It is the only activity of its kind during the year and every student should strive to make it a success.

Victor Kerney is Director.

Victor Kerney, Director of the Washington Guild Theater, has been obtaining some excellent results at the numerous rehearsals which have been held to date. A very talented cast has been formed, which is backed by an understudy cast of almost equal ability.

The Production Committee is composed of officers of the Mask and Bauble Club and includes John T. Doran '26, president; Thomas Loughlin '25, vice-president; John T. Doran, Jr., '27, secretary-treasurer; Francis I. Brady '27, stage manager; John E. O'Brien '27, Electrician.

The moderator is Edward MCF. Donnelly, S. J., 14, and the business director is Mr. J. Edward Coffey, Jr., S. J.

Loughlin was selected chairman of the student committee and is now busy with his duties as student manager of the play. Everyone remembers him last year in the Annual Merrick Debate Date Set—Teams Chosen—Judges Soon to be Picked.

Sunday, December 13, has been definitely fixed as the date for the holding of the Annual Merrick Debate which is to be staged by the Philodemic Debating Society. The event will take place at 8:15 p.m. in Gaston Hall.

The question for the debate, "Resolved, That amendments to the Federal Constitution should be ratified by a direct vote of the people in the several states" is receiving earnest preparation by both sides, as the annual debate is an important event of the school year. The Merrick Medal, one of the college's most coveted awards, is to be awarded to the best speaker in the debate.

The teams have been chosen as follows: Affirmative: Mears, Anthony Brennan and Walter Thompson; Negative: Mr. Frank Ruffer and Mr. Holmes Clare.

Mr. Louis O'Leary will preside as chairman. The judges for the event have not as yet been selected.

FATHER SHANDELLE DIES AT COLLEGE

Requiem Mass in Dahlgren Chapel—Deceased Served Georgetown Many Years—Interment in College Cemetery.

REV. HENRY J. SHANDELLE, S. J.

Rev. Henry J. Shandelle, S. J., who for sixty years has been a priest of the Jesuit Order, died here last Friday, at Georgetown University Hospital, after a long illness. Father Shandelle had been Librarian of the University for many years and was well known to the older alumni of the University. In recent years his health had caused him to refrain entirely from class-room work and he devoted his entire time to assembling the splendid collection of paintings and art objects that draws so many visitors to the Riggs Annex. To Father Shandelle also goes the credit of having conceived the system of mural decorations that has made Gaston Hall one of the most beautiful assembly rooms in the country. The actual work of decoration was handled by the late Brother Schroe, S. J., who died at the University last year.

Well Known in Washington. Father Shandelle was well known and loved in Washington, where he had taken active part in many civil affairs and particularly in charitable movements. The deceased priest was born in Westphalia, Germany, in 1848. In early boyhood he came to this country and received his elementary education at Loyola College, Baltimore. On entering the Society of Jesus, in 1863, he began his theological studies at the old Jesuit house of studies at Frederick, Md., and later studied at Woodstock College, Md.

Taught for Many Years. Father Shandelle began his long career as a teacher at Boston College and later

The "Towered Hill"

FATHER SHANDELLE--A RETROSPECT

To anyone who has been at Georgetown during any part of the last two generations, Father Shandelle was as unforgettable a part of the historic picture as the Statue of Liberty or the Washington Monument. It was a part of the life of the University, for all who knew him to be so real and evident that people found natural in him a style of address that, for frankness and simplicity, almost brought one back to Apostolic times, when all Christians "loved one another," and "by this" were known to be His disciples. He was often teased with the story of his having been overheard saying, "the telephone one day, to some poor sufferer, "Is that you, dearest Monica? How is your poor leg?" But to this farid tale, which never lost anything in the telling, a whole legion of poor suffering Monicas would have stoutly replied: "Yes, and he meant every kind word of it!" This is most certainly true. And everyone to him was "dearest," since he loved everybody.

His genius, if he had any, was for friendship; and this it was which made him feel so keenly the separation from friends, made inevitable by his illness, during the last few years. He never thought of refusing himself even to the most importunate and untimely of visitors. And if it had been left to his decision, instead of to medical advice, he would have come on tottering limbs to see them, to replace the very last day of his illness; as his trusted friends well know. And what an uncounted number of friends he had! Those who were astonished at the extent and intimacy of his friendships with those in high places, were still more astonished at his tender consideration for the poor and the lowly, God's humble "little ones." There is a little old lady, the proprietor of a tiny Catholic book shop, up an obscure little street in Worcester, who will be sad when she reads the lines of his death; she spoke so proudly of her friendship for Father Shandelle. His most faithful visitors, during the long months of his last confinement to his room, were the older laybrothers in the community. These dear friends of his, whom a life of humble toil had made patient, and much suffering sympathetic with the sufferings of others, came to help him through the many hours of waiting with the hope their lives had taught them to look for in the "life to come." If he is missed greatly, it will be by such as these; for the "great world" had already learned, during his long illness, to forget him; and his funeral was poorly attended.

This would not have happened. His sole object of concern would have been how he was to comfort those whom illness or poverty or inevitable circumstances had kept from coming. For all, he would have felt nothing but the sympathy of a true and compassionate understanding of their difficulties. "Tout prochain, c'est tout pardonner!" It will be a great consolation for them to know the kindly offices with which he was comforted during his last illness. Father Tondorf, that amazing man, who to his well-known qualities, unites a lesser-known, but no less amazing tenderness for his sick brethren, was everything to him,—guide, counsellor and friend. In the doorway of the sick room would appear the great and great-hearted figure of his own "Father Rector," to tease him with the playful inquiry: "How is our Prince Charming this evening?" —a sally which always brought forth a gentle smile of amusement and appreciation.

"Appreciation!" That seems to be the word which best sums up his life's appointed task. He appreciated everything—books, art, the devotion of friends, the least little kindness that was done him. Some of all was his appreciation of the right values of life, an appreciation that began sixty years ago last August 15th,—that day in 1865 when the seventeen-year-old Henry Joseph Shandelle became "Brother" Shandelle, the Jesuit novice.
M'SIEU BEAUCARIE'S TRIP.

Preparations for the trip which the club proposes to take during the Christmas holidays are fast nearing completion. H. Dunn Kenevey of the New York Alumni has already secured the Hotel Roosevelt ballroom for the presentation of the play in the Metropolitan city on the evening of December 21. On December 19, the show will be given in Chicago under the efficient management of Thomas A. Dean, secretary of the Chicago Alumni. The dates for the other performances have not yet been fully arranged, but it is likely that the club will appear in Pittsburgh the night before the play's action begins.

The Washington performances are all practically assured of capacity audiences. The students of the college and in fact of the city are taking much more interest in this spectacle than in any produced at the school in several years. It is predicted as a result most of the seats for the various showings have already been sold. Those who would like to assure themselves and their friends of good seats at either local or road performances are requested to get into communication by letter with Thomas Laughlin '86, at Room 21, North Building, Georgetown College, or by telephone at West 2655.

ROMANTIC PLOT FEATURES G. U. PLAY

Story of Monsieur Beaucaire of Romantic Interest—Splendid Casts Have Been Chosen Subject to Change.

The "Mask and Bauble Club," Georgetown's representatives in the art of the dramas, have selected and are preparing to present to Washington audiences, the dramatization of Booth Tarkington's splendid novel, "Monsieur Beaucaire," on Monday, December 18th, at the Trinity Theater, adjoining the College in Georgetown.

While the dramatization of any novel must necessarily be limited to the facilities afforded in the staging, the story as dramatized by Ethel Hale Freeman suffers but little. The whole flavor of a romantic costume story is retained, the action is brisk and works rapidly to a climax and flows evenly into its engaging anti-climax.

Story Universally Known.

Most everyone is familiar through either the book, or through Mr. Valentine's ingenious characterization of the title role in the motion-picture with the story of the pseudo-barbar, gambler, adventurer and what-not, under the name of Monsieur Beaucaire, catches the Duke of Winterstein at carding at table.

While the Duke feels to be exposed, Monsieur Beaucaire, who has blackmailed him and gains admittance to a ball given by one of the society leaders, Lady Malbourne. Already having seen Lady Mary Carlyle, he has, fallen in love with her and desires a meeting.

He sees the ball of Lady Malbourne as the means to that end. They meet, and his swift loving-making captivates her. Winterstein, jealous and afraid of Beaucaire, convinces Captain Badger, Lord Townbrake, Mr. Bantion and others, that Beaucaire is an impostor, and at his instigation they set upon Beaucaire while he is with Lady Mary Carlyle. Beaucaire manages to put several of the ruffians out of the fight, but finally wounded, is assisted by his loyal lackey, led by Francois, Beaucaire is exposed seemingly, by Captain Badger in front of Lady Mary, and she refuses to listen to Beaucaire's explanation. He promises Badger and Winterstein that he will appear at the assembly rooms a week later at nine o'clock.

The time arrives and a merry company is assembled awaiting the arrival of the French Ambassador. Lady Malbourne discovers Beaucaire playing cards with one of his friends, Mr. Molyneux. Haughtily she tells to the Frenchman to come from the House of Nast. Lady Malbourne, who is well acquainted with Beaucaire, is a member of the Legion d'Honneur, and after chaining it, exhibits it in broad daylight that all the world may see—and enjoy, where formerly but a few saw and were merely borred.

In view of the fact that the first night’s performance was subscribed for in advance by college students before the tickets had been placed on sale, it was deemed the part of fairness to the downtown schools of the University to give them a night upon which they would have first call upon the choice seats. This night it has seemed advisable to place under the management of the more active fraternities and social organizations, and it will accordingly be called “Fraternity and Organizations Night.” This will be Tuesday evening, December 15th. GILLIAN CHAIRMAN.

The committee held its initial meeting in the Rose Room of the Hotel Lennox last week at which time Mr. William C. Gillan, A.B. '25, former Editor of the HOYA and winner of the 1925 Philomelian Prize Debating Cup, was unanimously chosen as chairman. Since the time of his election he has been striving diligently to complete all necessary preliminary details and has enjoyed extreme success thus far. Realizing the reasonably brief period of time between now and the evening in question, he has spared no time or energy to push his committee so that the particular assignments given the respective members might be promptly effected.

Among those assisting Mr. Gillan are William Mahoney, '32, of Dorchester; Masey Hennessey, '24, of Brookline; Paul Hanley, of Dorchester; James Driscoll of Brighton; Andrew Gaffey, '25, of Medford; and Gordon Barry of Winthrop. The advance sale of tickets to date has proved very encouraging and it has been expected that the general public will see to it that the evening is additionally enlivened when these Hilltop songs fill the ballroom.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT CONDUCTS REVIEW.

On Thursday, November 19, as has been the custom for some time, the first review of the year was conducted by the Military Department in honor of the Rev. Rector, Father C. W. Lyons. The affair was carried out in true military style under the able guidance of Cadet Major Leo B. Breslin and all the formalities were executed correctly. The military unit presented a very smart appearance as it passed the stand with colors flying, while the band fulfilled its duties in a most praiseworthy fashion.

No one who saw the review could deny the worth of the Military Department in developing men and the height to which this aim has been carried out.

G. U. PLAY HAS ROMANTIC PLOT

Aghast, the spectators stand back, and are informed that Beaucaire is a prince of the Royal House of France, and cousin of the king. Explaining his incoignito, he told them that he had been ordered to marry a French demoiselle, but had refused, preferring the adventure of seeking his own wife in a more romantic way. The company in turn beg his forgiveness for their conduct on the grounds of the misunderstanding, and he freely accords it, save in the case of Winterset. When Lady Mary begs his forgiveness, he tells her that there is nothing to forgive, but that there is in the world just one person who would not treat him in the manner she had—the girl he had refused to marry in France. And so he returns there to make reparation to his first love, and to "live happily ever after."

As yet only a tentative cast has been chosen, but since the vehicle is such a splendid one, and the material so good, those in the know are expecting to produce one of the finest efforts the "Mask and Bauble Club" has ever given Georgetown.

“BATTLE OF CAPS” TO BE STAGED TUESDAY

McGrath, Murtagh, Plansky and Thompson to Coach Sophs.

Varity. Field has been the scene of many a fierce and bloody encounter dating from the days when the teams of Virginiana and Albion do battle with the Blue and Gray hosts. But all these contests will take on all the mildness of a Sunday School picnic, as compared with the “Battle of the Caps” that will take place next Tuesday morning. Both teams have so much to fight for that the play is bound to be at the highest possible pitch from the first whistle. Not only are the Sophomores desirous of proving their right to enforce the Freshman rules but they are still smarting under the sting of that scoreless tie of last year and they are determined to have their revenge. On the other hand, the Freshmen, who are still under the ignominy of being forced to wear the fancy caps, are fully determined to follow Nissl at the ends, Langsincamp and Metzger are well up in the list of individual scorers in the East.

The yearling team has been working out since September under Coach O'Reilly and is now given a grueling workout, with many of the players on a pair of ten-second legs, Battle of the Caps to be at the highest possible pitch from the first whistle. The Georgetown schedule was brought to a fitting close when the Quantico Marine eleven was defeated on Thanksgiving Day by a 16-to-0 count. The game was one of the best and most interesting on the entire list of contests and offered the spectators a wealth of thrills. The previous games have been played over in the hilltopers but this was the first game in which the Blue and Gray Dogs was one in which the Blue and Gray machine was forced to keep to the ball at every moment and it was not until Georgetown's final touchdown had been scored that the victory was assured. The affair with Bucknell in the mud is the only smirch on the Blue and Gray list, but it was wiped out by the manner in which the other major.

Nine victories in ten starts is the boast of the Georgetown eleven and there are few teams in the country able to boast of the record compiled by the Hilltoppers. The affair with Bucknell in the mud is the only smirch on the Blue and Gray list, but it was wiped out by the manner in which the other major.

The Frosh line-up, unless the Vigilance committee makes last-minute protests on technicalities, will be as follows: Holloays, Weir and Jack Hagerty, Tony Plansky and Thompson to Coach Sophs.

When the Georgetown offense got unchoked, the ball snapping assignment. Dwyer and Nisk will probably start at the halfback positions. Bob Cuisinier will call the signals. Bo will also do all the kicking for his team.

The Sophomore forward wall lines up practically unchanged from last year. Tippett and John Taggart, pairs of hard football that they seem able to have their revenge. On the other hand, the Freshmen, who are still under the ignominy of being forced to wear the fancy caps, are fully determined to have their revenge. The yearling team has been working out since September under Coach O'Reilly and is now given a grueling workout, with many of the players on a pair of ten-second legs.

The annual “Battle of Caps” will take place between the Sophomore and Freshman elevens Tuesday. The usual rivalry and feeling between the two classes will insure a spirited battle. The yearling eleven is strong this season, and will force the second classmen to step at top speed to come out on top.

Georgetown met and defeated Fordham in what New York sport writers claim to have been one of the best exhibitions of football seen in the Metropolis this year. The 281 points registered by the Georgetown eleven ranks the team fifth in scoring of touchdowns. Captain Hagerty is next in the list on the thirty-two point touchdowns chalked up to his credit. Metzger has registered a touchdown in every game this season with the exception of the Bucknell affair.

The affair with Bucknell in the mud is the only smirch on the Blue and Gray list, but it was wiped out by the manner in which the other major.

There were several heart-stopping moments in the game, the most dramatic of which came when the Blue and Gray gridiron performers over their Maroon rivals. The Hilltoppers out-rushed, out-passed, and generally out-played the Bronx collegians in every department of the game. The wonderful set of Georgetown forwards stopped every effort Fordham made at an attack and in turn sent the New Yorker's defense careening backward as the Blue and Gray backs tore through the line and around the ends for long gains almost every time they rushed the ball.

The one bright feature of the Fordham play was the work of the line, when on two occasions Georgetown had the ball inside the Maroon 5-yard mark with first down. Twice the New Yorkers fought desperately and took the ball on downs, but one of those stands went for naught when Gormely raced through the Gargan defense and blocked Graham's punt for a touchdown. The Georgetown team had everything a good football machine should have, and it was about the most impossible for anyone to make headway or stop the relentless attack of Hagerty, Plansky, and Metzger.

Plansky still retains his leadership of the individual Georgetown scorers by virtue of his goal against the Marines and now has a total of sixty-two points. Metzger is a close second with ten touchdowns for a total of sixty markers and leads the team in scoring of touchdowns. Captain Hagerty is next on the list with thirty-two points chalked up to his credit. Metzger has registered a touchdown in every game this season with the exception of the Bucknell affair.

The Georgetown offense got unchoked, the ball snapping assignment. Dwyer and Nisk will probably start at the halfback positions. Bob Cuisinier will call the signals. Bo will also do all the kicking for his team.

Athletic competition will now take a rest at the Hilltop and, the next effort to be made by the Georgetown teams in making their name in inter-collegiate competition will be the opening of the track and basketball seasons. Coach O'Reilly is now devoting his attention to the development of the court teams and is so well schooled in hard football that they seem able to have their revenge. On the other hand, the Freshmen, who are still under the ignominy of being forced to wear the fancy caps, are fully determined to have their revenge. The yearling team has been working out since September under Coach O'Reilly and is now given a grueling workout, with many of the players on a pair of ten-second legs.

The Georgetown schedule was brought to a fitting close when the Quantico Marine eleven was defeated on Thanksgiving Day by a 16-to-0 count. The game was one of the best and most interesting on the entire list of contests and offered the spectators a wealth of thrills. The previous games have been played over in the hilltopers but this was the first game in which the Blue and Gray Dogs was one in which the Blue and Gray machine was forced to keep to the ball at every moment and it was not until Georgetown's final touchdown had been scored that the victory was assured. The affair with Bucknell in the mud is the only smirch on the Blue and Gray list, but it was wiped out by the manner in which the other major.

The affair with Bucknell in the mud is the only smirch on the Blue and Gray list, but it was wiped out by the manner in which the other major.

Nine victories in ten starts is the boast of the Georgetown eleven and there are few teams in the country able to boast of the record compiled by the Hilltoppers. The affair with Bucknell in the mud is the only smirch on the Blue and Gray list, but it was wiped out by the manner in which the other major.

The annual “Battle of Caps” will take place between the Sophomore and Freshman elevens Tuesday. The usual rivalry and feeling between the two classes will insure a spirited battle. The yearling eleven is strong this season, and will force the second classmen to step at top speed to come out on top.
Hilltoppers Outplayed Service Eleven in all Departments—Hagerty, Plansky, Metzger, Jawish, Murtagh and Waite Star for Winners
Performance of Both Lines Featured the Hard-fought Conflict—Hagerty Stops Pugh after Seventy-yard Run—Blue and Gray Completed Ten of Thirty Passes.

On Thanksgiving Day, at the Griffith Stadium, the Georgetown University football team defeated the Quantico Citizens, with a huge home crowd of 15,000, the Blue and Gray crushed the All-Marine eleven from Quantico, Va., under a 16-10 defeat. The game was played under ideal weather conditions, although the Blue and Gray offense was hampered by the fact that Plansky kicked out both extra points. The game was conducted to a close finish, and the Blue and Gray defense was displayed in all departments.

The climax of the Georgetown football season was successfully overcome when the Hilltoppers traveled to New York to play Fordham the afternoon of November 23rd.

Fordham boasted of a powerful team and one which would have little difficulty in taking the measure of its Blue and Gray rivals, but the Hilltoppers delivered a first rate performance and the Maroons were brought down to the floor.

The third quarter again was full of Georgetown offensive rushes. At the very start, Hagerty ran back the kick-off 48 yards, and then he broke through Plansky and Metzger in ripping open the Maroon line and did not stop until the final kick-off had been carried for a touchdown.

Shortly after, Plansky executed a wonderfully splendid pass and Waite caught the ball on the Marine thirty-four yard line. The Blue and Gray line held and no score resulted, but the Marine line held and Georgetown had the ball on their thirty-five yard line. Plansky punted the oval in a most effective manner. Waite played one of his greatest games in his career, while his line mates, Mosko and Jawish were always successful and took the ball from the Maroons off downs.

The Hilltoppers had another exhibition of all-round football ability and outclassed Fordham in every department of the game. The Hilltoppers played the entire game almost sentimentally and swept the Maroons off their feet from the very first down.

Not once did the New Yorkers threaten Georgetown's goal line and they did not have a single first down until the last minute of the game. A successful field goal attempt by Plansky followed by a division of 16-10 brought no score for Fordham.

This game was the last game of the Blue and Gray football warriors. It was the last game of the Blue and Gray line. It was the last game of the Blue and Gray machine completely outplayed the Soldiers of the Sea in every department of the game. It was the sweetness and harmony which enabled the Blue and Gray to crush the powerful Marine eleven.

G. U.—FORDHAM GAME COMMENTS

It was a glorious victory for Georgetown, one that will live long in the annals of the Washington University as one of the greatest triumphs over its ancient rivals, and one which should have little difficulty in taking the measure of its Blue and Gray rivals, but the Blue and Gray defense was displayed in all departments.

The Hilltoppers never let up in their attack and likewise never allowed the Maroon offensive to make any headway. At the start of the second quarter, Plansky broke loose around right end, dodged and twisted his way through the Fordham players, and shook off several tacklers in the course of a 27-yard run.

However, his race was for naught when the ball was brought back to Fordham's 37-yard mark because of a penalty. The ball was placed at that point and Metzger immediately followed with an 11-yard gain and then Hagerty tore off for another run for 37 yards to Fordham's 17-yard line. A Fordham off-side penalty and plays by Hagerty and Plansky placed the ball on the Maroon 1-yard line with third down. Just as Plansky fumbled, the ball was carried back 3 yards for off-side, and Georgetown lost another chance to score. It was the first and only meaningful exhibition given by the Fordham line.

Gormely Scores.

However, the Hilltoppers started in another play following Hagerty took a pass from Waite and running back of Graff's punt, they had the ball on the 1-yard mark again. Once more the New Yorkers worked their magic to hold back the Georgetown attack. They were successful to the last minute on downs. It all went for naught when Gormely raced in, blocked Graham's kick and fell on the oval for the second Blue and Gray touchdown. Plansky kicked the goal.

One of the features of the game was the battle between the two great lines seen in Washington this year. Both were charging and extremely fast, but the Blue and Gray forward attack had the edge upon the Marines as shown by the perfect interference it afforded its fast-running backs who were away time and again for over 150 yards.

MEDICAL INSTRUMENTS

Valuable Instruments of the Late Dr. Dudley Morgan Now in Possession of G. U. Hospital—Dr. Morgan's Family Prominent in Medicine and Washington Society.

A gift of value was received by the University Hospital during the past week, when the widow of Dr. J. Dudley Morgan presented to the hospital her late husband's collection of instruments to the dispensary. The instruments are not only of the finest quality, but are both varied and numerous. The staff of the Hospital is immensely appreciative of Mrs. Morgan's kind gift, and the collection will add very materially to the equipment of the dispensary.

The collection was the son of Dr. James E. Morgan, the first teacher of Materia Medica, Therapeutics and Medicine for the School of Medicine, and the brother of Dr. E. Carroll Morgan, who was quite a name as a medical specialist. He enjoyed considerable professional and social prestige throughout Washington, and for a long time had offices at 1720 M Street, N.W.

MEDICAL NOTES.

Dr. and Mrs. James A. Cahill of 2907 Connecticut Avenue, are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a baby girl, born November 14th in Providence Hospital. The baby will be christened Flor- ence Mildred.

Dr. Cahill is instructor in Minor Surgery and his late husband's Professor of Surgery in the Medical School, and the popularity of his classes and clinics is a byword among the medical students.

In the October 21st issue of the "Journal of the American Medical Association," a very interesting article appeared by Dr. Lester Neuman, Associate in Pathology in the Medical School. The subject discussed was "Nonsyphilitic Aortitis," and this important condition was handled in an excellent manner.

Dr. Neuman read this paper before the Section in Practice of Medicine at the Seventy-Sixth Annual Session of the American Medical Association, Atlantic City, N. J., in May, 1923, and the Jour- nal of the Association offers it to the profession as a worthy discussion of this particular type of inflammation.

GREEK GOSSIP

Alpha Xi Chapter of Xi Psi Phi is heartily supporting the University Alumni Homecoming of an alumnus chapter. This move is being supported by Drs. Simons, Collough and other men here in town and promises to be a great success.

The Psi Omega fraternity held a smoker for the Freshmen dental class. A good time was had by all, and the Alumni chapters are present.

The Delta Sigma Delta fraternity is planning a social evening in the near future for the benefit of the Freshman class.

THETA KAPPA PSI.

"Theta Kappa Psi Fraternity held their first "get-together" last Saturday night, November 21st, with a supper for the brothers, guests, and pledges. The affair was held at 1906 Calvert St. N.W., and the large living room and parlors provided plenty of space for the numerous guests. Conviviality was the keynote of the evening, and the chapter spared no expense in making it one which will live long in the memory of all present. Music was provided by Coleman's Orchestra, and the caterers served a supper which was a revelation to the padded stomachs of the "media." Mr. Charles F. Kenna, Grand Pryton of the chapter, welcomed all on behalf of the fraternity, and spoke of its ideals, and the reason for the existence of the chapter in glabraternal life in Georgetown. He stressed the worth of the Greek-letter societies when viewed in their proper light, and the advantages to be gained only in being a part of them is taken by a Phi Bet introduced the other speakers of the evening.

Dr. Tom Williams, of the United States Public Health Service, gave a very interesting speech on the ideals of the fraternity and of the integral part that they play in the future of the fraternities subservive. He spoke of the work of the Public Health Service, and of the Georgetown men connected with it.

Dr. Harry Zehner gave a very ap- preciated talk on the problems of diseases, accidents and handicaps which beset a medical student, and urged all to apply themselves assiduously, and thus hurdle the obstacles in their path.

Mr. James H. Costello, Instruc- tor in Chemistry, gave a few reminis- cences of the Medical School, and many of his stories brought well de- served rounds of applause.

PHI BETA PI.

Pi Beta Pi fraternity held their first smoker of the current school year on November 21st. The affair was held in the offices of Dr. George B. Trible. The general practice of Oto-Laryngology, acts as host to the Phi Beta and their guests at least once a year. At this affair, the fraternity presented a repast unexcelled for variety and quality. The supper was served by Rauscher's and two of Happ- py Walker's bluebirds enlivened the occasion by their melody and song.

Mr. Edward F. Leonard, Archon of the chapter, welcomed the guests in the name of the fraternity, and introduced the speakers.

Major John A. Corby, Professor of Military Science, was the first to take the floor, and he expressed his pleasure at being present at the gathering once again, and in conclu- sion, told a few "army" stories which were received with great enjoyment. Dr. Trible, as host, gave a very cordial welcome to all, and reminded the students of the presence of the officers of the fraternity. The joy should be replaced by hours of hard work in order to reach the heights and fulfills the duty of the ones at home. Dr. Joseph J. McCarthy, Assistant Professor of Clin- ical medicine, and one of the charter members of the chapter, spoke of the earlier years of fraternal life at George- town and was cheered by the boys who had gone before.

Senior Inlay Clinic.

A clinic on inlay work was given on Thursday, December 3, by Dr. Geo. R. Ellis, Superintendent of the Infirmary, for the benefit of the Senior class. Dr. Ellis is nationally known as an authority on operative dentistry, having devoted a greater part of his time, since graduation from Georgetown in research and teaching in that field. He was instrumental in organizing the Army Dental Clinic and for the past three years has been in Washington, D.C., doing some of the most important research work in dentistry.

Senior Dental Dance.

The dance held by the Senior dental class at the Cairo on November 19 was a huge social success. Beautiful ladies, sleek gentlemen, wonderful music and all the evening to spend. The dance was one of the best supported affairs this year. The faculty was well represented by Dean Hough, Father Summers, Drs. Bra- zinsky, Thorn, Longcore, Hill, De Burr and Stohman.

Mister A. D. M., versatile enter- tainer, sang several songs, encoreing with "The One I Love." Joe Sullivan gave an impromptu speech, and the Seniors an opportunity to see just how each class of filling is handled. The need for this type of clinic has long been felt by the dental student, and now that it has been inaugurated we earnestly hope that it may become a permanent portion of the curriculum.

A big year is in the offing for the Georgetown Dental College. We have a number of students with the ability to attend to all the motors and vulcanizers, and other dental laboratory equipment. He is in the present time importance to his due to strenuous efforts in trying to re- vive a spark of life in some of the mo- men, and here is the best part of it, the faculty has promised to procure some more. We are all for you, MISTER YOUNG.

Plans are being perfected to increase the chair capacity of the infirmary so as to allow the Juniors more clinical experi- ence without interfering with the Sen- ior. The X-ray room will be renovated and the partition removed, leaving room for the additional chairs.

Capt. Holmes, of Walter Reed Hos- pital, who is giving a seminar on Dental bacteriology to the Junior class. Capt. Holmes is at the present time engaged in doing research at Walter Reed Hos- pital, and is considered quite an authority on dental bacteriology.

Alumni News.

Dr. Joseph F. Drennan, of Middleburg, Conn., a graduate of the class of 1925, was recently a visitor to the school. Dr. Drennan was a very active member in his school and fraternity life despite his 85 years. He intends to defend his title as 18.2 balk line billiard cham- pion of the Academy Billiard Parlors which he won and retained all of last year. He intends to make Washington his home from now on.

Dr. Nash, graduate of 1924, has just returned from New York where he spent the week-end at the Army-Navy game and other entertainments. Dr. Nash is as- sociated with Dr. Hawley and steadily climbing in the dental world.

Officers of the Domesday Book.

The "Domesday Book," the yearly pub- lication of the University, is beginning its activities. The Dental College will be represented with Dr. A. Conlon, editor; Mr. John Keaveny, associate editor; Mr. Elmer Smith, business manager, and the following business managers: Mr. Wm. R. L. Le Gendre, of the Junior class; Mr. J. C. Lutz, of the Sophomore class, and Mr. J. H. Dudley, of the Freshman class.

At the first regular meeting on Nov-em ber 6, the following subject was dis-cussed: "Resolved, That the American Merchant Marine be subsidized by Congress with a view to making it on a par with maritime carriers of foreign nations." The sub-ject was proposed by Andrew G. Haley, a graduate of Canisius College, Buffalo, N. Y, and selected Henry McCuin, of Utica, New York, to fill the office of Treasurer.

Prof. Kavanaugh Speaks. A short but highly interesting talk was delivered by Prof. Kavanaugh, on the aims, purposes and ideals of the Society. INTERNATIONAL NEWS

APRIL 1926

EDITED BY S. A. DULANY HUNTER, CHIEF EDITOR, FOREIGN SERVICE SCHOOL

ARGENTINA—The National Council of Education condemns the Boy Scout movement because of the harmful influence it has had on the young people of the country, and recommends that no Boy Scouts have upon the younger generation. There can remain no doubt that militarism is a ruling passion in Argentina and will lead only to conflict. Our only salvation then rests in abandoning nationalism and adopting internationalism.

CHINA—It is claimed that the temporary agreement reached by the Chinese War Lords has already been broken. Chang Tso Lin, the Manchurian general, had agreed to withdraw from Tientsin in return for the evacuation of Peking by Feng Yu Hsian. The situation is now as unsettled as ever.

ENGLAND—The House of Commons has approved the Locarno treaties by a vote of 373 to 12. The only step that now remains is for the effective ratification. The formal signature of the King after the treaties have been signed in London on Dec. 1.

FRANCE—The French Cabinet has fallen. The former Minister of Foreign Affairs, Mr. Briand, finally accepted the position of Prime Minister. Several courses of study have threatened to resign unless he did so. The hopes of France and, to a large extent, the hopes of all Europe rest in him. A war debt accord has been planned as well as a heavy domestic fiscal program that will avoid inflation and command general support.

GERMANY—President von Hindenburg's active support of the Locarno treaties has led to their approval by the Senate. The(node of 1877 of the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University, in Coimbra, Portugal, in reference to the summer courses given at that institution during the past summer which were attended by a number of students from the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University and in which some of the courses were given by Dr. J. de S. Coutinho, head of the Portuguese Department in Georgetown University.

Dr. Remedios in his letter to the Rector of the University of Portugal and Regent of the School of Foreign Service, has sent the following letter of acknowledgment:

"The Third Annual Luncheon of the School of Letters of the University of Coimbra could not avoid bringing to your knowledge this fact, which seems to us to be of the utmost importance for the summer course, brilliant and worthwhile to be mentioned, although it was the first year that the course was held not only in Coimbra, but in Portugal."

Dr. W. S. L. W. de S. Coutinho, President of Georgetown University and Regent of the School of Foreign Service, has sent the following letter of acknowledgment to the Director of the School of Letters of the University of Coimbra:

"It is with great pleasure that I acknowledge the receipt of your letter and it is with real satisfaction that I compliment the University of Coimbra and its School of Letters for the brilliant results of the summer course, which filled with pride all friends and admirers of that ancient and experienced institution. "We feel truly thankful for the honor conferred upon us by naming two of our distinguished professors: Dr. Remedios in Portuguese Literature, and Dr. de S. Coutinho in history. We are very grateful for the enthusiasm with which that distinguished professor prepared courses that the Georgetown University has been able to make the great enterprise of the approach of the Latin-American nations and our Republic, an important chapter of the great work of international solidarity. "The Georgetown University takes this opportunity to express its thanks to you and to your distinguished colleagues of the School of Letters for the toast to this University at the banquet given in honor of our colleague, Dr. Coutinho, on Dec. 18. At the same time we are very grateful for the honor conferred upon us by naming two of our best known publications in the field of Political Science, and which contains an article on the three Major Commodified of Persia, written by the Hon. Sultan Mahmud Amreie, Attaché of the Legation of Persia at Washington, and graduate of the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University, Washington, D.C. This article was originally prepared as part of the graduate work of Mr. Amerie at the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University.

Mr. R. A. Reid, Foreign Trade Economist of the Pan American Union and Lecturer on Latin America as an Export Salesman, of the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University is giving a special lecture illustrated by motion pictures on Modern Developments in the Argentine Republic. This lecture will be held at the School of Foreign Service at noon on Friday, November 20th.

Mr. Reid has traveled extensively through practically all of South and Central America.

The Catalogue of the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University which has just gone to press contains an interesting analysis of the students' registration in the summer courses given at that institution during the year 1925. From the catalogue, it shows that for the year 1925 there is a total of 482 students registered for the summer courses. These students come from 46 States, the District of Columbia, and 20 foreign countries.

The number of students from the following countries is as follows:

Argentina 2
Brazil 1
China 1
Costa Rica 1
Cuba 2
Ecuador 1
England 1
Estonia 1
Germany 1
Greece 1
Italy 4
Ireland 1
Latvia 2
Mexico 1
Netherlands 1
Paraguay Islands 14
Porto Rico 1

Word has just been received from another of the graduates of the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University who is now in foreign service. Mr. Mariano C. Lopez has recently been appointed Assistant Professor of Agriculture of the University of the Philippines and also assistant professor there in Rural Economics. Mr. Lopez studied a number of courses in Economics in the School of Foreign Service while working toward his Bachelor of Foreign Service degree.

Fordham was forced to dip her colors to a machine that on Saturday would probably have defeated any team in this country.

—New York Sun.

This writer saw Army, Columbia, and Cornell hit their high spots this season and would willingly back the Hilltoppers against any of the three. Furthermore, the writer would rate Captain Jack Hagerty ahead of any ball-carrier of the teams mentioned.   Hagerty is one of those rare players who make any game they play in delightful, regardless of the score or the opposition. He is Georgetown captain did his best work in the open field after he got beyond the scrimmage line and it is the real test of a running back.

Machinery works: Man thinks

According to college tests, man develops one-eighth horsepower for short periods and one-twentieth in steady work. As a craftsman—a worker who uses brains—he is well worth his daily wage. But as a common laborer, matching brawn against motorized power, he is an expensive luxury.

With a fifty-horsepower motor, for instance, one man can do the work of 400 common laborers. He is paid far more for his brains than his brawn.

The great need of this and future generations is for men who can plan and direct. There is ample motorized machinery for all requirements of production and construction. But motorized machinery, no matter how ingenious, can never plan for itself.

And that is precisely where the college man comes in. Highly trained brains are needed more and more to think, plan, and direct tasks for the never-ending application of brawn-saving electricity.
