DOMESDAY EDITOR SELECTS STAFF

David Dyer To Be College Editor — Soisson In Charge of Sports — Steiner To Head Advertising.

While this year's Domesday Book nears completion, the one to be issued in 1932 is already under way. Martin White, '32, is the editor-in-chief. So far some of the department heads have been appointed. David Dyer, '32, is college editor; William Soisson is in charge of sports; Gerard O'Brien will take care of art; T. C. activities during the year; and John Bodkin, '32, will head the photographic department. Louis Fisher, '32, who was elected business manager, has assigned advertising to John Steiner of the same class.

More Appointments Soon
No other appointments have been made. The positions for managerships for the art, circulation, and Crack o' Doom departments are as yet unfilled. Officers to conduct the sections of the downtown schools have not been chosen, although their assignments will be known together with the names which will complete the staff, in the near future.

Novel Theme
The theme of the new book, which, the editor said, could not be disclosed at the present time, is of such a nature, that it will be more expensive to produce than other issues heretofore and decidedly minus inasmuch as its contemplated style has never before been attempted in college annals. For this reason the staff members feel confident that it will be well received when finished.

No contracts have been signed so far, but negotiations, which it is thought will terminate by the end of the month, are being made with photographers, printers, and engravers. According to desired plan, most of the work, including photographs, will be completed by next June. The task of arrangement will begin with the next scholastic year.

Sports Flashes
G. U. wins one and drops two court games.

Hilltop runners entered in Brooklyn College meet.

Second Intra-mural track meet held last Saturday.

Intra-mural basketball schedule drawn up.

Freshman five loses first game.

Details of these and other sports events will be found on page 4.

GLEE CLUB PLANS SEVERAL CONCERTS

To Give Recital At Visitation Soon After Exams—Commenced On Showing At Bolivar Celebration.

Upon the return from the holidays, the Glee Club started off with fine spirit to prepare for its concert program, which is to start immediately after the exams. Five concerts have already been arranged and several others will be added to the list at an early date.

Visitation Concert
The opening concert will be held at the Visitation Convent as usual. Then follows one at Trinity, and another at St. Paul's Church. In this latter, besides presenting their regular program, the Glee Club will assist the female choir of the church in several selections. Shortly afterwards, the club will take a trip to Woodstock, to present a program for the Jesuit Seminary there. The annual Macarene Concert for the college will be held in the latter part of March. An invitation to sing at the Cherry Chase School had to be declined, as the date offered conflicting with the examinations.

Club Commended
At the first meeting of the year, Mr. Donovan, director of the Glee Club, commended the members on their singing at the celebration in honor of Bolivar, and especially upon the Bolivar program broadcast over the radio, on the afternoon of Bolivar's anniversary. The director said that he had received many favorable compliments on this offering. He also expressed a wish that the members would continue their good attendance at meetings.

GASTON AND WHITE DEBATE FEB. 26

Question Is, "Resolved, That All Immigration To the United States of America Should Be Excluded For A Period of Five Years Beginning July 1, 1931."

On the 26th of February, the annual debate between the two Junior Debating Societies of Georgetown College, the William Gaston Debating Society and the Edward Douglas White Debating Society, will be held in Gaston Hall. As was the case last year the men will have an added incentive to work for, this being the medal given by Mrs. Edward Douglas White, in memory of her husband, the late Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

The White Debating Society is named after Chief Justice White who was a student at the college at one time, but left Georgetown to enlist in the Confederate Army in 1861. The Gaston Debating Society, the winners in last year's debate, takes its name from William Gaston, the first student to attend Georgetown College. These two societies are composed of members of the freshman and sophomore classes.

Question of Debate
The question for the debate this year is as follows, "Resolved, That all immigration to the United States of America should be excluded for a period of five years." (Continued on page 7)

PHILODEMIC CALLS SPECIAL SESSION

Will Decide Representatives For Inter-Collegiate Debating Team Tonight—Not Confined To Society.

A special meeting of the Philodemic Debating Society was called on Monday evening, January 19, for the purpose of selecting a night on which the tryouts for the inter-collegiate debating team will be held. The night chosen is that of Wednesday, January 21. This meeting was called in view of the coming inter-collegiate debates since, according to its usual custom, the society has suspended its regular meetings during the period devoted to review and examinations.

Open to All Students
The tryouts for the inter-collegiate team are not confined to members of the philodemic Society but are open to all students of the university. Rev. John J. Toohey, S.J., will be in charge. He will propose three or four debatable subjects and will give in brief two or three arguments, pro and con, for each. Then the contestants will be allowed a half hour to develop any one side of a subject, after which they will speak in Gaston Hall. The speeches will be judged by a committee composed of three members of the faculty and Fr. Toohey.
THE COLLEGIAN PACKS HIS BAG

One of the most popular means of recreation at the present day is traveling. Often, during the vacation periods, the entire country does not appear to be radically or even considerably changing the number of passengers on the list, of transcontinental lines, although in some cases the boats are remodelled so as to allow more accommodations in the "tourist third" or "student third" quarters. Every summer thousands of college students are making good advantage of their time by taking themselves to German ruins, Italian cathedrals, French chateaux, or the Ritz bar. Each to his own liking they go, all lured on by that indefinable impulse known as the wanderlust.

Aside from the satisfaction of this desire to move, the outstanding results of such occupation is its educational one. Several thousand years ago one Mencius, worthy philosopher of China, stated that one seeing was worth a thousand hearings. Likewise is seeing believing, so that the most indelible means of procuring an education is travel. The student of history can listen to hours of lecturing on the Forum, Circus Maximus, Acadropolis, and other remains of what has been great in the past, but hundreds of such periods will hardly benefit him as would but a few hours of casual observing. Similarly will a student in any form of learning find it his time to determine what or where the concrete is as he has read about or seen pictured.

In the case of a great many colleges who are not particularly interested in any form of art or science, however, the profit of travel comes simply in the change of environment. That is, one can not help feeling interested in observing foreign modes and manners of living, meanwhile being broadened thereby, simply seeing ordinary sights as market places, amusement parks, and public buildings is subconsciously giving him a new field for thought. Moreover, to those inclined to such things, there is no place where a language can be learned as well and as quickly as in the place where it is spoken.

Transportation companies are indeed providing by the exodus of college students during the vacation periods. In no other way can studying be so well combined with pleasure. A college education can have no more fitting complement than an opportunity to see some other part of the world.

PAPAL ENCYCICAL

Recently Pope Pius XI, in an encyclical letter to the bishops of the church, entitled "The Principles of Catholic Education," has delivered his views on what he has read about or seen pictured. A great many people feel that last the Pope has declared which side he is to champion in the question of birth control and divorce. It is a regrettable state of affairs, for it shows that the average person is little informed on the stand of Catholicism on important questions. The present Papal letter was written in protest against the doctrines which have been held since the foundation of the Church.

Criticism against the document has also been rather sharp, and the opponents of very radical ideas, such as birth control and divorce, have come to the rescue of their own ideas and issued a condemnation of the Pope and the Catholic Church for the opposite stand taken. They fail to realize that marriage is a sacred thing and the very foundation of the social machine of the world. Consequently anything which jeopardizes the standing of the sacrament commits a breach against society.

It is a splendid thing that in these days of hypocrisy in matters touching upon marriage there is a champion in the world for that great institution. The champion has upheld the same doctrine and the same cause for twenty centuries, and will do so till the end of time. We should be thankful for the protection and refuge that this ecclesiastical unit affords.

GEORGETOWN AND DRAMATICS

In view of the rapidly increasing interest in the dramatics at the present day, it is safe to conclude that dramatics at Georgetown have received neither the emphasis nor the support that is due to them. To assign the cause of this phenomenon would be difficult; at all events we do not intend to tackle the problem here. But to acquiesce in such a condition is as stultifying as it is unnecessary. It is almost unbelievable that a college of Georgetown's size and position, drawing every year on the best preparatory schools in the country, including in its roster men who can give an excellent account of themselves in studies, literary effort, debating and athletics, should be content to lag—however slightly—in the field of dramatic endeavor.

But in this field, if anywhere, enthusiasm and effort are the price of success. We are told that try-outs for the annual play (the name of which is as yet withheld) will take place immediately after the mid-year examinations are over. What response will be made to the call? Many students have expressed their dissatisfaction with what they call the dramatic situation in the past; is it possible that this enthusiasm and effort are a result of the cooperation with the moderator and officers of the Mask and Bauble Club in endeavoring to obtain a perfection which will make their production in general support of the dramatics at the university. It is generally believed that this activity is of great benefit to the college body and that it provides an excellent place for students to meet and make friends.

The faculty and students of the college extend their sincerest condolences to Mr. J. J. A. C. Cann, of the Junior Class, on the death of his father, who died suddenly Monday afternoon.

FR. MURPHY ADDRESSES PHILONOMOSIAN CLUB
Moderator Speaks On Forthcoming Prize Competition—Committee Chosen.

Due to the approaching “Mid-year” examinations and the necessary work that is so intimately connected with all exams, the Philonomosian Debating Society postponed its regular weekly debate at the meeting last Thursday evening. For the same reason no debate has been scheduled for tomorrow’s meeting.

In place of the accustomed function, the Rev. John J. Murphy, S.J., the Moderator of the committee, addressed the assembled members. His talk concerned chiefly of the possibilities of this year’s activities. Sometime in early March, the Philonomosian Society is to hold a debate in which the members will compete for the Philonomosian cup. This competition is an annual event. Speaking on this subject, Fr. Murphy outlined his plans for this debate, further enlarged the members’ knowledge of the Philonomosian cup, and explained that any member of the society is eligible to compete.

The committee in charge of this Philonomosian debate has been selected. Those composing it are John J. Gilco, Francis C. Crossman, C. M. Coffmann, Desmond Murphy, and Ralph J. Rafter.

The purpose of the committee is to ascertain the topics that are to be debated, and in short to make the contest a successful one.

PROM ORCHESTRA TO COME HERE BY ‘PLANE
Music May Be Broadcast Over Radio—Sale of Tickets Increases As Second Week of Drive Starts.

With the second week of selling tickets begun, the Junior Prom Committee is more than pleased with the interest shown in the forthcoming dance. A little slow at first, the sale of tickets has finally gained its stride, and as the date of the prom draws nearer, the indications of its great success grow greater. Not only is it heralded as the most representative dance held in many years, but there are a few unusual features accompanying it, which should make it unique. For instance, this is the first time that any mention of broadcasting the music of the dance has ever been made. The committee has been approached on the subject, and while no definite plans have been made for broadcasting, there is a possibility that this will be done.

By Airplane
Another unusual feature of this year’s prom is the fact that the orchestra is to come to Washington by plane. The orchestra, it might be mentioned here, is the original Bert Lown Orchestra, and not a filled in affair using the famous leader’s name. The full Baltimore Orchestra, consisting of 13 men, will be present. This has been made possible through the willingness of the Hotel Biltmore to give leave of absence to the orchestra which has made the hotel very popular both with New Yorkers, and visitors.

GASTON WILL DEBATE LOYOLA AT BALTIMORE
Question Is “Resolved, That the Water Resources of the United States Should Be Owned By State and Federal Governments Rather Than By Private Interests.”

On February 5, the Gaston Debating Society will hold its first debate with Loyola University. The subject under consideration is: “Resolved, That the water resources of the United States should be owned and operated by state and federal governments rather than by private interests.” Gaston is defending the negative and the debate will take place at 8:00 p.m. in the Gaston Debating Society’s meeting room. Gaston’s alternate will be John D. Kane, of Maryland, and Loyola’s alternate will be Philip J. O’Neill, ‘34, of New York.

The members of the Gaston Debating Society were recently surveyed, and a majority found the subject interesting and instructive. The Gaston Debating Society also plans to hold at least one more debate this year. They plan to hold a regular meeting and debate on the regular schedule.

FR. NEVILS SPEAKS ON VIRGIN AT CATHOLIC U.
Talk By Rector Concludes Winter Series At Neighboring College—Draws Analogy From Fourth Eclogue.

Last Monday evening, January 19, at McMahon Hall of the Catholic University of America, the Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, S.J., president of Georgetown University, delivered a lecture entitled “Virgil, Poet, Patriot and Prophet.” This talk concluded the winter series of lectures given by Catholic University. One of the interesting points of Fr. Nevils’ lecture was his original conception of Virgil as a prophet in Virgil’s remarkable poem, the Fourth Eclogue.

In this latter work the author refers to a wonderful baby that is to be born and is to bring the golden age upon the earth again. Fr. Nevils sees in this epic a “Prophetic irony somewhat akin to the tragic irony we find in the writings of Shakespeare and other great masters.”

This talk concluded the winter series of lectures given by Catholic University. One of the interesting points of Fr. Nevils’ lecture was his original conception of Virgil as a prophet in Virgil’s remarkable poem, the Fourth Eclogue.

The newspapers of the land feature these days the economic predictions of the country’s leading lights, and the testimony of all is that we have reached the bottom, and the trend now will be upwards. That serious humorist, William Rogers, recently expressed the wish that we refrain from the publishing of predictions, favorable or otherwise, but we take issue with the funny man. Whether there be any grounds for optimism or not, it is pleasant to hear people say that everything is going to be all right. The condition is largely material, and if we hear people say that America has come through again it helps considerably in quieting off our rose-colored spectacles and seeing the surroundings in the pleasantness of our own happy viewpoint. And even the resolution to face the facts with a grim determinism is not injured by the insistent harpings of an authoritative optimism. The Government would not be unfair in commissioning George M. Cohen to instill that same attitude with a few of his flag-waving, spirit-imbuining melodies.

A Potomac theatre recently installed free vending machines for cough drops, which are to be taken gratis by such ticket-holders who feel the urge to cough during the performance. Grimacing the uncontrolled spirit which prompts such a confined nuisance as hemming and hawing, we suggest that cough-drop package be installed as standard equipment on the pews of Dahlgren Chapel.

The Carnegie Foundation is about to erupt with another report on the athletic situation in the American College. Imbued with a fervor born of last year’s startling success, they are giving out wee advances which promise another thunderbolt. And when the next report has been thoroughly digested by the thinking public, the prospective collegian will still make it his prime duty to find out if his institution is the door-man of other colleges on the gridiron. If that refusal to be the ablest of strong men is to continue, then over-emphasis will continue to be a factor in the attendance attractions of our universities.

What is so rare as Washington without its murder mystery unless it could be Washington with its murder solution?

We shall be happy when the movie powers finally come to the end of the gangster theme. We have had enough of gentlemen sinking up alongside of us, and with what is supposed to be a leer, snarling at us to “put ‘em up.” The sound effects genius is always obliging with a rattling machine-gun, a suitcase takes but little imagination to make of it a deadly portable field gun. The youth of the Nation takes its moving picture seriously.

INTER-HALL SCHEDULE STARTS SATURDAY

Teams To Be Drawn From Various Corridors—Two Games Every Saturday and Sunday.

After quite an elongated respite from action, Intra-Mural athletes representing the various halls and corridors throughout the school will resume activities when the basketball season opens on January 24. In an announcement made by John Gilice, manager of minor sports, it was learned that these games will be played on Saturday and Sunday mornings, two games being played each day, the first getting under way at 10 o'clock and the other at 11 o'clock.

So as to give every one a chance to get into action on the courts this winter, the teams will be divided up into fives, representing the corridors. In most cases each team will be allowed to choose from two corridors. The season's opener next Saturday will see Third and Fourth Healy opposing Fourth Ryan and Fourth Maguire in the first game and Second Ryan and Second Maguire meeting Third Ryan and Third Maguire.

The schedule as given out by Mr. Gilice is as follows:

- First New North vs. Fourth New North and Fourth Old North, January 25.
- Second New North vs. Third New North and Collier, January 25.
- Third Ryan and Third Maguire vs. Fourth Ryan and Fourth Maguire, January 31.
- First New North vs. Second New North and Fourth Old North, February 1.
- Second New North vs. Third New North and Collier, February 1.

HANDBALL MEET HELD SATURDAY AFTERNOON

The 70-yard sprint proved to be the feature of the second of the weekly Intra-Mural track meets; Nelson and Kelly putting on a thrilling duel to finish in a dead heat. Kelly running from scratch overcame Nelson's 2% yard handicap to catch him at the tape in 7 3/5 seconds. Clark followed him to the tape.

Nelson again pressed Kelly as the latter won the 50-yard dash in 5 2/5 seconds. Al overcoming his opponent's 1/2-yard handicap to pass him in a driving finish. Eddie Burns took third place.

The half-mile proved to be an interesting tussle between O’Reilley, Downing and Fitzgerald. O’Reilley's 22-yard start proved to be too much of an obstacle for Downing after he had passed Fitzgerald, who had a 10-yard handicap. The time was 2:4 1/5, a second better than last week's time.

St. Lawrence, with a gratious 10-yard lead, ran a steady 1,000-yard race, passing Chornack and outstepping Bakerwell, running from scratch. The clock said 2:29 1/5 for this race.

The 440 ran off in two races. In the first, Garona, with a 40-yard handicap, came in ahead of Burke and Carlin, in that order, in a 51:4 race. The second section of the 440 went to Connelly over Mara in 52 seconds flat. Mara ran from scratch while Connelly was granted a 3-yard lead.

Discus, without competition, tossed the shot 45 feet 4 inches, and the hammer 44 feet 7 inches; both distances being improvements over his efforts of last week.

Bonniwell, the sole entry in the high jump, leaped 5 feet 81/2 inches.

Students are again reminded that this track meet is duplicated each week, and competition in all events is open to them.

Entries are to be made with Bill Todd at Second Meet of Season—Team Weakened By Loss of Kelly and Injury To Briggs—Outlook Bright For Coming Season.

The spikes and trunks of the Georgetown track team will be packed and on their way to New York by the end of the week for the 2,000 yard track meet on the 26th the track team runs in the annual Brooklyn College games.

The squad will consist of the mile relay team, a sprinter and an entrant in the 1,000 yards. There is considerable doubt concerning the members of the relay team. Jimmy Kelly is out due to the recent removal of his tonsil, while Art Briggs has an infected toe. This leaves Captain Vic Burke, Chuck Carlin, Paul Connolly and Jack Mara to comprise the team, which is fortunate as it is so early in the season for the team as the meet does not as yet reach top form.

Dowling will again enter the 1,000 yard run and should bet her success last year when she placed third in the same event. Al Kelly, the sophomore, will be the sprinter. He has shown fine form in practice on the boards at school and while not as experienced as some, is expected to show well.

Last year in the same games all lacked the team that they entered. The relay team was running smoothly when Briggs slipped and fell. The team was in second place at the time and the accident entirely finished them as far as placing was concerned. It was in these games that Karl Wildermuth caused a 70-yard dash with Jack Elder in which Elder was defeated. Emil Bozek was defeated the official trials and while Karl was thought to have won handily by most of the spectators. In the race following Wildermuth had captured the 60-yard dash from a colorless field. In his third race of the evening, the 100, Wildermuth was forced out after covering 80 yards when he pulled a tendon, which kept him out of competition for the rest of the indoor season.

The track outlook is bright for the season despite the apparent breaks which seem to have hit the team. The relay team is one of the best in the East and by the coaching of M. J. Hardy should have proved its superiority. It is difficult for the team to reach its stride before then for the exams interfere greatly and then some of the team take longer to round into form than others. All four members that comprised the relay team last year have raced together for two seasons now and as they have reached their individual peak of condition few teams in the East will be leading them to the tape.

The old maestro of track coaches demonstrated the fact that there was apparent danger of a defeat. Georgetown came through, not only beating them but practically swamping them with the score of 30 to 16.

Third Race of the Evening.

The opening whistle to the close of the game Georgetown was constantly on the offensive. Their play was fast and when they reached the territory of the Baltimorians the ball was usually nailed. The speed of the attack, especially in the second half, is what apparently stupefied the Blue Jays. Little Phipps at any point left well forward, kept them on the go. His defense was excellent and in bringing the ball up the court he rarely failed to get it under the basket for an easy toss.

Shea led the scoring, having run up 10 points. Emil Bozek came in a close second with 9 in his favor. Dillon scored 7, while MacZeyz accounted for the other 4. D. K. Kelly of John Hopkins tied Shea for the lead, while C. Kelly and Silverman with Gunnett, each tallied 2.

DUQUESNE NOSES OUT GEORGETOWN FIVE

Visitors Lead For Largest Part of Game—G. U. Loses In Last Minutes By Fouls.

Last Friday night, at Tech Gym, Georgetown University Basketball Club was nosed out by a last minute rally by the Duquesne University team invading Washington from the Smoky City. Two minutes before the closing of the game the score was at a deadlock, but due to some fast passing and a long shot from the middle of the floor by Jolene Wilder, the visitors were able to gain the lead and check Georgetown from additional scores. When the gun barked out the end of the tussle Duquesne lead by four points. The score, 28-32.

wall-away. A four-point lead was the most that could be acquired on either end of the see-saw. Although Duquesne lasted during most of the game, Georgetown, too, had their thrill in surging ahead. Once in tip-to-tip, the two-point lead, 13-11. A beautiful shot by Shea, from the middle of the court, was responsible for this advance, and in the second half Dillon broke through the Duquesne defense and slid the ball through the hoop with a difficult overhand shot from beneath the net.

Both teams were evenly matched and it might have been Georgetown who was in possession of the ball those last two minutes and instead of being the vanquished they might have been the victors. The floor game was smooth and fast, hard, aggressive playing featured the evening's performance.

Special attention must be given to Garry Benedict, of the visitors' quintet. His all-around ability at shooting, passing and blocking proved a great deterrent to Georgetown's threat. Benedict led the field in scoring with a total of 11 points. It was Benedict who, despite Georgetown's determined defense, broke through and put the game on ice for his club in the last few seconds of play. He looped a neat two-pointer, after weaving through and putting all that is in him for the full 40 minutes of struggle. He

It was Walter Morris who tied the score close to the end of the game by a long shot from the end of the visitors' foul zone. Morris played the game as he always plays, giving all that is in him for the full 40 minutes of struggle. He was close on the heels of Benedict for scoring honors, being only one point under the number collected by the Smoky City star.

Another rough and tumble, good natured player on the Georgetown club is Emil Bozek, who is found everywhere he always plays, giving all that is in him but at least the score was too late to win but at least the score was within reach.

Dillon, Scalzi and Shea deserve much credit. They carry a big bag full of tricks which keeps the best of their opponents' credit. They carry a big bag full of tricks which keeps the best of their opponents' credit.

The University of Maryland freshmen ran away with the Blue and Gray freshmen by the score of 45-24 last Saturday in a preliminary to the Washington-Lee game.
The Hilltoppers, missing their stars, were no match for the Old Liners, and before the first half was over the score reached 21-8. At this juncture the Maryland subs were sent in and even they were able to hold their own against Georgetown.

It was late in the second half that the Blue and Gray began to click and then it was too late to win but at least the score didn't appear to indicate such a complete walkaway for the visitors.

years, beginning July 1, 1931.” White will defend the affirmative side of this question and will be represented by Joseph G. Smith, ’33, of Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. Smith is the president of the society and was a member of the team that represented White in the debate last year. The other members of the White team are George D. Crowley, ’34, of Chicago, Ill.; Neil T. Regan, ’34, of New York, N. Y., with Robert Hoffman, ’33, of Washington, D. C., as the alternate.

Gaston, defending the negative, will be represented by its president, John R. Slattery, ’33, of Boston, Mass.; John S. Leahy, ’33, of St. Louis, Mo.; Lorane Freund, ’34, of Washington, and Lawrence Downey, ’34, of Washington, as the alternate.

It seems evident that a very interesting discussion will be held, for the question that has been selected is one of paramount importance. It is being discussed daily on the floors of the Senate and the House of Representatives and is a topic of interest in the business houses of the country. It is one that may be easily handled by the men who are debating, so much so that a direct clash, because of an excellent knowledge of the issues, is forthcoming.

At present there is a very strong possibility that eight members of the team will go to New York about March 7 to have a shoulder to shoulder match with N. Y. U. If the match materializes all expenses will be paid by the rifle club. The men will be picked by the weekly average of their competitive scores. Freshmen as well as Varsity men may be allowed to go.

The season of the Middle Atlantic States Intercollegiate League, of which Georgetown is a member, opens early next month and continues throughout March.
