, the javelin throw, discus throw, and the shot put. The games will start promptly at 10 o'clock.

The track is in excellent condition, and as there is much competition between the classes it is expected there will be plenty of interest in the contest. Many candidates are out training, among whom are several former prep school stars. When they display their wares on next Wednesday afternoon, O'Reilly will be able to see the material which he can add to his list of veterans.

HOT STUFF!

Plans for a Foreign Service Publicity Bureau to work in conjunction with the new Publicity Bureau of the University are being developed by the Reverend W. Coleman Nevis, S. J., Regent, and Thomas H. Healy, secretary. The service will be established to place in the newspapers of the country items especially concerning this department of the University which it is thought will be of general interest to the country. The faculty feel that the work being done by the Foreign Service School is unusual and of more than ordinary interest to business men as well as to educators, and that the effective work of such a bureau will spread the good influence of the University in an especially desirable manner.

A committee to arrange and care for the activities of the bureau is to be appointed in the near future which will cooperate with the existing organization to place those activities of the University which are of public interest before the widest possible section of the reading public.

BITS OF BLUE AND GRAY.

Fred Voight, ’25, is recovering from a painful injury to his eye received while engaged in a friendly fencing bout in Ryan Gymnasium. Although the injury is extremely serious, it is not expected that he will lose his sight.

Frank King, ’24, is slowly getting his injured knee into condition. It is hoped he will be able to be in the line-up again before the end of the season.

It is understood that many new books are to be ordered for the Hirst Library, with the intention of keeping up to the minute on the new literature of the day.

The first meeting of the year of the Masque and Bauble Club was held last Thursday. A new constitution will be drawn up and presented for approval. Plans for the coming year were outlined and discussed. It is thought that a comedy with music will be presented this year, as well as other productions. Great interest is being shown in the club, and an excellent year is forecast for dramatics at Georgetown.

Johnny Holden, former University of Pennsylvania track star, has enrolled in the Law Department of Georgetown University. He ran on the University of Pennsylvania two-mile championship team that broke the world’s record at the Penn Relay Carnival last year. He will not be eligible to run for Georgetown this year.

Robert Lee, of the Sophomore Class, who is at the Georgetown University Hospital stricken with typhoid fever, is recovering slowly but favorably.

Ryan Gym was a scene of activity Saturday afternoon when the Georgetown-Fordham game came over the wire play by play. Among those present were several young ladies from Visitation Convent and Immaculata.
