$200,000 LOST AS UNIVERSITY CUTS GULC BUDGET REQUEST

Money For Library, New Faculty Positions Denied

Georgetown’s Vice-President for Educational Affairs, Edmund S. Ryan, S.J., told a disappointed GULC faculty on Friday that the Law Center’s 1973-74 budget will be more than $200,000 below the amount it initially requested.

The budget, which calls for spending of $2.62 million by the Law Center for direct expenses (excluding student aid and research programs) represents an increase of $259,000 over the current allocations. It was approved by the Georgetown Board of Directors at their last meeting on February 2nd.

The library and faculty hardest hit by the budget cuts. According to faculty sources, the Law Center has requested an additional $120,000 to fully implement the recommendations presented to the faculty last fall by the Vancouver Committee. The new budget sets the library appropriation at $894,000, an increase of only $64,000 above the current spending levels.

Several alternate classroom arrangements, the Law Center had requested funds to hire five new full-time professors and three teaching assistants. Two of the five full-time positions were lost in the budget.

While the new appropriation falls far short of the recommendations of the GULC administration, it still represents an increase of 11 percent over the current allocation. This compares favorably with the 2.9 percent increase approved for the entire student body by the Board.

According to the Board’s financial report, the Law Center has requested an increase at least $157,000 in tuition revenue and with $84,000 in student assistance. Enrollment in the fall semester will add $48,000 to the tuition revenue, while another $169,000 will be paid by law school students in tuition, interest, and miscellaneous revenues mandated last year.

In a statement released last week, Father Albert R. Roten, Chairman of the Board of Directors, stated that the total increase is in the "normal distribution of all direct and indirect expenses" and will grow a rationale for the allocation of indirect costs to the Law Center.

The report is in advance of a $30,000,000 bond issue study still being prepared by the D.C. accounting firm of Hyndman, Reinisch, and Long. That study was due in January but has been delayed. Neither study, said Kelly, will affect the 1973-74 budget. "Those decisions have already been made.

The ultimate fate of the Law Center surplus and the controversial tuition "dividend" will depend on final allocations for maintenance, computer, library, and student and administrative services. These, the indirect costs which the University will estimate, are allocated to the "cost centers" from which they will be charged.

Kelly claimed the figures will show a surplus "not anywhere near $1 million" as estimated last semester by some faculty and the Law Week.

The Kelly study, he said, is a "fairly accurate" "manual distribution of all direct and indirect expenses." (Continued on page 4)

Pinto Seeks Earlier Date For GULC Commencement

By DANNY MORRISSEY

SBA President John Pinto has petitioned the GULC administration officials to reschedule commencement exercises for Friday, May 25 graduates from Saturday, May 3, the present date, to sometime over one of the May Day weekends.

Associate Registrar Bertha King informed the Law Center that it would be impossible to move the registration deadline because additional time is necessary to allow faculty to review questions and to allow the faculty to meet to decide the preparedness of students who fail to meet the requirements for graduation.

PROPOSAL

In a memo to Dean Adrian Fisher and Assistant Dean William Greenerkahn and James Oltham, Pinto indicated that Thursday was the "best interests of the Class of 1973 (would) be served if the date were changed, since most bar review courses begin between May 21 and June 4.

Pinto’s conclusion was supported by a study submitted by Student Activities Secretary Judy Kane which, in part, said: "According to the National Office Annual Report, 1973-72, 43% of the Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Ohio, Massachusetts and Illinois students in the second-year course at Georgetown are presently accepted of employment. With these statistics as the primary source of information, it is anticipated that the Class of 1973 will fall into a similar pattern.

The beginning dates for the bar review courses given in the aforementioned jurisdictions are as follows: D.C., June 1; New York, June 2 (recessively); Penn., May 21; New Jersey, June 2; Md., June 14; Ohio, May 21; Ill., June 6; and May 21.

From the telephone survey of all other states I have found that the bar review courses in the majority of the jurisdictions not listed above are more or less in line with the states of May 21 and June 4.

(Continued on page 5)

Voting Ends Today in SBA President Race

GULC day and evening students have until 5 p.m. today to cast their ballots in the Main Lobby for the 1973-74 Executive Board of the Student Bar Association.

All first and second-year day and all first through third year evening students are eligible to vote in the election only evening students, however, may vote for Night Vice-Presidential.

Electioneering ended yesterday in some SBA Election Committee Chairman David Budovitoff termed a "clean" campaign. Candidates spoke to gathered students on Monday in the Student Lounge and voted generally on the platform issues in the financial crisis.

(Continued on page 7)
Enough Is Enough

For better or for worse, our society seems to be moving towards a greater emphasis on financial success and material possessions. This trend can be seen in the increased focus on money and materialism in society. However, this focus on material success can come at a cost, as it may lead to a decrease in the importance of personal relationships, spiritual growth, and overall well-being.

In this issue, we explore the impact of materialism on our lives and how we can find a balance between success and fulfillment. We also discuss the importance of fostering a sense of community and connection, and how this can help us achieve a greater sense of purpose and meaning.

---

Letters to the Editor

Grading Schemes We Have Buried But They Rule Us From the Grave

Dear Editor:

I would like to bring to your attention the grading schemes that are currently in use at our institution. While they may seem fair and consistent on the surface, they can create a false sense of security and a lack of motivation for students.

The current grading schemes are based on a fixed number of points, which can lead to a lack of understanding and engagement with the material. Students may feel that they have achieved a passing grade, but without a true understanding of the subject matter, they are not truly ready to move forward.

I propose that we consider a more flexible grading scheme that allows for a range of achievements and that promotes a deeper understanding of the material.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

---

Your story of your own endeavors in this area in 1967 was most interesting. At the time you may have been concerned that the grading system here has been changed again. I have attempted to find the details of how the new system was expected to compare with the old. I was told that neither the new grading system has been approved by the faculty without any concern. How does the new grade affect the overall grade for your class?

Dear [Name],

Thank you very much for your interest in the grading system changes. The new system was designed to ensure fair and consistent grading, and it has been approved by the faculty.

The new grading system includes a range of options for grading, including pass/fail, credit/no credit, and letter grades. The overall grade for a class is determined by a combination of these options, taking into account the performance of all students in the class.

Sincerely,

[Signature]
The dividend rate is set by the Board of Directors, as are the dates of the dividend. These are for the most part mutual decisions.

Declaration Date: The date the dividend is officially announced (declared) and the other date is as follows:

Ex-Dividend Date: The date on which buyers of stocks or bonds on the date of record will not be entitled to the dividend.

Date of Record: The date 3 business days after the dividend is declared, the date on which buyers of stocks or bonds on the date of record will be entitled to the dividend.

The dividend will be distributed to shareholders on record at the close of business on the date of record.

Payment Date: The date the dividend is paid to shareholders.

NOW, WHAT'S HAPPENING?

All last week the market made efforts to rally, finally succeeding on Friday. This activity indicated that buyers were arriving on the scene that much of the market is oversold. Nonetheless, there remains doubt as to whether this is a real turn-around rally. Hints of a downward market. The earlier signs are all of buying power because of worries and bad news on their own fronts.

On the upswing, interest on interest rates has people worried. The news is bad for the market and a very bad news for highly leveraged companies dependent on heavy debt financing. Utilities and airlines.

Pinto Reviews His Presidency

By JOHN PINTO

One of the major objectives of this year's Student Bar Association at the Georgetown Regional Interview Program. At this time approximately 20 percent of the graduates have found employment. This is not the satisfaction that students, the Alumni Relations, the Board of Directors, and the others have experienced over the past several years. Dean Fisher has expressed for many graduates that the problem of finding a job is easier for Mr. Murray, 74 to head next year's GRIP effort. All graduates are being held rather than the December numbers utilized last year. Chip will be looking for jobs for the vast numbers utilizing GRIP and vaccines and will be expected to see a second job among the other things.

It's interesting to learn an idea created and expressed for by as an SBA President candidate was followed by the program announcement for which was very clear that the Alumni Association has been requested to delay the stock sale for as long as possible.

The Dean has assured one that all students who are interested in any of the on-campus organizations comprising the officers of the library, faculty, and students=

FACULTY STUDIED

The faculty sits as a committee, according to law, and the University of Washington. Lately Harvard and Brown Report have been done as a good job in the United States. The committee is working on a new facsimile in the state of Washington. Next year, new faculty members can expect a full task orientation program thanks to the efforts of the committee.

The Library Committee, under the leadership of the Associate Dean, will keep the materials in the library available for a very long time in its collection. A good library group is not a valid basis in its requests. The library group is to be commended in making a suggestion of a library and following requests for improved lighting, additional comfortable and more competitive services during the examination period.

DELEGATE ELECTIONS

The election for the SBA delegate to the Student Bar Association was held on February 24. Petition candidates, signature books, and signatures of the Student Activities Office may be obtained for the Student Activities Office on February 15. Petitions are due at 9:30 p.m. on February 24.
GULC-Hilltop Budget Row Grows

By Lewis Greenbaum

The growing rift between the GULC and Hilltop administration over the University's financial arrangements was evident Friday when Fellers Ryan, the student president of the GULC, and the Hilltop Senate president presided over the meeting of the budget committee. The faculty was ready to fight.

Misapplied is not the sort of thing you typically expect from the administration. But for the present, that is not the case. The Hilltop is fighting the faculty over the allocation of funds to the University's departments. This week, the GULC will vote on a resolution to censure the Hilltop administration for misappropriating funds from the University's departments.

The GULC has a history of fighting the administration over the allocation of funds. In previous years, the GULC has been able to block the administration's attempts to cut funds from the University's departments. However, this year, the administration has been able to override the GULC's resolutions and allocate funds in a way that the GULC believes is unfair.

The GULC believes that the administration is misappropriating funds from the University's departments and allocating them to the Hilltop administration. The GULC has been able to block the administration's attempts to cut funds from the University's departments in previous years. However, this year, the administration has been able to override the GULC's resolutions and allocate funds in a way that the GULC believes is unfair.

In response, the GULC has filed a lawsuit against the University's administration. The GULC is seeking injunctive relief to prevent the administration from misappropriating funds from the University's departments.

The GULC is holding a meeting on Tuesday to discuss the situation and to vote on a resolution to censure the Hilltop administration for misappropriating funds from the University's departments. The GULC will also be contacting the Department of Education to file a complaint about the administration's actions.

In conclusion, the GULC is fighting the administration over the allocation of funds. The GULC is seeking injunctive relief to prevent the administration from misappropriating funds from the University's departments. The GULC will also be contacting the Department of Education to file a complaint about the administration's actions.

Hence Studying Cost Audit

(Continued from page 1)

The administration acknowledged that it had not yet evaluated the cost of the new program. However, the administration noted that the program would be cost-effective in the long term.

WANT MONEY BACK

Stilt said student last week: "Instead of allocating to the tickets the downtown money, we should be returning it to the students. This would be the best way to reduce the costs of the program." Stilt is a member of the GULC Senate and is the University's student representative on the Board of Trustees.

"I've got a lot of charts and data here," he added.
Flegl To Argue Supreme Court Appeal Next Week

By WILLIAM SMITH

Prof. Frank F. Flegl will argue the case of Palmer v. U.S. before the Supreme Court on Monday, February 21. The case, Palmer v. U.S., 321 U.S. 563, was granted certiorari by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, where it was heard on February 28, 1942, and was then sent to the Supreme Court for argument. The Court will consider whether Palmer's conviction was valid under the Fourth Amendment, which provides that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law.

The Fourth Amendment guarantees the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures. The Amendment prohibits the use of evidence obtained in violation of the Amendment in a criminal trial.

The Court's decision in the case of Palmer v. U.S. will have important implications for the interpretation of the Fourth Amendment and for the protection of individual rights. The Court's decision will be watched closely by law enforcement agencies and civil liberties organizations alike.

By WILLIAM SMITH

Prof. Frank F. Flegl will argue the case of Palmer v. U.S. before the Supreme Court on Monday, February 21. The case, Palmer v. U.S., 321 U.S. 563, was granted certiorari by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, where it was heard on February 28, 1942, and was then sent to the Supreme Court for argument. The Court will consider whether Palmer's conviction was valid under the Fourth Amendment, which provides that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law.

The Fourth Amendment guarantees the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures. The Amendment prohibits the use of evidence obtained in violation of the Amendment in a criminal trial.

The Court's decision in the case of Palmer v. U.S. will have important implications for the interpretation of the Fourth Amendment and for the protection of individual rights. The Court's decision will be watched closely by law enforcement agencies and civil liberties organizations alike.
Seven From Eleven Leave Four

By GEORGE HARTLEY

Kibbitz is a great pastime with the best of friends, coming in at ten p.m. One is hard to find in New York. But there are a few others. The corner store is a marvelous place to watch the world go by. The people are friendly and the atmosphere is welcoming.

Defenders usually prefer to talk about a case in the most positive light. In the absence of a public defender or court-appointed lawyer, they may have to hire someone. However, in some cases, the public defender or court-appointed lawyer may be the best choice.

As the leader of a group of defense attorneys, I often find myself in a similar situation. However, I believe that the public defender or court-appointed lawyer is usually the best choice. This is because they have a wider range of clients and can handle a variety of cases. Additionally, they are more experienced and have a better understanding of the legal system.

In conclusion, I believe that the public defender or court-appointed lawyer is usually the best choice. However, in some cases, hiring a private attorney may be necessary. Ultimately, the decision should be based on the specific case and the individual needs of the client.

District Reap Bumper Crop of Cinematic Offerings

BY HOWARD RYTOWITZ

Unfortunately for those of you who have been following our most recent column, it’s only been a week since the opening of the first movie on the calendar. It seems as though the theaters are having a hard time trying to keep up with the demand for new films.

In this column, we will take a look at the most recent releases and discuss the overall state of the movie industry. We will also look at the box office performance of some of the biggest releases of the year.

I hope you enjoy this edition of the Distinctive Reviews column. We strive to bring you the latest and most accurate information about the world of cinema.

Abortion Forum Cancelled

By ELLEN LEWIS

The Women’s Rights Collective cancelled the forum on Wednesday, February 21.

The issues were to be presented in a series of symposia on the rights of women, which were cancelled after the forum’s organizers withdrew their support. The organizers were concerned that the forum would be used to promote hate speech and violence against women.

In response, the organizers of the forum issued a statement, expressing their commitment to the advancement of women’s rights and to the prevention of hate speech and violence.

In conclusion, while the forum was cancelled due to the organizers’ withdrawal, we must continue to support the cause of women’s rights and to fight against hate speech and violence. We must also continue to hold forums like these to raise awareness and to promote dialogue.

The Ephemeral, Lusterly and Maxine Club, a local organization that focuses on the issue of abortion, has also been invited to participate in the forum. They have accepted the invitation and will be present at the forum on Wednesday, February 21.

Movie

The Ephemeral, Lusterly and Maxine Club is a local organization that focuses on the issue of abortion. They have been invited to participate in the forum and have accepted the invitation. They will be present at the forum on Wednesday, February 21.

In conclusion, while the forum was cancelled due to the organizers’ withdrawal, we must continue to support the cause of women’s rights and to fight against hate speech and violence. We must also continue to hold forums like these to raise awareness and to promote dialogue.

The Ephemeral, Lusterly and Maxine Club is a local organization that focuses on the issue of abortion. They have accepted the invitation to participate in the forum. They will be present at the forum on Wednesday, February 21.

In conclusion, while the forum was cancelled due to the organizers’ withdrawal, we must continue to support the cause of women’s rights and to fight against hate speech and violence. We must also continue to hold forums like these to raise awareness and to promote dialogue.
Celtic Chances Ride on Havlicek's Knees

(Continued from page 1)

It was beautiful. First there was Tommy Heinsohn asking Mr. Auerbach's (you never call him Mr. Auerbach unless you're a player) permission to take the team in a certain restaurant. Mr. Auerbach mumbled something about "Well, yes, it's your team" (think about that one a while and then leafing and bearing about his young grandnephew). The team itself moved about the dressing room in post victory UCLA fashion, strumming each valley of schoolboy questions thrown their way as politely as possible. When I did get around to speaking with Havlicek and Jab, I was about the team's chances to go on to win the whole thing. Havlicek focused on the fact that the team's conditioning should carry them through the 40 school clubs. Composed, polite, and well-spoken, Havlicek told me that barring injury, the team would go as all the way.

KNEES

Going all the way means wearing the Gloves to the longest hit at some point, for I honestly feel the Celtics will fare far better against LA than New York because of the way they match up individually and the way they run. With Boston, we have the necessary agility; with LA, we have the necessary strength to beat West, and with West on the book reports as to when his sick days will end. The Celtics' Don Buse reports that one of the Detroit coaches has said, "If the Celtics come through the playoffs, the next 10 years our team will be thinking about the next year. In the past, we have been able to win but not as late in the season. This year, it drops mid-Atlantic to Los Angeles."
The Not-So-Healthy Celts

J. Michael Bevz

The Celts further beat the Lakers and the Bucks in two games they had to win last week, giving them the best overall record in the league. But in that same ten-day stretch, they lost to Atlanta, Denver, Cleveland, and hardly beat Philly twice. You can talk all you want about the accomplishments of Dave Cowens, easily the league’s MVP at this point. Or you can look at Paul Silas and wonder how he has rounded out that already very impressive club. But the man of the hour, in a certainly nothing way at present, is again John Havlicek. Stamina and durability (along with defense, leadership, scoring, and anything else you want to throw in) have long been Havlicek’s trademarks. Now his knees, even more than those of Willis Reed, are the key to who will wear the NBA crown in season’s end. The teams three times and two close calls notwithstanding above, Havlicek either did not play or play as well as he usually does, which was used so sparingly that his presence was surely missed.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Most recently, the Celts have accomplished the following: In the All-Star Game, Chicago’s three representatives, John Havlicek, Dave Cowens, and Bill Russell, along with Coach Tom Heinsohn, defeated the East with their crash

Things never work out here to our advantage. From the beginning of the basketball season, I always wanted to write a feature on the Celtics, extolling their virtues and telling you how good they would do it. The big problem is that when they took on the big feature, I don’t say that

To build a good competitive team in Washington, according to Eddie Powers, Art Pollio needs the kind of coach and general manager who can relate to young players.

“Sure you can go for a big name like (Gordie) Howe or (Mats) Billington, but you might be better off with a top-notch college coach.”

Eddie happened to have one in mind. “How about (Lew) Alcindri, the guy who worked here this year at Boston College.” Eddie Powers suggested. “He’s a top-flight coach and a great fellow.”

“You can make it in the NHL with young talent and good coaching,” Eddie continued. “Take that team in Buffalo (Sabers). They have been playing tough competitive hockey all of a sudden. They are beginning to be a lot of people. And they are doing it mostly with kids.”

Despite his loyalty to the Boston Bruins, Art Pollio said Buffalo’s Buffalo picked for this year’s Stanley Cup play-offs. That’s short-sighted, young lady, is a big advantage.”

Turning to his own situation in Boston, Eddie added: “You know, I’ve got so many events coming up in April with the prospect of four Boston teams in the play-offs plus my regular attractions. I want Cowens to make April a thirty-fourth month so I can be sure to fill them all in.”

As for Pollio? He’s got a feeling Eddie Cowens would like to take ten days a month off your hands for the next couple of years.

Dear President Henle, S.J.: As a law student paying tuition, I am appalled at the lack of consideration extended to the problems and needs of the Law Center.

As I understand it, a portion of my tuition payment is diverted to subsidize other University programs which are of some direct benefit to me.

Accordingly, I request a tuition rebate in the amount of $500 or a comparable per capita expenditure for additional Law Center services and personnel.

For a Better Georgetown.

Name

Division and Year

(If you find this Coupon out and return it to the Law Weekly office, Rm. 18-7. The editor will see that it is forwarded to the Main Campus.)

This Coupon Represents

A Per Capita Share Of Law Center Tuition Income, Refundable On Demand

500 500

Dear President Henle, S.J.: As a law student paying tuition, I am appalled at the lack of consideration extended to the problems and needs of the Law Center. As I understand it, a portion of my tuition payment is diverted to subsidize other University programs which are of direct benefit to me. Accordingly, I request a tuition rebate in the amount of $500 or a comparable per capita expenditure for additional Law Center services and personnel.

For a Better Georgetown.

Name

Division and Year

(If you find this Coupon out and return it to the Law Weekly office, Rm. 18-7. The editor will see that it is forwarded to the Main Campus.)