CALCULATED
To illustrate the Rights and Customs of former Ages, the Forms of Laws and Jurisprudence, the Names of Dignities and Offices, of Persons and Places; and to render the Reading of those Records, Books, and Manuscripts, which are written in that Language, more easy; as well as to restore the true Sense and Meaning of many Words, hitherto deemed quite obscure or mis-translated.
TO WHICH ARE ADDED
THE LAWS

So many Statutes, Acts of State, Records, Law Books, and MSS. are extant in the Norman and old French Language, that a Dictionary is become necessary to enable the Reader to understand such difficult Words as occur therein in that Language; whether such Difficulty arises from the Words being merely idiomatical, or from the Inorthography of them.

There is indeed a Book called the Law French Dictionary; but it is so trifling a Performance, and so incorrect, that it greatly misleads the Reader, as will evidently appear to any one who will compare several of the Words in that Dictionary a with their Origin-a As Oeptaz—Nov. Nar. 6. b.—until the Octaves—translated they have withhold.

Si l’ennist sa ley—241—if he performs his Law—if he wage his Law.
THE DICTIONARY.

If the Word defends made use of in a Defendant’s Plea had been considered as derived from the Norman French Word defender, and to signify to oppose or deny, and not to justify; Mr. Booth in his accurate Treatise of Real Actions would not have acknowledged himself so much at a Loss to explain the Entry of the Defendant’s Defence in a Writ of Right. Booth xciv. 112.—3 Blackstone 296.

Nor surely, if the Idiom of this Language had been understood, would this Passage in Britton, “Si lefglige demeurge descoufeille outre vi. moys, adonques solonc le Counciel de Lions par l’descord d’s parties, le fra levefque del lieu counciiller & dorra lesglife a aucun clerke d’son office, saufe chefcun droit,” been rendered, by so elaborate and judicious an Abridger as Mr. Viner, in the following Manner.

“If the Church remains discounseled beyond six Months, then, according to the Council of Lyons, by the Discord of the Parties, the Bishop shall be in the Place of a Counsellor, and shall give the Church to any Clerk, saving every one’s Right;” instead of (as with great Deference I think it ought to be translated) “If the Church remains unprovided beyond six Months, then, according to the Council of Lyons, by Reason of the Disagreement of the Parties, the Bishop of the Diocese shall provide for it, and shall, ex officio, collate some Clerk to the Church, saving every one’s Right.” Britton 225. a. 17. Viner 377.

*Per vi*st ensenver—248—by burying alive—by burning alive.
Per urur de eux—261—by plucking out the Eyes—by burning them over the Eyes.
Que ne noirent—271—who do not send—hurted not.
Afforcement de la ley—282—a forcing, or straining of the Law, erring from the Law.
On avant vie—300—or had denied—or had sent.
Eins ceo que—308—before that—incrimuch as.

Nor if the Norman Law French had been properly understood by the Professors of our Law, would a Frenchman, on a late remarkable Trial, have been called in to read and explain some Norman French Charters produced in a British Court of Judicature.

Even the Statutes themselves, as found in our Books, are, I am afraid, in many Places too liable to the same Censure; a Specimen from the short Statute of Fines *, and from the Statute of Aëton † Burnell, will shew this;

lieu la pees } translated } delivered the Peace sur la pie } by the County } instead of } read the Concord on the Foot.

The Mention therefore of these Passages, thus erroneously translated, may be of some Ute, I trust, to incite young Students to attain to a more perfect Knowledge of the antient Norman Law French; for Justice Fortescue, in his learned Preface prefixed to his Reports, and to the Treatise of Absolute and Limited Monarchy wrote by Sir John Fortescue, Lord Chief Justice of England under Henry VI. says, that without being acquainted with this Language, wherein so much of our Laws yet in force is written, a Man cannot pretend to the Name of a Lawyer; and as many of the Public Acts which are in Latin in Rymer’s Foedera are not, in the Judgment of Rapin, to be understood without the Assistance of Ducange or Spelman; I may venture to say, that great Numbers of the same Kind of Instruments found there in the old French Language are not less difficult for want of some Dictionary of that Language. Even so late as the Time of Queen Elizabeth, when one would have thought that almost all Barbarisms had been abolished,

THE DICTIONARY.

we find Treaties drawn up, and Secretaries of State, Ambassadors, and Kings in her Reign, corresponding in a very uncouth Stile; for I believe there are very few Readers, who, tout d'un coup, will understand such Words as "de repes—arrablez, plieur—panures—roveneneray—truerant—leuryauxi—unglos—snyuemant—apuliesies—delleaes—l'adutent—saintemant—avabler—oisuir—sans anviser—j'escrein—acharues—au ould;" with many others equally obsolete, and which are not explained in any Dictionary. Yet this Collection, extensive as I have endeavoured to make it, does not, I must confess, take in every difficult or obsolete Norman French Word; several of this Kind are purposely omitted, on account of the Sense of them not readily occurring, and are left for some more able Hand to investigate; others also will, without Doubt, be met with in some Books and Manuscripts which have escaped my Reading: though I persuade myself the Number will not be very considerable; and that it may with Truth be said, that very few of the antient Norman French Words which occur in this Work, are to be met with elsewhere.

This Compilation, the Reader will please to observe, is confined to such Words of the old French Language as occur chiefly in Rymer's Foedera, our Statutes, Parliament Rolls, Journals, Records, Law Books, and, Historians; for as to those which are to be met with in ancient Writers of the French Nation, and in the Provençal Poets and Romances, they are foreign to our Purpose; and may be found in the Dictionary lately compiled by the learned M. La Combe *, in 2 Volumes: Nor have I traced the Norman French Language up to its Origin, this being also already done by the above Author, and several others who have professedly written on that Subject.

* Dictionnaire du Vieux Langage François, par M. La Combe, à Paris, 1766.

It would probably likewise not have been unenterprising, and at the same Time more satisfactory to some Readers, to have given, as Menage and others have done, the Passages and Sentences at length, from those Records, Books, and Manuscripts, from which most of the Words in this Collection are taken; this indeed would have helped to point out the different Epochs when such and such Words first assumed such a Sense, as well as given the Reader an Opportunity of comparing the Words themselves with the Context; but this Parade would have rendered the Work much larger, and I am afraid too expensive. My only View, in making this Compilation, is to promote Historical Knowledge, and enable the Studious to read with Satisfaction, and understand, those many interesting and curious Records dispersed in our Acts of State; and particularly in the Parliament Rolls (which under the Sanction of the Legislature have been lately published), Law Books, and Historians, and which, for want of some Assistance of this Kind, lose much of their Force: if this End is answered without making those numerous Quotations which the observing the above Order would have occasioned, I hope, the Want of it will be readily excused,
