Dear Sonny,

Received your letter from D.C. and by the time I write this + it arrives home you will probably be back there. Since I don't know just how long you will be in K.C. I'll just try this address anyway. Nothing important anyway.

Well, I assume my letter to you which you write is missing has shown up. I think I sent it home before I knew you went to D.C.. I don't remember.

Weather here turning cold. Wish I had an overcoat to go with my suit. The G.I. clothes are warm enough but I need a "dress up" outfit. But by the time an overcoat is sent the winter should be over + anyway I don't have an overcoat anyway that's presentable.

The defence is nearly ready to begin and most of us are ready. It is a tremendous task, almost beyond accomplishing from purely physical matters. So many documents to be processed, so many loose ends to be
