FATHER WALSH SPEAKS ON RUSSIA

By Gordon Barry.

The Rev. Edmund Walsh, S. J., Director of the Papal Relief Expedition to Russia, who arrived in New York a few days ago on the President Coolidge, came directly to Washington where he was interviewed by a special representative of the National Catholic Welfare Conference News Service. The last few days the outstanding figure in European relief work has been spending on the Hilltop. Father Walsh succeeded the Rev. John B. Creeden as Dean of Georgetown College when the latter took over the Rectorship. During the recent World War Father Walsh was appointed by the United States Government as an inspector of various S. A. T. C. military units in Eastern colleges. Later he became a regent of the Foreign Service School and retained that position until commissioned by the Pope to take up relief work in Europe. His task is now virtually completed and it is probable that within a relatively short time he will rejoin the Georgetown University faculty as an active member.

AUTHOR OF BOOK

Mr. James R. Mood, Foreign Service Graduate, Publishes Booklet on “Tunis.”

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the United States Department of Commerce has just issued a sixty-page booklet on “Tunis, Its Resources, Industries, and Commerce with Reference to United States Trade.” This booklet was written by Mr. James R. Mood, a former student of the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University and now a member of the staff of the Eastern, European Division of the Department of Commerce.

Mr. Mood has depicted in an interesting and concise way most of the important features of this little known country on the Mediterranean. He discusses the geography, population, religion, government, transportation, agriculture, manufactures, commerce, etc.

Copies of the publication can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

Head All-American Choices.

Included on the All-American track and field team for 1923, which was recently selected by Mr. Frederick Rubien, secretary and treasurer of the A. A. U., were Robert (“Bob”) LeGendre for the Pentathlon, and Vernon Ascher for the quarter mile event. The former captured the five-sport title on three occasions at the Penn Relays; while Ascher, now at Georgetown, has a practical certainty for the Olympic team in the middle distances.

PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR SENIOR PROM

The Senior Prom committee has already commenced on the preliminary work for the party which will undoubtedly take place May 9. The E. A. Wright Company of Philadelphia has interested not only the committee but the entire class in regard to a special prom favor.

At the opening meeting of the class the question of favors was discussed at length. Suggestions for a special set of favors were introduced by several members of the class and the Wright Company was notified of the various suggestions. At the same meeting the advisability of holding the party in an hotel ballroom was advanced. The committee, consisting of Mr. George Leo Burke, chairman, assisted by Messrs. David E. Fitzgerald, Jr., John A. Goodwin, G. Francis King, and Edward A. Stell, reported that every means possible was being employed to have the dance on the New Willard roof.

Hilltop Students Pay Floral Tribute to War-time President.

The students of Georgetown College paid their last tribute to the war-time President in the form of a floral wreath. On a blue and gray ribbon was inscribed the word “Georgetown.” The offering was sent to St. Albans Cathedral for the burial services.

GEORGETOWN WINS FROM LEBANON VALLEY AND LOSES TO PRINCETON

Princeton defeated the Blue and Gray tossers, 35 to 26, Tuesday night, in a hard-fought contest which was on edge until the latter part of the second half.

The Tigers had a neat short passing system and counted with their free throws. At the opening of the second period Princeton started with a rush. Frederick led off with a field goal, followed with another by Brogan, whose clever guarding featured the contest for Georgetown. The Hilltoppers continued their lead until caught by the rally Princeton made toward the end of the half. Here the game turned and Old Nassau outplayed the varsity in every capacity, passing the ball up the floor and into the basket with regularity.

The dance on the New Willard roof.

The offerings have been made to the word “Georgetown.” The offering was sent to the residence of Mr. George Leo Burke, chairman, as a testimonial of esteem for the former Regent of Foreign Service School and retained that position until his advancement to the Papal mission.

Lebanon Scores.

The Keystone five were the first to whip the cords. Metoxen, the visiting forward, looped one in from the center of the court, and dropped two more counters by means of the foul route. A pretty shot by Wolfe gave the visitors their first two-pointer. The Blue and Gray followed, and was followed by O’Keefe, who broke away, trailing the ball and dropping the leathered sphere for Georgetown’s last count before the half ended. Lebanon maintained the lead when the whistle blew by a score of 12 to 10.

Choice of a Career

From the Yale News

THE NINETY-FOUR

Someone, probably an insurance agent, was quoted recently as saying that from the mass of one hundred college graduates one individual only rose to the Polo and butcher class, perilously near the top of the financial ladder. Five others became comfortably off and found themselves after twenty years at the small yacht and chauffeur stage. The other ninety-four presumably worked hard and became devotees of the dollar business is the axis on which a small uninteresting world revolves. They have become devotees of the dollar and when that fickle deity deserts, have nowhere else to turn. Jammed in a dull, straight rut of business they can never leave the road and jump the fence into finer fields of life. This, then, is the portion of ninety-four men out of every hundred now on the campus.

The answer to the problem lies in the proper choice of a career.

Between now and Commencement we shall have something to offer on the subject of “Careers.” Watch for the space with the Famous Signature.

SANTO A. SOTTILE.

Saturday night at Wardman is a busy night, always. Last Saturday night was busier than always. As the reporter tried to enter the door a small waiter staggered by bearing an immense cake. A delicious cake. So the waiter disgraced himself as a plate and followed the waiter to a table. And at the table was Santo A. Sottile, abstractedly cracking ice while he tried to recite one of Jack Gillen's jingles.

"I'm sorry, Jay, but I can't be interviewed tonight. This is my birthday and I'm trying to grow up."

All pleas were without avail; even his brother, Joe, couldn't melt that heart of ice. The interview must be postponed until Monday dawned. And that night as a matter of fact the package of ice was set aside; the secret entrance to Speed's apartments was opened.

Clad in a quiet dressing-gown of pale lavender, not one year older than aged yellow, Speed leaned back in his collapsible canopied and whitened wooden netting. The intense darkness of the room was lighted only by the rays of eight locomotive headlamps. He indicated a seat for the reporter. A seat which would be more than ample for any of the students at Georgetown. The table was set for four; the secret entrance to Speed's apartments was opened.

With these words Speed banded over a bundle of pencils, a dictionary, four cuff links, a golf hat, a fountain pen and six books to the reporter. The reporter made a noise like a hat and looked over the radiator. Speed ordered a dash of sliced dockknobs on four-wheel brakes and began his serious denunciation of strawberry flavored pop-corn.

"You know, Valentine day is fast approaching and I have so many cards to send out. All of my secretaries—and I have only one!—were in charge of the Boncilla Beauty Contest—I have contracted a taste for strawberries. They will eat nothing else. So I can eat nothing, or else starve. If the government would only use peppermint flavoring once in a while and licorice and wintergreen, my secretaries would be happier and more contented."

"But this is only a minor innovation. The government should carry my letters free. I get so many requests for pictures that the expense of stamps alone is a great burden."

Speed had thoroughly lashed the question of stamps before Oscar—the valet—returned again with a bucket of steam.

"Animal crackers, to my mind, are the greatest American invention ever invented, and I'm sorry that pretzels are spoiling some of their popularity. It may seem strange that I am a great animal cracker lover, but I once had a dog that posed for me the model for every cracker that came my way. His name was not Ponjola. It was the insidious thing about that dog. How old was he? I forget."

"It can be plainly seen that Speed was thinking of too many things to be interested. After all I had not eaten any olive Oil Reserves. Someone said he took the $50,000.00, but at our hour of going to press no one could find out how much was left."

Among the more prominent authorities on Mah Jong, Mr. Sottile holds stellar positions fairly proud, and his chess is unsurpassed. He has several failings; extra blankets, cracked ice, steam heat, animal crackers, movies, automobiles, steam engines, hand-cars, chairs, fish, artificial light, eskimo pies, gravel, socks, and other articles too numerous to mention.

Speed is one of the early risers; no noontime sun has ever found him slumbering. When polo was first introduced as a collegiate sport, he learned to cranke a kiddle car. The reporter will verify this with the above statements when he has secured a hurry-coy, as cracked ice always gives him a chill.

During the latter part of the past year the Secret Government made conditions so unbearable for the mission that Father Walsh was obliged to withdraw. Nevertheless, he continued his work until the signing of the treaty and the power of the Secret Government had been revoked. The land was thrown back into the hand of the good Samaritans, and the character of the people of the land was improved. The natives grew better and farming invaded the land.

In 1922, Father Walsh returned to India to re-open the mission and to report on Russian conditions after re-embarcking.

FATHER WALSH, S. J.

Georgetown delights to welcome back a son who, engaged in labor on foreign fields, so long through his countrymen, has re- cently returned to this country. The Reverend Father Edmund Walsh, Director of the Papal Mission in Russia, and former Regent of the George-town School of Foreign Missions, has at long last, after many strenuous months spent in Europe, returned to his home. The arrival last week of Father Walsh in Washington was an event of great interest to him.

Winning Midshipmen by Rally at End of Past Game—Birthright, Flavin, and Ketz Shine.

The Georgetown Frosh basketballers

journeyed to Annapolis, Md., Saturday and added another victory to their list of triumphs. This time it was the “Frosh,” who were forced to acknowledge the Frosh quintet their superiors. It was the first time this year that the “Frosh” have suffered a setback.

Although they fought hard from the opening to the closing whistle their efforts were in vain. The “Frosh” were able to take only a six-point lead.

For a time it looked bad for the yearling Hilltoppers. After being outplayed in the first half and trailing the Middles by six points, the “Frosh” staged a comeback and by flashy floor work and accurate shooting emerged from the fray on the large end of the score.

It was a hectic battle and until the last few minutes it was either team's game. The Georgetowners, however, showed their team work which resulted in a victory.

Birthright at forward was the man called up at the last minute. He was in every play and tallied fifteen of the thirty-two points. As the “Frosh” played a fine game, and added another victory to their list of triumphs.

By Gordon Barry

Probably one of the quickest week-ends that Hilltoppers have witnessed in several months will be remembered in the years to come.

Harry Helme, who has been faithfully preparing himself during the past few days, for the Wilco Games in New York, Saturday night, is in fine shape to try conclusions over the two-mile route with more formidable fields of opposition that has been gathered for that event in a long time.

No other trackmen will be competing with Harry Helme. O’Keefe will not run in the two-mile run. O’Keefe, a member of the national track and field team, will not enter the two-mile run.

The “Frosh” track team will be in New York, but the frosh will not run in the two-mile run.

When the referee blasts the final shrill from the whistle at the Central field Friday night’s basketball contest with Davis-Elkins, a five from Elkins, V. Va., it will mark the termination of Georgetown’s season somewhat brief 1924 basketball season. As in the case of Carson-Newman’s coming here, little or nothing is known of the relative strength or ability that the Mountaineers are capable of displaying on the local floor.

In view of this, Coach O’Keefe is not taking the final game of the season too lightly. He has put his charges through their paces in polishing the line-up past few days, and if the visiting team should romp away with a win it will be purely because it is a far superior outfit.

There have been some rumors about the campus and city to the effect that this year basketball will be discontinued as a varsity sport on the Hilltop. As far as can be ascertained these reports are quite unfounded and false. The athletic association has not yet taken any action to speak of regarding the future of the court game here and unless something is heard within a few days, it is safe to say that Georgetown will be represented with a basketball team next year.

Ready for Meet.

According to the latest reports submitted by Track Manager Matt Sullivan to a Hoya representative a few days ago, it appears safe in saying positively that this year’s indoor meet at Convention Hall on next Thursday night will easily eclipse all previous affairs. Never before has such a brilliant galaxy of spike wearers been gathered together to display their wares on the foot track. Both the Mt. Danes and the Suburbanites will hold these meets with remarkable success prior to the University Athletic Association’s indoor meet in February. With the advent of that terrible conflict, which so heavily drew on the flower of America’s local institutions, it was absolutely necessary to suspend everything in this line until the boys returned.

The winter of 1922 saw a much welcomed revival of these games. And last year an equally successful and pleasurable repetition of what had gone before. With obvious ease Georgetown produced hop-step and jumps equal to those of the University Athletic Association’s indoor meet in February. With the advent of that terrible conflict, which so heavily drew on the flower of America’s local institutions, it was absolutely necessary to suspend everything in this line until the boys returned.
