THE ANNUAL GIVING FUND IN OPERATION

by James H. Buchholz, '49, Fund Director

As this issue of the Magazine goes to press the first and official announcement of Georgetown's Alumni Annual Giving Fund has been mailed to each Alumnus of record, with statements by the Very Reverend Edward B. Bunn, S.J., on the need which exists for additional operating money, and by Alumni President John J. Tunmore, '31, on the manner in which the Alumni Association proposes to meet this need.

You will note that no money goal has been set for this first year of the Fund's operations. The only goal we have set is "something from every Georgetown man." In determining what your gift will be, we would like to have you think of it in terms of one percent of your taxable income. The Statement of Purposes which you have received is in no sense a solicitation, merely a concise statement of our intentions to help Georgetown. Shortly you will receive a definite appeal from Eugene P. McCahill, '21, National Chairman of Annual Giving and from the Regent or Dean of the Georgetown School you attended. In that appeal definite needs will be set forth and suggestions for meeting those needs will be given. In that same mailing you will receive a contribution card of the "Key-Sort" variety, on which you are asked to indicate the amount of your share in the fund and also to designate the use to which your gift is to be put. The card is to be returned with your check in whole or in part. The perforations around the margin of the card will then be completed here to provide us with accurate statistical information and to make certain that you will not be solicited a second time for this year's Fund. A receipt, for your tax records, will be mailed to you promptly, and a copy (the amount not showing) will go to the chairman of your local committee.

In preparing for this, our first Annual Fund, the staff of Alumni House has spent a very busy summer compiling accurate tables showing Alumni concentration in every part of the United States and wherever Georgetown men are found abroad. During that period also, Eugene P. McCahill, '21, our tireless National Chairman, has been in touch with interested Alumni everywhere, organizing Committees to make personal contact with Alumni in their own localities so that every Georgetown man will be given an opportunity to participate.

The Association has opened a special bank account for the Annual Giving Fund in the Riggs National Bank of Washington, and Mr. McCahill has asked Daniel J. Callahan, '21, Vice-President of the bank to serve as Treasurer of the Fund. It will be Mr. Callahan's duty to give you a report at the end of the Fund year, showing the total amount contributed and for what purposes, the names of the donors (without listing amounts), and the comparative cooperation with the Fund by classes and areas. He is also charged with turning over the Fund to the University as it accumulates.

Inevitably, in a new venture such as this is, there will be some confusion in the minds of the Alumni concerning points which we have not made clear. Any Alumnus who has questions which are not covered clearly in the various Fund mailings is urged to communicate with the Fund Office at Alumni House where all questions will be answered promptly.

The Georgetown University Forum. A Progress Report

Rev. Stephen X. Winters, S.J.

Georgetown Alumni should be familiar with the operations of the University Forum, from notices in former issues of the Alumni Magazine (e.g., Winter, 1950-51). And we know they appreciate how much it enhances the name of Georgetown to have it mentioned every week of the year on the DuMont Television Station in Washington, D.C. and on about sixty radio stations throughout the length and breadth of the land. Elsewhere in this issue is a list of stations, with times of broadcast, currently (November 15) carrying the Forum:

Three or four additional stations are on the “pending” list, and expect to begin use of the Forum later in the Fall Season, when other commitments have expired.

A few instances of the effectiveness of the Program, in addition to files of letters from interested listeners:

1. In February 1953 the Forum was granted a George Washington Honor Medal by the Freedoms Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa., for “outstanding contribution to better understanding of the American way of life during 1952.” In the same rating were such programs as “Victory at Sea”; “The New York Times Youth Forum”; and “See It Now.”

On our merits, we hold our own with programs having far more copious funds available for production and promotion. A large share of the credit for this achievement must go to Father Daniel E. Power, S.J., Professor of History, who, as Program Director, undertakes the laborious, never ending task of lining up interesting and timely subjects, and procuring competent, outstanding speakers.

2. The following note from the “Cincinnati Inquirer,” during the week of August 23, speaks for itself (WCKY began broadcast of the Forum on 23 August):

“The ‘Georgetown University Forum’ not only is a substantial addition to WCKY’s public service schedule—2:30 p.m. Sunday—but commendable for its choice of material. The last two Sundays it dealt with weather forecasting and the overseas information program. Next Sunday’s topic will be heart surgery. Besides being interesting in themselves, these subjects avoid the risk of duplicating other radio forums. Set down the Georgetown U. broadcasts as another reason why discussion programs are flourishing.”

3. On Sunday, August 9, the Forum offered a program on “Home-Buying Veteran: Safe or Sorry?” The program, in cooperation with the Washington chapter of the Veterans Administration, was a discussion of various aspects and caveats in buying, building and financing a home. Ordinarily, a “good” Forum will average about a hundred or a hundred and fifty requests for the printed transcript offered at a nominal sum. So far, close to nine hundred have been received for this one—and requests are still coming in from areas of delayed broadcast. Transcript requests are not a complete gauge of the effectiveness of a program, but they do offer some positive evidence that a program has “clicked.”

4. A recent TV “Pulse” rating placed the G.U. Forum with a 7.5, second only to Meet the Press with 12.0. Other panel-discussion programs rated were: American Forum of the Air, 7.0; Keep Posted, 5.0; and Johns Hopkins Science Review, 4.5.

Is there anything a loyal and interested Alumni can do to help along the good work? Plenty—and without cost of a cent! First of all, if the Forum is carried in his area, he can listen to it himself. Then, having enjoyed a profitable half-hour (and not infrequently heard fellow-Alumni doing their stuff!), he can talk it up among friends and acquaintances. Word of mouth advertising is most effective in this field, and helps to boost our “Hooper” and “Pulse.” An occasional commendatory note to a station helps no end—Program Directors like to know they are reaching their listeners.

Where the Program is not yet heard Alumni can do invaluable work, especially if they have an “in” with local radio station personnel. We are constantly writing to new stations to expand our coverage, but often a personal word to a station manager or program director can do more good than ten promotional letters. The competition in the field is terrific—and, on the other hand, we can’t afford to keep a man on the road personally visiting stations. But the Alumni are already there—in Philadelphia and Chicago and Dayton and Detroit, and a whole lot of other cities we’ve been trying unsuccessfully so far to crack. It doesn’t have to be the biggest in the city (most network stations are a bit overloaded with discussion programs already!), but even the smaller independents have a surprisingly great influence, even if over lesser geographic extent.

Some selling points: The Program is a half-hour “package” (actually 23:45, allowing room at either end for local announcements and spot commercials. Program is supplied exclusively to one Station in any given area—avoids overlapping on competing stations. A variety of subjects is covered, to make the Program acceptable to as wide an audience as possible. For the use of tapes, no fee or deposit is required. Only two conditions are laid down: 1. Prompt return of tapes to G.U., for reuse, to keep the Program going. 2. Stations assume postage charges both ways. We are vain enough to think the Program should be worth 20¢ a week (average postage depending on zone) to stations using. And while this item is small in the case of each station, it looms large on the limited Forum budget (multiply 20 x 60 x 52 for yearly postage on tapes alone). Add to this that we carry all costs of production—Engineer’s union fees, Moderator’s fee, equipment upkeep, secretarial and incidental expenses, and advance publicity to stations and local news outlets. Stations are free to broadcast at their convenient time (see list page 11), and are free to accept or cease the Program at any time on mere notice to G.U. So what can they lose? Meantime, they are partially fulfilling their FCC requirements for public-service educational programs with a Forum of national stature and repute.

Father Yates Lectures to Air Force

At the Air War College, Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Alabama, the Rev. Gerard F. Yates, S.J., Dean of the Graduate School and Professor of Political Science, delivered a lecture to the faculty and students as part of the regular course of studies in the most advanced Air Force institution. Other lecturers in the same course, all of whom are specially selected by the Air Force, were Professors F.S.C. Northrop of Yale, Adolf Berle and William T. R. Fox of Columbia, Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., of Harvard, Sir Charles Webster of London, and Mr. Charles Kettering, inventor and industrialist, of Detroit.

Father Yates' topic was "National Objectives and Interests at World War II Conferences," a survey of the diplomacy and great strategic-political decisions of the major Allied meetings from 1941 to 1945. The problem, Father Yates declared, is to show how the war, which was waged to save the world from Nazi slavery, had the paradoxical outcome of strengthening Communist despotism, placing hundreds of millions more people under the sway of the Soviet Union.

The lecturer pointed out, in narrating the history of the principal conferences, that no one man and no single circumstance bears the blame for this tragic result. Some of the general causes were widespread Anglo-American ignorance of Soviet intentions and techniques, a military strategy that played straight into Russian hands, President Roosevelt's supreme confidence that he could win the "good will" of Stalin by concessions, exaggerated American fears of "British Imperialism" which blinded many eyes to Soviet imperialism.

The Dean concluded that military strategy and political objectives must be closely coordinated and their mutual interdependence understood. "Our military high command was reluctant to take account of political considerations in their choice of a strategy," Father Yates stated. "It is an American tradition, and an honorable one, that the military should stand aside from politics. Yet warfare is not an end in itself; it necessarily involves and for its very success depends on a clear understanding of political as well as military objectives. It is not a kind of large and dangerous football game, in which, when the final whistle blows, both sides retire to their dressing rooms."

Again, Father Yates asserted, "it is not enough to be a good technician; it is not enough to be an experienced practitioner of the art of war or even of political maneuvering. One must also have a strong grasp of history, an understanding of values, particularly an appreciation of the values on which our American state and society were founded." The speaker argued that an uncertain faith in our values, enhanced by the great depression and aided by very carefully planned and excellently executed communist propaganda, created a climate of opinion among many intellectuals and many public leaders which predisposed them to ignore some of the most basic realities of the modern political world—in particular, the true nature of Soviet imperialism.

Father Yates, a member of the Georgetown faculty for fourteen years, has frequently lectured at Service schools. In 1951 he was a Consultant at the Student Conference on U.S. Affairs held at the U.S. Military Academy, West Point. Together with President Grayson Kirk of Columbia and Professor Harold Sprout of Princeton he formulated the International Relations curriculum for the proposed Air Force Academy. In 1952 he lectured at the Summer Session of the University of Fribourg, Switzerland.

Lou Gigante is the man to watch as the Hoya hoopers of Coach Buddy Jeannette take the court for the 1953-54 season. Lou was second high scorer on the club last year, as well as defensive ace and what you might call "court dictator." The 6'10" senior from the Bronx should be all that and more during this year's gruelling 30 game campaign. There's little doubt but that Gigante will be number one man on what should be a fast, talented and green team. The only other letter winner on last season's N.I.T. squad who is back this year is guard Joe Carroll. Joe will team with Lou at the guard position and will again be counted upon to stop the opposition's star scorer.

Most promising among the sophomores are center Warren Buehler, a prolific scorer with every shot in the book, and Bill Cowley. Both are 6'3", and both will probably win starting berths. The other starting assignment would seem to be wide open. Bobby Scott, back after two years in the army and a letter winner on the '50-51 team, is bound to see a lot of action, as is Tommy Heyman, a 6' scrapper from Baltimore with a good set shot. Don Furth, like Heyman a starter on last year's freshman team, can drive like no one you've ever seen, and Don is in the thick of the fight for a first string job. 6'4" Joe Bolger, hampered by a foot injury last season, has a fine jump shot and also could wind up on the floor at the opening whistle. Others trying for the team, any of whom could play a lot, are Jack Walsh, Tommy Doyle, Don Munchow, Frank Major and Jack Vail, a freshman sensation a few years back, is a Senior now, and could develop into a star. He's a 6'4" kangaroo with all the natural ability in the world, yet somehow hasn't clicked in the past. No one will be surprised if this is Jack's year.

The team itself will be young, short, with the tallest man barely reaching 6'4", inexperienced and not very deep. However there are seven or eight very talented basketball players on the team, and if their lack of experience and the natural mistakes springing therefrom don't hurt them too much, it could be a good year. Sticking my neck out, as all prophets do, I'd say a 19-11 record wouldn't be too wild a guess.

Georgetown fans are understandably weary, and leary, of any ravings about freshman teams. So all I'll say is this: Fresh Coach Hughie Beins has about ten yearlings who look like they'd beat the Bolger-Sullivan fabulous frosh without working up a sweat. They have a group of giants who hover around the 6'6", 6'5" and 6'4" mark, as well as some 6'1" and 6'2" midgets who can really handle a basketball. You'll hear more of these young men in the future.

Ordinarily the squash coach and faculty moderator of intramural athletics wouldn't play what you'd call a major role in the athletic atmosphere of a university. Such is not the case at Georgetown, however, where the Rev. Frederick Brew, S.J., holds those positions. Fr. Brew is the most refreshing addition you can imagine to athletics at the Hillop. A natural athlete himself, with a sports background, Father is respected, not only as a priest, but as someone who knows sports, by the coaches and players on all of the Georgetown teams. There are many Jesuits, of course, who are interested in sports, but, after 10 years in Jesuit schools, I've never met any priest with as great a working knowledge of athletics at all levels as Fr. Brew. His formal title doesn't matter. What does count is that Fr. Brew is a member of the Athletic Department, and a very popular member at that.

SPORTS SHORTS: Mrs. Pauline Betz Addie, former world tennis champ, played an exhibition set at the Hillop in October. The many spectators saw not only a real champion, but a very attractive and gracious lady. The intramural football league has been expanded so that each team plays five games instead of three . . . Bob Lipmeyer, frosh track star, looks like he's going to be another Capozzoli . . . Tom O'Keefe has been appointed Athletic Director at Fort Belvoir . . . Although it's not certain yet, it looks like tennis and golf are on the way to becoming major sports de jure as well as de facto . . . George Kaftan, former All American basketball player from Holy Cross, is a freshman at the Dental School . . . Both Hugh Beins and Charley Capozzoli are frosh at the law school . . . Miggs Reilly is the new head basketball coach at Catholic University . . . Harry Schmitt, former football star and the end who scored Georgetown's last touchdown in the Sun Bowl game in 1951, expects to start at Georgetown Law School in January.

RIGGS LIBRARY

Renaissance; A Critical Journal of Letters, published in Milwaukee by the Catholic Renaissance Society, continues to carry substantial contributions from members of Georgetown's faculties. Dr. Anton Lang, Chairman of the Modern Language Department in the College, contributed to the Spring 1953 issue two reviews: one of Walter von Molo's Die Affen Gottes and one of Gertrud von le Fort's Aufzeichnungen und Erinnerungen. The Autumn 1953 issue of the same periodical carries a review of Jean Onimus, Incarnation: Essai sur la Pensee de Peguy by Dr. Leo Belrose, Associate Professor of Modern Languages in the College; and also a review of Bruce Marshall's The Fair Bride by Riley Hughes, M.A. of the Department of English, School of Foreign Service. In the same issue Dr. Theodore Maynard, whom many GU men will remember as a teacher of English in the days when Father W. Coleman Nevis, S.J. was President of the University, leads the book review section of the Autumn issue with a review of Joseph Morley's Father Hecker and His Friends. Incidentally, Dr. Maynard's most recent book, The Catholic Church and the American Idea (Appleton, 1953, $3.50) is a forthright affair that steps on some toes. The same critical spirit informs Dr. Maynard's summing up of the stature, defects and influence of the late Hilaire Belloc which appeared in the Autumn issue with a review of Joseph Morley's Father Hecker and His Friends. The same critical spirit informs Dr. Maynard's summing up of the stature, defects and influence of the late Hilaire Belloc which appeared in The Catholic World for October 1953. Of the many obituary articles on the great historian that have crossed our desk, this seems to us to be the most judicious, objective and appreciative of the lot.

The Reverend Brian A. McGrath, S.J., Dean of the College, has served on the Advisory Board of the periodical Confluence; An International Forum since its inception. It is published under the auspices of the Summer School of Arts and Sciences and of Education of Harvard University, and is now nearing completion of its second volume.

Mr. Leon Dostert, Director of the Institute of Languages and Linguistics, is the author of the leading article in the April 1953 issue of PMLA (Publications of the Modern Language Association of America). It is entitled "The Georgetown Institute Language Program", and is the second in a series of articles written at the invitation of the Editor of PMLA in connection with the Association's three-year study of the role of foreign languages and literatures in American life . . ."

Mr. Svend Frederiksen, Research Professor of Political Science in the Graduate School, is represented in the Proceedings of the American Philosophical Society (Vol. 96 No. 6, Dec. 1952) by a study of "Henrik Lund, A National Poet of Greenland."

Dr. Gaston Liton (Ph.D '42) holds the position of Archivist of the University of Oklahoma, and gained some renown as co-editor with Edward Everett Dale of the volume Cherokee Cavaliers; Forty years of Cherokee History as Told in the Correspondence of the Ridge-Watie-Boudinot Family (University of Oklahoma Press, 1939). Last February Dr. Liton left for a ten-months' leave of absence to serve as visiting professor of library science at the University of Parana at Curitiba, Brazil, and just before his departure he graciously presented the Library at Georgetown with two further volumes edited by himself, both of them issued under the auspices of the University of Oklahoma Library. The first, entitled Oklahoma; A Guide to Materials in the National Archives, appeared in 1951; the second, Oklahoma; A Guide to Holdings of Regional Manuscripts, was prepared in connection with a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation for the purpose of collecting materials on the history and contemporary life of Oklahoma, and was published in 1952.

Captain Miles Du Val (U.S.N., Ret., MS in FS '37), one of the foremost living authorities on the Panama Canal, whose books on that subject have been reviewed in these columns, has provided the Library with such a profusion of books on the Canal that we could not begin to enumerate them here. However, we wish to acknowledge them here, and also to thank the Captain for encouraging other persons to present books and other materials to the Library. It was at Captain Du Val's behest, for example, that Mr. Ira E. Bennett (for many years the Editor of The Washington Post) presented the Library with a gift which we had occasion to discuss in a previous issue (January 1953). Mr. William H. J. Waggaman, who attended the College in 1904, sent us a copy of his book, published in 1952 by the Reinhold Publishing Corporation: Phosphoric Acid, Phosphates and Phosphatic Fertilizers.

Mr. Francis Shieh (Graduate School, 1950) has sent the Library copies of his numerous articles and reviews which appear regularly in the Chinese press. He is at present serving as a foreign language instructor (Chinese-Mandarin) at Army language school at Monterey, Calif.

Reverend Harry Sievers, S. J., and his book Benjamin Harrison: Hooiser Warrior (Chicago, Regnery, 1952) were mentioned here some time back, but we had not noticed a friendly citation of it in the publication of another Georgetown man (Cyril Clemens, who attended the College in 1926): Mark Twain Quarterly, Winter, 1953, p. 18.

How The Graduate School Has Enriched Georgetown

by Rev. Gerard F. Yates, S.J.

When Georgetown announced a program of studies in the year 1820 leading to the degree of Master of Arts in the fields of Mathematics and Philosophy it was one of the pioneers in the development of postgraduate studies in America. John Carroll’s foundation, first an “Academy” and soon afterwards a College, was taking the first step towards becoming a University. The first Master of Arts degree was conferred in 1821. At the 1953 Commencement the Graduate School presented 41 candidates for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in nine fields, 31 candidates for the Master of Arts degree in six fields, and 17 candidates for the degree of Master of Science in five fields.

Since 1821 the list of graduates contains some of Georgetown’s most distinguished names, including of course many who had already received their Bachelor’s degrees from the College—Pise, Mudd, Stonestreet, Garesche, Semmes, Dmitry, Loughborough, Fairfax McLaughlin, Sands, Hirst, Kidwell, Easby-Smith, Quicksall—the list is very long; it covers over 130 years of Georgetown history.

Few are conscious of what the Graduate School has contributed to the University as a whole through the advanced education of many of its most distinguished faculty members. Here is a chronological list of many of those who have been most closely identified with the University since early in the present century. It includes some who have died in the service of the University, as well as some younger faculty members of the present:

- Hugh Joseph Fegan, MA '02, Ph.D. '16
- Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S.J., Ph.D. '20
- *Walter Joseph O'Connor, MA '24, Ph.D. '28
- Arthur Adam Espenscheid, MS '27, Ph.D. '34
- Francis Peter Wilson, MS '27, Ph.D. '39
- *Jean Joseph Labat, MA '27
- James Star Ruby, Jr., MA '28, Ph.D. '30
- John Waldron, Ph.D. '30
- Josef Solterer, MA '30, Ph.D. '32
- Richard John Weber, MS '31, Ph.D. '36
- James Francis Leahigh, MA '31, Ph.D. '34
- *Edward Patrick Donovan, MusD '30
- Leon Emile Dostert, MA '31
- Rev. Francis E. Lucey, S.J., Ph.D. '32
- *Rev. Francis Fay Murphy, S.J., Ph.D. '32

DR. ALBERT A. RODEN, Grad. '33, has been with the Military Sea Transportation Service of the Navy for several years and has just been appointed to the Cardinal O'Connell. He says that if Georgetown Alumni have any reminiscences of the Cardinal he would be pleased to pass them on to the ship’s complement.
Here is a good Georgetown story which has recently come our way. Dr. Thomas R. Monks, Dent. '36, spent some time at Twin Lakes, Conn. during the summer. Visitors to the monks' cottage included three class-mates who had lived with their host during their four years in Dental School. The visitors were: Dr. Francis Tomasi who brought along his five sons, Dr. Tillo DeNicolo with his two sons and one girl, Dr. Michael Mandino with two boys, Dr. John P. Parnell with three boys and two girls; Dr. Monks welcomed them with his four boys and one girl. That makes a total of twenty children. Another good reason for that Dental dormitory a few years from now.

Dr. Philip Blank, Med. '36, is director and Chief of Allergy at the Brentwood (Pa.) Medical Group. He is also attending Allergist for the Veterans Administration; Clinical Instructor in Medicine at the University of Pittsburgh Medical School; and Clinical Physician at Montefiore Hospital.

Dr. Thomas F. Barrett, Med. '36, has moved from California to Chicago to accept a new position on the faculty of Northwestern University Medical School and become the Medical Director of the Veterans Administration Research Hospital in Chicago, which is one of the latest and most modern of its kind that will be dedicated entirely to problems of medical research and education and the studying of difficult diagnostic and therapeutic problems. Before leaving California, he was Clinical Professor of Medicine at UCLA Medical School, and Chief of Professional Services, at the Wadsworth General Hospital, Los Angeles. Among the publications growing out of that service were: “Scintigrams of the Thyroid Gland”, California Medicine, Dec. 1952; “Method of Using I131 for the Determination of Abnormal Thyroid Morphology” – The American Journal of Roentgenology, Radiology Therapy and Nuclear Medicine, Dec. 1952; “Evolution of a Thyroid Panel”. JAMA, August 6, 1953, and many others.

Many of those listed above hold or held degrees from other schools of the University, and from other universities. Most of the Faculty of course are not Georgetown graduates, and this is as it should be, for scholars trained elsewhere in America and Europe contribute fresh viewpoints from their own cultural traditions. But the names above are names of distinction and names of promise as Georgetown builds for its future.

Overheard in a Huddle

By Arthur Daley

“Hey, kid?” said Steve Owen in greeting his pal Lou Little. “Not as well as you are,” said Lou with an answering grin.

“What do you mean?” asked Steve. “As far as won-and-lost records are concerned, Columbia’s 40-7 defeat by Army looks exactly the same as the Giants’ 7-0 defeat by the Browns.”

“Maybe so,” said the large Mr. Little with a sigh, but one more step by Kyle Rote on that long pass from Chuck Conerly and you’d have tied ‘em. What’s more, you would have won on a dry field instead of one hip-deep in mud.”

“I think so,” said Steve, “The Browns were set up for our wide running plays but we couldn’t cut inside in the mud.”

“Mud? Mud? Who mentioned mud?” said a chipper voice behind them. They turned to discover the dynamic Chick Meehan, one-time coach at New York University.

“I was thinking of you yesterday, Lou,” said the fiery Chick, “while I was watching the pros slough through the mud at the Polo Grounds. More particularly I was thinking of someone else, * * *”

“Oh!” said Lou delightedly. “I know exactly whom you mean. I was thinking of him myself—Jim Mooney.”

The Big Upset

It was inevitable, of course, that the return meeting of Messrs. Meehan and Little would bring back memories of one of the greatest of all football upsets, the now classic 7-to-2 upending of Meehan’s powerhouse N. Y. U. team by Little’s Georgetown eleven back in 1927. Ken Provincial of Georgetown scooped up a Violet fumble in the shadow of the goal posts and ran the length of the field in the mud for a Georgetown touchdown.

“I thought the punting by Gilmor of the Browns,” said Chick, “was the best kicking with a muddy ball since Mooney of Georgetown. How could I ever forget that big punter of yours, Lou?”

“The odd thing is that he held the ball up high like Gilmor does,” said Lou, “Maybe Jim was even more unorthodox. I can remember when he was a freshman at Georgetown. One of my young assistants came to me and said, ‘That kid Mooney is punting the ball 60 and 70 yards. But he’s unorthodox. Should we change him?’ I shook my head. ‘Leave him alone,’ I said. ‘I just hope he doesn’t improve so much and kick the ball so far that our ends won’t be able to get downfield to cover his kicks.’”

Eyewitness Report

“I was in the stands myself that day,” said Owen. “I remember it well because I was personally scouting Ken Strong, thinking we might be able to use him on the Giants some day.”

“Our defenses were geared to stop Strong,” said Lou, a note of wonderment in his voice, “and that, I don’t mind telling you, was a job. He ran best to his right. So we over-shifted to guard against Strong.”

“And you still couldn’t stop him altogether,” said Steve. “Strong gained 2,000 yards that season.”

“Mooney won the game for you, you know,” said Chick. “You’d hold us on the goal line and Big Jim would punt that heavy ball to the other end of the field. Back we’d come and he’d kick it away from us again.”

“I suppose you know how we happened to make the safety,” said Lou. He snickered politely. “It was a stroke of sheer genius on my part—or so the newspapers stated. There was about a minute and a half or two minutes left to go. Once again Georgetown had made a miraculous goal-line stand, taking away the ball on downs at about the 3-yard line.”

“Stop, you’re torturing me,” said Chick with a laugh.

Captain of the Team

“Mooney walked over to Johnny Scalzi, our quarter- back,” resumed Lou. “‘Hey, John,’ he said. ‘Let’s give them a safety and then I’ll kick the ball out of the lot on the free kick.’ Scalzi shook his head. ‘Lou didn’t give me any instructions on making a deliberate safety and I won’t take the responsibility,’ Mooney grinned at him. ‘I’m the captain of this team,’ he said. ‘I’ll take the responsibility. Let’s give ‘em a safety.’ So we gave N. Y. U. the safety. On the free kick Big Jim punted out of bounds on the N. Y. U. 12-yard line. The game was ours and I was the strategist supreme.”

“I wonder what his longest kick was,” mused Owen. “He played with us on the Giants for a while and got off many a beauty.”

“The one I remember best,” said Lou, “was against West Virginia. Jim stood on our goal line and punted out of bounds on the West Virginia 5-yard line. I don’t mean to imply that he kicked 95 yards on the fly. But the ball must have gone 75 yards in the air and rolled the rest of the way. Too bad Jim was killed in the war. He was over-age but it was typical of him that he’d enlist anyway. A fine boy was Jim Mooney.”

“Say, Steve,” said Chick. “What was that argument you had yesterday with the head linesman? You two were going at it, hot and heavy.”

“It was nothing,” said Steve. “He couldn’t see Cleveland beating the snap with off sides and I protested. ‘Shut up and stop officiating,’ he hollered at me. ‘I’ll shut up,’ I hollered back, ‘and I’ll stop officiating just as soon as you start officiating.’ What a day! Rote nigh scared me to death. He came groping toward the side-lines. ‘Water!’ he shouts. ‘Water!’ I thought he was badly hurt. ‘Oh, no,’ he says. ‘I just want water to wash my face. I’m so blinded by the mud, I can’t see.’”

“Here’s mud in your eye, eh?” said Chick.
Ralph G. Mastrangelo, College '51, announces the birth of Ralph Gabriel Jr., '74, on August 3.
