DANCE HELD BY
F. S. FRATERNITY

Dean and Mrs. Notz Guests of Honor—Mr. A. S. Hillyer Made Honorary Member.

The Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity of the School of Foreign Service held, last Saturday evening, their annual dance as a welcome for the new members of the organization. The fraternity felt quite honored to have as their leading guest their school dean and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. William Notz. This was the dean's first visit to the new chapter house, and no time could be more appropriate than to be there to welcome the new members through their first social function in their new organization.

The organization was well pleased with the success of the first school function at the new house, with a “turn out” of 48 couples and the attendance since the opening of the school year. There were among the guests a number of couples from the Pan American Union, and a large alumnus attendance. The dance began at 9:30 and adjourned until 1 o'clock. At 12:30 there was served a buffet lunch of the usual description.

The informal initiation was held on Friday, January 16, and the formal on Saturday, January 17. The fraternity wishes to make known the honorary formal invitation to their organization of Mr. A. S. Hillyer, the chief of the division of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, of the Department of Commerce. Mr. Hillyer has been connected with foreign commerce for a number of years, and has been the export manager of a large domestic corporation, and the organization is quite honored in including his name as among their brothers.

COLLEGE DEBATING
TEAM IS CHOSEN

As a result of the tryouts held before the exams, the following members of the Philological Society were elected to represent Georgetown in the intercollegiate debates to be held this year: William A. Sullivan, John W. McEvitt, ’31; and John C. Hayes, ’31, with Lawrence J. Mehren, ’31, as alternates. All of these men are experienced debaters, and should ably uphold the high standards of Georgetown in intercollegiate debating circles.

First Debate March 1

The first intercollegiate debate of the year will be held on March 1, with the University of Pittsburgh. The proposition to be debated is, "Resolved, That the Jugoslav delegation to the Paris peace conference, served as a deputy delegate to the League of Nations, and in 1927 was appointed a member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration. SPORTS FLASHES

Army defeats Hilltoppers. Freshmen defeat Bliss and Strayer. Charlie Fish to handle Intramural boxing. Intramural basketball goes on in spite of mid-years. (Details of these and other sporting events will be found on page four.)
Next Friday evening, from 9 until 1 o'clock, the annual Prom of the Junior class takes place. That this is the most important social event that takes place during the entire scholastic year is attested to by every one. Much care and effort has been spent in the undertaking; nothing has been left to chance, but those in charge of the function have spent long days in making plans for this dance. In general, all Junior Proms are alike. Each class thinks that their dance is the best one that class takes place. That this is the most important social event that takes place during the entire year's dance that indicate its unprecedented excellence.

It is rather sad, at this stage of the game, to be forced to bring any publicity whatsoever to those stupid individuals who seem to find so much delight in flinging bottles from their windows in the evening. Such a procedure is disgusting, even in the small and irresponsible person of a small child. Indeed, these people who indulge in the ridiculous practice are nothing more than small, small children. The pleasure derived from throwing bottles and using electric light bulbs from windows is something hard to understand, unless it may consist in creating the pretty noise and excitement. If this is so, it would only serve to indicate the infantile mentality of the boors who are blots on the record of Georgetown gentlemen.

The colleges of the country are perfectly suited to their needs. There they find education in the schools and colleges of the country. These bodies on their own initiative decided to decide upon the present favors. Thus from any point of view, music, of this year's dance that indicate its unprecedented excellence.

Committees Against Militarism

Various self-appointed committees in different parts of the country have created within the past few months a great deal of agitation against militarism in the schools and colleges of the nation. These bodies on their own initiative have been sending out propaganda to all the corners of America condemning the Reserve Officers Training Corps and like organizations as creating a militaristic spirit among younger generation at a time when they say a pacifist spirit should be the mode.

Perhaps these groups are firm in their conviction that the R. O. T. C. is detrimental to the colleges of the country and consequently should be abolished, but they overlook or disregard several important and significant facts. They do not care to look at the fact that most of the other nations of the world, the larger ones at least, have under enlistment two, three and four times the number of men the United States has. The great enigma, Russia, for instance, has mobilized at the present time about six or seven times the number of soldiers that our country has.

We are not trying to create the impression that the world is due for another upheaval in the near future. But history repeats itself and some day in the future the bubble will burst to plunge the world into another great war. When that time comes America will have to arm as many men as the other great nations. But who will there be to command them, train them and direct them?

Our leaders turn naturally to the sources where they can obtain young men of high enough caliber to understand simple military tactics and the principles of defense, and at a time when this training will not be much of an inconvenience. The colleges of the country are perfectly suited to their needs. They find the combination of the best education and training of these men of at least average intelligence, who do not find it a hardship, to enlist in an R. O. T. C. course.

These units are not destined to make the country a hot-bed of military fervor, but are merely a quiet and efficient means of insuring youth of the country. If the committees against the organizations would merely consider these few facts, we doubt if they would continue to waste their time issuing propaganda. Optimism is a wonderful thing, but it should always be tinged with a realization of actuality.

CHILDREN AT PLAY

Some people thrust them deliberately and knowingly. Occasionally someone, no doubt, does it unconsciously. To the latter, may we suggest consciousness; to the others—well, read on—

Cleveland, Ohio—An economic union of the five central European nations—Austria, Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia—is all that can prevent another world war and the complete communication of Europe and perhaps all western civilization, Dr. Oscar Jaszi, professor of political science at Oberlin College, told an audience at the Temple here.

Declaring that Briand's plan for a United States of Europe is "sincere but impractical because either France or Germany and Italy would seek the control," Dr. Jaszi, who was minister of minorities in the cabinet of the first Hungarian republic, pictured central Europe as a hotbed of both communist and Fascist influence when a hidden warfare is going on the mental back into the open at any time.

The "European statesmen are engaged in a political Coup d'état," he said, "shouting: 'Every day in every way we are becoming more peaceful, while they are building up huge armies in preparation for the war that will come within 10 or 15 years if the central European countries do not organize to combat both Russian and Italian propaganda.

"Italy, without its central European satellites, would be a harmless nation," Dr. Jaszi said, arguing that if a five-power union were formed in central Europe, " Mussolini's saber rattling would become nothing more than an interesting moving picture performance." Both Mussolini and the Soviet want another European war, the Oberlin professor also believed it would result in either complete communism or Fascism of Europe. Dr. Jaszi was inclined to believe that the Soviets were right.

ADDRESSES STUDENTS

Community Chest Fund and Its Needs Is Topic—Georgetown Hospital Part of Great Work.

To the assembled faculty and student body, Mr. Mcgowan, S. J., yesterday morning delivered an address. The Community Chest was the topic of his talk. The proceeds of the University were appealed to, and it devolved upon the student to fulfill their civic duties. He said, in part:

“Since the Community Chest aids Georgetown in a material way, it should be a matter of personal interest for everyone at Georgetown to aid the Community Chest fund. No one who has read of the doings of the Community Chest can help but know what they are doing. Georgetown Houseually cares for the needy, and the spirit which should lead everyone to the Community Chest can help but know what they are doing. No one who has read of the doings of the Community Chest can help but know what they are doing. In conclusion, Mr. Mcgowan spoke of the spirit which should lead everyone to aid the Community Chest fund in the way best suited to his individual circumstances.

EXODUS TO COPELY IS BEGUN BY STUDENTS

Moving Begins at 1:30 Monday at Suggestion of Prefect of Discipline—Rooms Occupied Tuesday.

Last Monday noon, at lunch, the revord Prefect of Discipline, in a talk to the assembled students, told them they were free to begin occupancy of the new Copley Hall that afternoon, beginning at 1:30. Thus the signal so long awaited was given. By 1 o'clock students, laden with everything from golf bags to trunks, started the exodus to Copley.

Hasty Flight

The flight from the breaking dam of the old melodrama days was recalled as the brode stroke out through old North, New North and every place else, all intent on the same goal. All manner of objects were carried. Some even went so far as to bear the dressers over to the new building intact, instead of trying to assiml their removal. Trunks were filled hastily, some too hastily, and borne across the divide on creaking and puffing potters, who forgot their usual composure in an effort to be among the first arrivals. Much disaster occurred; all manner of objects strewed the path, to be retrieved on the next round.

Frustration

But it was only to find, after making several back-breaking trips, and transporting 30 or so odd loads, that the building was to remain inviolate, as far as real occupancy was concerned, until the next day.

"The greater part of the job was done. The only people who profited by the new turn were the drug stores and the deli. The people now knew all the time that they would spend Monday night in the same place they had spent Sunday. But Tuesday saw the greatest exodus, and by Tuesday night all was quiet on Copley front.

Baton Rouge, La.—An article in The Reveille, undergraduate newspaper of the Louisiana State University, declares that all the types of instructors on the campus, the least intelligent and the most over-enthusiastic, are the so-called "hard-boiled prof."

LAW SCHOOL TO HOLD ANNUAL PROM FEB. 13

Will Be Held at Carlton Hotel—Bob Iula's Baltimore Band Will Supply Music—Tickets Are $6.50

Friday, February 13, has been set as the date of the annual Law School Prom, at 8 o'clock Monday by James M. Kelly, chairman of the prom committee. The dance, the year's main social event of the campus, will continue from 10 until 1, as was the case in former years.

The will of Pillsbury, former attorney general of Massachusetts, left $100,000 to furnish music for the prom. The Iula band is heard nightly on a national hook-up from station WBCA in the monumental city.

Two startling innovations will be introduced at this year's prom. The price of the tickets has been reduced from $7.50 to $6.50. In addition, the duration of the dance has been extended one hour, and the prom will continue from 10 until 1, as was the case in former years.

CADET CAGERS COP
THRILLING CONTEST

Georgetown Leads at Half, 23–11—Victors' Eighth Straight Victory—Bozek, Morris Feature.

Despite the fact that Georgetown's basketeers were not favored by the average spectator, they showed in attempts to check their offense and, with gratifying regularity—gratifying to them. Krenger, star football and basketball player at the West Point school, teamed up with Stecker, another two-letter man at the soldier institution, to bring their team back in the running. At the end of the third period the Cofrick-tutored hoopers were all clinging onto a slim lead and were fighting hard to withstand the determined attacks of the soldiers.

However, it was not to be stopped apparently, and they overcame the Hilltoppers with 5 minutes left to play in the game, the lead at that point being 25-25. Both teams then gave every ounce of their ability resulting in one of the most exciting games of the season. The Washingtonians at the West Point gym in many years. Eleven points were scored in the last 5 minutes with the Cadets holding the one-point edge and coming out the winners by a 31 to 30 count. Thus the West Pointers continue their unbroken string of eight straight victories for the season.

THIRD MAGUIRE AND RYAN BEST IN TILT

Game Is Close Relative of Gridiron Sport—Hutchinson Stars for Winners.

Ye Corridors!

Some real basketball talent was uncovered by an Intra-Mural club between those fighting undergraduates from Third Maguire-Ryan and their antagonists from Second Maguire-Ryan. These boys came forth from their respective halls and robing themselves with basketball uniform, fought it out in a furious battle at the Ryan Gym on January 24, 1931.

It seems that the RYANITES combined with their fellow teammates from Maguire and representing those corridors, three buildings that had the better team, for they were cabled the laurels at the end of the fracas with the score tilting in favor, 20-8.

CHARLEY FISH CALLS
INTRA-MURAL BOXERS

Candidates To Begin Training Immediately—Tourney To Begin Early In March.

Charley Fish announces that all the students who expect to enter the Intramural Tournament must report to the Ryan gymnasium every afternoon starting February the fourth.

Fish expects to round the coming champs into shape with light exercises before he has them don the gloves. Knowing that the condition of boxers is of the greatest importance, Fish will content himself with putting the contenders through calisthenics and road work for the first few days. When he thinks they have their legs and lungs in proper condition he will begin to strengthen their shoulder muscles and finally he will have them put on the gloves and let them practice with one another for a week.

Boxing is one sport which appeals to all and Grover Welborn, who is expected this year, All will remember how the spectators had to fight to get seats for even the round bouts and for the final seats were at a premium.

Even though they do not expect to enter the tournament have been talking about it and hoping that it will be Grover Welborn's going to make it this early in March. The whole school knows how interesting and exciting the bouts are and the year won't be an exception. Boxing is one of the most uncertain sports as many of those who participated last year will admit, many of the final champs biting the dust many times before they were finally crowned. No boat is over until the referee raises the victor's hand. Many remember the heavy-weight bout last year when the finally crowned king, gotten almost to a pulp got up and finished his opponent in the following round. That is the reason every one has boxing for it is almost as uncertain as the gabling cubes.

We know that under the capable management of Coach Freddy Mesnier, the former captain of the Blue and Gray team and former Intramural champion, the tournament will be run off smoothly and with great success. We wish him and the candidates the best of luck.

THE FIGHTING IS OVER

The fighting is over, and the war is done, and we can return again to the comforting order of recreation and class, after that disturbing confusion of class and recreation. From many a bulletin board excursions and tours were being advertised—they are now under way, with adieux from the Dean and sourgrape farewell from the tourists. One of the more ambitious programs was an enlistment in the French Foreign Legion—we suppose that they were planning to organize a Georgetown brigade in that famous unit, but we reckon that the cloistered dependency of the Hilltop is poor preparation for the highly-individual requirements of the Legion.

We are anxious to see how the experiment of casting pearls to swine will terminate. The problem of course is a question of choice of alternates—will the latent appreciation of the beautiful in all of us assert itself as we change domiciles, or shall the tendency of past years prove too strong, and the quality of our new surroundings be lost upon us? As Hamlet would say "that is the question." We have the sneaking conviction that the inevitable Georgetown spirit "to the manner born" will prevail, and the becomingsness of Copley Hall will arouse the sense of pride which former rooms fell short of inspiring.

That remarkable product of Germany's airmen, the DOX, gives evidence of the Hilltoppers with a weeks rest in over for the sake of Alma Mammy, the clash of wits would draw as does the pitting of the Naval Academy, quieted Wednesday night at Annapolis. The summary of the Army-Georgetown game:

INTRA-MURAL TILTS

One of the essentials of pleasant traveling is the certainty of departure and disregard for turning off the radio at the rarely-decent moments, as gentlemen whose friendship is to be cultivated, if you are to partake of the loaves and fishes.

"Always try to find the truth in error." Applying that unfailing norm to the late Wickersham Report we find that the Committee, individually, did see the futility of the 15th Amendment. The opposite conclusion of their combined opinions, however, only goes to show how possible it is for the minority to impress the man who has not a second thought for the consequences of his actions. The need of the democracy is the realization of the really solid foundation of such apparently unreliable things as Dictatorships, Absolute Monarchies, and Prohibitionists.

One of the more progressive thinkers of the institution, in an informal discussion, gave vent to a secret hope which, though it will probably never materialize, does contain more than a little amount of appreciation of the student's attitude toward class and study. His scheme borrows from the methods employed in promoting intercollegiate sports, and would be decidedly novel in its operation. What he would have in the stead of constant dull classes, are competitive classes between the picked teams of the various institutions. Picture then, the thrilling fight between a George-town Logic team, linked in verbal battle with a Harvard team. Or imagine, if you can, the fur flying when two physics teams tear each other apart with explanations of the boiling point, or the whims of electricity. One thing is certain, class would take on a new and more personal touch, the competitive spirit would urge the individual on for the sake of Alma Mammy, the clash of wits would draw as does the pitting of physiques.
Army regalia, piled one upon the other they reminded one of a hardy band of pioneers.

Junior Prom Committee, the members of which have been touring the school in strange sights were to be seen around the campus, especially among those who were all the school turned athlete in the great movement for bigger and better rooms. Many not doubting their words. However, seeing is believing and the only way to see interesting games were invented, such as Hunt the Mattress and Bulb, Bulb, Who's next Friday night. Their lines describe the affair as one of unsurpassed glory is to be among those present.

Intriguing games were invented, such as Hunt the Mattress and Bulb, Bulb, Who's next Friday night. Their lines describe the affair as one of unsurpassed glory is to be among those present.

For the past few weeks we have been pestered by another type of athlete. Some of those with whom we have come in contact appear to be at the head of their profession. In fact we would wager that some of them are elected to the All-American team of Salesmen and Committee men. We are referring to the Junior Prom Committee, the members of which have been touring the school in their frantic endeavors to have every Georgetown man at the Wardman Park next Friday night. Their lines describe the affair as one of unsurpassed glory and color, and since they are all men of high character and reputation we are not doubting their words. However, seeing is believing and the only way to see is to be among those present.

Getting a little personal, we might make reference to yesterday afternoon when all the school turned athlete in the great movement for bigger and better rooms. Many strange nights were to be seen around the campus, especially among those who were braving the unknown and seeking residence in Copley Hall. Garbed for the great adventure they sallied forth from the safe harbor of well-known haunts to the domain of private baths, tricky showers, etc. With every type of hat, from silk topper to Army regalia, piled one upon the other they reminded one of a hardy band of pioneers. Intriguing games were invented, such as Hunt the Mattress and Bulb, Bulb, Who's Got a Bulb. The great mattress hunt was by far the most outstanding, for while wild and color, and since they are all men of high character and reputation we are not doubting their words. However, seeing is believing and the only way to see is to be among those present.

Mural sports is over, we breathe freely once again. This is one sport that Johnny Gilece could never improve upon—the faculty have reduced it to too much of a science. You're right, we refer to the mid-years. What a pain in the neck they turned out to be and how aptly they succeed in completely upsetting the regular routine. It is nice to have variety and get out of the rut, but it seems that there must bear the brunt of the storms and strifes which consume their beings. This seems to be the foremost thought in the minds of the majority of the staff which puts this publication on the corridors.

Regardless of all this the paper finally gets around and the staff remains intact. It seems that it is just as necessary a part of the weekly routine as proof-reading.
In the South, more than any other section of the country, does one notice that the personnel of the athletic teams of the colleges truly represents not only southern men, but in most cases, men from the state in which the college is located. There is a certain pride in the South which is shared by all college men who have been reared there. And, moreover, the boys there take their football seriously, as is evidenced by the number of good teams which have been consistently produced in the last few years.

A recent survey of student editors in the South brought forth some interesting statements on the hue and cry that has been raised of late regarding overemphasis of college football. The comment of all was surprisingly alike in opinion. For instance, Editor Dungan, of the North Carolina Tar Heel, says: "I think college football in general is tending very definitely toward the professional."

A rather tardy but nevertheless welcome news item has drifted in from the distant shores of the Pacific Coast. A large meeting of Georgetown men now living in the Pacific Northwest was held at the Tacoma Hotel, Tacoma, Wash., late last November.

Presiding over the banquet was Thomas J. MacMillon, ’00. During the course of the evening it was moved to form a permanent organization and to hold similar banquets at about the same time each year. Hon. George Donworth, ’81, was elected president; Hon. William J. Millard, ’66, was made vice president; and Andrew G. Haley, ’28, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Many spontaneous speeches were made indicating the enthusiasm of those present. Radio broadcasting was done for a half hour in order to enable the absent Georgetown men to also participate in the affair. Some of the speakers of the evening were, Judge Millard, ’66; Francis P. McMullin, ’81; Harry M. Westfall, ’00. One of the most interesting and amusing speeches of the evening was made by Father Harold A. Riley, ’03, who related the details of the latest regatta in which Georgetown competed.

On December 27, the Georgetown Alumni of Rochester, N. Y., held a stag dinner jointly with the local alumni association of Notre Dame University. The affair had been originally planned by the Notre Dame Alumni Association but they later invited the cooperation of the Georgetown club. And as things turned out everybody was well satisfied with a pleasant evening.

The way basketball is going this year at the Hilltop, it looks as if we shall have to look to track for any glory in the sport world during the indoor season. After looking at Briggs, Burke, Carlin and A. Kelly in Coach O'Reilly's regular Saturday afternoon meets on Friendship Field, it really seems as if we will find a major share of athletic honors in that field.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mr. Robert J. Sheahan to Miss Francis Catherine Riling at St. Paul's Church, Burlington, Iowa.

Alek Brunini, ’26, of Vicksburg, Miss., was married recently. The bride and groom visited the Hilltop when they returned through Washington a short time ago.

It may be of interest to note that Capt. Laurence Stallings, author of the play "What Price Glory," which caused so much comment a few years ago in the United States, formerly was a student at the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University for several years. This was after he had returned from the front in France. Captain Stallings was very active in student activities at the school and a member of the Foreign Service School chapter of the Kappa Alpha Phi fraternity.

Now that the hot stove league has reached the height of its season many of the baseball minded Hilltoppers will tell you anything you want to know about any league. All of which reminds us of some of its great stars. Remember back in 1926, when "Pete" Burch was the star pitcher for the Blue and Gray? In one game against West Virginia he attained that height of a pitcher's ambition, a no-hit-no-run game. That afternoon "Pete" became a member of Georgetown's Hall of Fame. The big gun in the Georgetown offensive that day was Ralph Graham, who drove in the first and winning run with a home run.

Iowa City, Iowa.—The ideal sweetheart may accept an innocent kiss now and then from a rival suitor without arising the jealousy of her fiance—if the fiance is a University of Iowa fraternity man—replies to a questionnaire revealed here.

But—the fraternity men don't think it ought to be done just for the same. Emulating the co-eds, who close Francis Wilcox, non-dancer, smoker, drinker, poet, as "the man of their dreams," the fraternity men decided that Anne Bradfield, of Davenport, Iowa, is the sort of girl they would like to marry.

Annie is blond, 5 feet 5 inches tall, a senior, and engaged to be married.

An ideal girl may smoke, but should not drink, the men decided. Beauty is not essential, both personality and intelligence being more important. But above all, the girl must dress smartly and be well educated. Intelligence being more important. But above all, the girl must dress smartly and be well educated.

F. S. SMINTHEUS, SAYS—

With permission of the copyright owner, the Mouse-Killer is pleased to present this week the minutes of the first meeting of a club organized at the Foreign Service School almost simultaneously and kind of a coincidence, with the appearance of the Wickersham report. It is called the Poop-deck Club, appropriately named after the eminent naval hero Vice Admiral Sir Archibald Poop, one of whose descendants, Miss Helen Kane, has done so much to band his name on to posterity, to be handled with reverence and care.

The club admits to membership only American citizens of old English families, or the direct descendants of the Irish Kings. In special cases, a few Saxons are entered upon the rolls as honorary members. As few records exist to prove the Irish lineage, only those whose brows are stamped with kingly dignity are admitted to membership. Millions of Irishmen are expected to join within the next week. Mr. George Connolly (of the Spanish Line) was elected president. So much then, for the preliminaries; now Smintheus offers the minutes, which speak for themselves.

The first meeting of the Poop-deck Club, called on last Saturday night, was a huge success. Mr. Connolly was in the chair, and called the house to order promptly at 10 o'clock. The company offered a rousing cheer for the President of the United States (an active member), His Majesty the King of England (not a member, and ineligible on two counts), and Vice Admiral Sir Archibald Poop. The gentleman in the Rose Underwear arose and sang, "Ach! du bist ein hussel-pron!"

After numerous other toasts the meeting broke up. The president announced that the next gathering would take place at the same place, the same hour, next Saturday night.

This is a noble experiment! Smintheus, being a Greek Idea, is unfortunately not eligible for membership; but he intends to have his reporters on hand at the next meeting to collect the fragments of wit that fall from this new and very noble board.

Good afternoon.

Apologies Smintheus.

Knox (Irish King) who said he had never seen a German Baron with an "age" on. Loud cries of Liars! Book! Throw him out! The company to a man arose, stamped on the gentleman, and threw him out. Someone (Mr. Lester Malley, Saxon) suggested that Mr. Knox's name be stricken from the rolls, but the Irish threw the company into such an uproar, that the chairman, to restore order had to insult Mr. Malley, whereupon the Irish cheered. The gentlemen then voted to allow Mr. Knox to return to the meeting. The Exalted Door-Knob notified Mr. Knox, who entered and took his seat, the whilst the Irish side of the house rose and sang, "Ach! du bist ein hussel-pron!"

In Boston—Dallas—Los Angeles—and in other cities, lofty buildings are going up so quietly that the passerby all but stops and strains an ear for the old familiar clangor.

Silently, swiftly, rigidly, economically, arc welding knits steel with joints as strong as the metal itself.

Arc welding is being used more and more in the fabrication of buildings and machinery, the construction of pipe lines and tanks, and as a repair tool of universal utility.

Development of General Electric arc welding has largely been the work of college-trained men. Others of the college men at General Electric are largely responsible for the high reputation won by hundreds of G-E products used in industry and in the home during the last thirty-seven years.

Reading Matter

Here is a book. The name of the book does not matter. The person who reads it will forget it anyhow. He will also forget who wrote the book. The book tells a story. Will the person who reads the book forget the story too? Yes. Then why does he read the book? He reads the book for distraction. Oh, I see, he is a college student. Yes.

Mail

What is that man doing? He is waiting for mail. Does he always look so worried when he is waiting for mail? Yes, because the letter will be from his sweetheart who is a hot baby. Another name for a hot baby is "some woman." When he gets the letter what will the man do? He will read it and smile to himself when he comes to the hot parts. Does he have to do this? Yes, because he is thrilled. Who is the man who reads the letter? He is a student of Georgetown College.

Study Hall

Where do students go on Saturday evenings? Some go to picture shows while others do not go to picture shows, because they are employed in another place. They are in study hall. Study hall is a quiet room for people who like to think out problems. Their biggest problem is how to get out of study hall, since it is much easier to get in than to get out. If you want to get in you must skip classes every now and then without permission. Or you must not be in your room when the prefect checks. What is a prefect? A prefect is a person who helps to get you in study hall. Therefore you must be nice to prefects.

New York.—Present economic practices are not far removed from the days of astrology and alchemy, according to Dr. Walter Rautenstrauch, professor of industrial engineering at Columbia University, who finds that while science is forging ahead in every field, economics is still ruled by soothsayers beating tom-toms to the god of prosperity.

Pasadena, Calif.—A small group of professors and research students gathered at the Norman Bridge laboratory of physics at the California Institute of Technology here last week heard Prof. Albert Einstein, leading physical philosopher of the world, announce his latest contribution to the world’s store of knowledge.

The German scientist presented the group with his new “unified field” theory, in which he believes he has reduced and explained all major natural laws in one mathematical equation.

Although the scientist urged extreme caution in its application until further study has been made, those present agreed unanimously that the new theory appears to offer a single solution to the mysteries of light, gravitation and electromagnetic phenomena.

The importance of the new theory seems to lie in the fact that it expresses in a single equation all known laws governing behavior of light, gravity and electricity.
