GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY ALUMNI MAGAZINE
Pope Pius XII and Georgetown

Rev. Daniel O'C. McFadden, S. J.

Early in October people in all parts of the world went into mourning when the news was flashed from the Eternal City that Pope Pius XII had died. It was a splendid tribute to the character, personality and influence of the late Pope that so many outside the faith heard with genuine sorrow of his death. The world had lost one of the great men of his time and peace had lost one of its most valiant champions. When the Father of Christendom laid down the heavy burden of his lofty office in death Georgetown mourned his passing in common with people throughout the world but Georgetown also had lost its most distinguished alumnus.

The death of Pope Pius XII undoubtedly recalled to the minds of many of the Alumni the memorable visit of his Eminence Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli to Georgetown University. Just twenty-two years before his death Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State, stood on the stage in Gaston Hall to receive from Rev. Arthur A. O'Leary, S.J., the President of Georgetown University, the honorary degree of Doctor Utriusque Juris. It was fortunate for Georgetown, and deeply did she appreciate the honor, that Cardinal Pacelli was able to come to Georgetown in October of nineteen hundred and thirty-six during his visit to the United States, a full month’s stay which, as he expressed it on the eve of his departure, had been “a series of experiences so varied and so quickly following one after the other that it is difficult for me to realize in retrospect how it was possible for me to have done so many things and to have visited so many places.” His Eminence arrived at Georgetown shortly after five o’clock in the evening and was met by the President and Faculty of the University and under escort of a unit of the R.O.T.C. was conducted to Gaston Hall where he was formally welcomed to Georgetown by Rev. Arthur A. O'Leary, S.J. One feature of the evening’s program was the greetings of the students to the Cardinal, delivered in Latin by the President of the Yard, Peter J. Brennan, (Coll.) ’37. As he finished his Ciceronian greetings and was walking off the stage, a whispered word from Fr. Edmund A. Walsh, S.J., caused him to halt in evident surprise. Quickly recovering himself, he turned to the assembled students and in a moment Gaston Hall was resounding with a new cheer,—they were giving Cardinal Pacelli a “Georgetown Hoyas.” He graciously smiled his appreciation of the collegiate accolade.

Cardinal Pacelli in his address spoke of the pleasure and deep satisfaction it gave him to receive an honorary degree from Georgetown. In closing he expressed the prayer that the success of the University “may continue

A student counselor at the Law Center

Rev. William H. Powell, S. J. '29

In June, 1958, by appointment of Reverend Father Provincial, a new member of the Faculty was added to the Law Center, a full time Spiritual Counselor to discuss and handle the various problems and troubles of the Law Students, and to minister to their spiritual needs. Graduates of the Law Center will acknowledge the need of such a post, since, from time to time, students come up with problems and troubles which to them are very serious and for which they need help and advice. In times gone by, Father Lucey, the Regent of the Law Center, used to act in this capacity, together with his many other Administrative Assignments, but with the complexity of the modern Law School and the multiplicity of details that were daily his task, Father Lucey could not give the time and energy necessary to maintain the high standards of the Law Center, and at the same time devote the time to the problems and troubles of individual students. Now a priest, full time, has been assigned to this very important work at the Law Center. His only work is to handle the spiritual difficulties, problems and troubles that come to the Law students.

Unfortunately there was no place in the Law Center proper to provide the new Spiritual Counselor with an office for seeing the students, a Chapel where the sacred mysteries could be celebrated, and a confessional where students would feel free to seek the assistance of the appointed priest. The Law Center was built at a time when this new position was not envisioned for a Law School. However, a working substitute was supplied in one of the Law School Dormitories, with a Chapel on the ground floor, a Confessional next door to the Chapel, and quarters for the new Spiritual Counselor directly above the room used as a Chapel. The Chapel has been named The Chancellors' Chapel, dedicated to the three English Chancellors, St. Swithin, St. Thomas a Becket, and St. Thomas More, who represent the Anglo-Saxon, the Norman, and the modern periods of common Law.

Holy Mass is celebrated every day at noon on the Law Center Property. The Chapel is small, accommodating at most 30 students for the Sacrifice. As the students enter the Chapel, they find a small table on which there is a ciborium and a box of small hosts. If they wish to receive Holy Communion, they place a host in the ciborium, then take the block of foam rubber which they use as a kneeler at Mass. The Mass at the Law Center is a Missa Recitata, in which all the students take an active part. They all give all the responses which usually only the alter boy gives to the Priest. Together with the Priest, they recite the Gloria, the Credo, if it is said in the Mass, the Sanctus and the Agnus Dei. At the Offertory when the priest uses Latin to offer the bread and wine that is to be consecrated, the students recite the same prayers in English. This same practice is followed when the Priest recites the three prayers immediately preceding Holy Communion. This active participation in the Sacrifice of the Mass appeals to the Law students very much, and they look forward to getting to the Chapel for Mass as often as their class time will permit.

The new Student Counselor looks forward to a very active, vitally interested unit of the Apostleship of Prayer, making the customary duties, studies, classes and activity of the Law students apostolic in character. He hopes (Continued on page 6) and that a glorious past may be prolonged in a still more glorious future.

After the Convocation a reception was held in his honor in the Hall of Cardinals and the members of the Faculty were given the privilege of meeting the man who was destined to play an important part in the history of the Church.

The necessity of returning to New York curtailed his visit to Georgetown but, brief as was the meeting with His Eminence, the striking impression he made on all who heard and saw him emphasized the truth of the opening sentences of the citation conferring upon him the honorary degree: "During the long years of its existence here in the nation's Capital, this University of Georgetown has had the good fortune to welcome many distinguished visitors to its academic halls; prelates and patriots, ambassadors from many nations, leaders in art and sciences, eminent jurists and brilliant statesmen, even the Presidents of our own beloved country and rulers of other nations. But never before has the footsteps of so eminent an ecclesiastical dignitary gladdened our portals; one who because of his splendid personal achievements and in virtue of the high position he holds as Papal Secretary of State merits our homage and esteem." There seemed to be a prophetic tinge about the words written of him, for true as they were at the time they would become more pointedly so some three months later when Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli would become Pope Pius XII.

Law Center

to hold, for the benefit of those students who are married, a series of Cana Conferences, wherein light can be shed on the usual problems that face married students. A closed Retreat is planned for the spring, just before the Easter Vacation so that the spiritual welfare of the student can be provided, without doing any harm to his legal studies.

The Spiritual Counselor is available for conferences and talks with students whenever it is convenient for them. Because of class schedules, time is necessarily limited, but he makes himself available every morning from nine o'clock and he remains in his quarters daily until nine at night, to be of help and assistance to students in the Evening School. He continues to reside on campus to take as much part as is possible in the community life of his Jesuit confreres. He has been impressed and delighted by the interest, attention and suggestions of the students, who seem delighted at the prospect of having a Priest of their own, one who is deeply interested in the spiritual and temporal welfare of the Georgetown University Law Student.

It is the hope of everyone occupied with the Administration of the Law Center, Father Bunn, Father Lucey, Dean and their Assistants that something can be done in the very near future, to provide fitting, adequate and attractive space for a real Law Center Chapel where all Catholic Law students can spend many quiet, peaceful, relaxing moments in prayer and adoration.

Dinner Meeting of the Georgetown Alumni Club of Erie Pennsylvania on October 3rd
Alumni Board Thanks
James H. Buchholz, '49

At the meeting of the Officers, Board of Governors, and Alumni Senate of the Georgetown University Alumni Association held at the University on October 11, the following Resolution of regret was drafted and approved by the Board to thank James H. Buchholz, '49 whose departure from the office of Director of the Annual Giving Fund was announced in the September issue of the Magazine.

WHEREAS, James H. Buchholz served for five years with outstanding fidelity and indefatigable energy as Chairman of the Annual Giving Fund of the Georgetown University Alumni Association, and

WHEREAS, the said James H. Buchholz has resigned his office with the Association and has returned to his native city of Kansas City as director of development for Rockhurst College, and

WHEREAS, the friendly smile and the affable disposition of James H. Buchholz will be missed by his friends and associates on the Board of Governors of the Georgetown University Alumni Association and on the Alumni Senate,

Now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, that the Board of Governors of the Georgetown University Alumni Association and the Alumni Senate extend to James H. Buchholz its sincere thanks for his work with the Association and proffer him and his family their prayers and best wishes for a happy and prosperous career in his newly-found work.

The appointment of James P. Reed, '53, to succeed Mr. Buchholz as Director of the Fund was also approved by the Board. Mr. Reed, a graduate of the College, is thoroughly familiar with the workings of the Association, having served the Association in various capacities during his undergraduate days. After his return from military service in 1955 he did much of the technical work required to produce the monumental 1957 Alumni Directory. He invites the cooperation of all of us in making the Annual Giving Fund a valuable contribution to Georgetown.

ANNUAL NEW YORK DINNER DANCE

Lawrence F. Corroon, C'48 and Douglas E. MacDonald, C'41, Co-chairmen, announce that the Metropolitan New York Club's second annual Scholarship Fund Dinner Dance is to be held at the Hotel Pierre in New York on December Thirteenth. Last year's dance was an outstanding social and financial success with more than four hundred persons in attendance.

The first recipient of the New York Club's full tuition scholarship is Robert Magdelain, a graduate of Archbishop Stepinac High School in White Plains, New York. He is enrolled in the College.

Tickets are $9.00 per person. The patron's contribution is $25.00 and the sponsor's contribution is $50.00. Either contribution includes two tickets.

Tables will seat ten but smaller groups will be accommodated.

The heavy demand for tickets last year necessitates accepting reservations in the order received. Reservations must be made before December 8.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY ALUMNI MAGAZINE
Eisenhower speaks at the Walsh Dedication

It is indeed a memorable occasion when there is dedicated here the School of Foreign Service in the name of Edmund A. Walsh; though the day may be saddened by our knowledge of the passing of a very great man, His Holiness Pope Pius.

Yet we cannot fail to remember that in our own memory we had two such men, we have inspiration that should lift up the lives of all of us. Your President mentioned one of my early associations with your University a matter of some five or six years ago. Probably no one here knows that once I coached a football team, a service team playing against Georgetown. I think it was in the fall of 1924. Lou Little was your coach and he beat us—But it was a very happy circumstance because it brought me the friendship of another man, Lou Little, who to this day remains my very warm associate and friend.

This school, it seems to me, symbolizes not only Father Walsh’s hope for peace of the world—but for the very great effort he made to promote that concept. And particularly to educate those of us who have had the privilege of listening to him over the years. I was one of those people. In the War College class of 1928-29 he came to lecture and I saw something that day that I never hope to see in any lecture room. After two hours a recess was called and the class as one man demanded that he return to answer questions and to give us something more of his knowledge that was so interestingly presented. The subject of that talk was the “Threat That an Atheistic Dictatorship Posed to the Free World,” and the certainty that that threat would grow unless we all armed ourselves with the spiritual and intellectual capacities that we could develop and bring others to understand so that we could oppose that threat practically and effectively. He made no wild charges, in fact it was a speech in which every statement was annotated and corroborated by the documents that he himself had procured and brought out, often out of Russia. A series of documents, by the way, was in two suitcases and they were filled and he knew exactly where to go to pick each one and to read it. So I will still remember that occasion if for nothing else than because of the excellence of the presentation. But through the years it was my privilege, from the rim of little gatherings, where I was a major and he was a central figure and instructor, to hear more of his wisdom given so freely and generously to the world. So I should like today therefore to pay my personal tribute of respect and belief in him, and even affection towards him, which I know so many of you here today are doing. As President, the highest executive official of this government, I want to do one other thing, to thank the University and the Society and all of their supporters for the work they are doing in educating soldiers of peace. Certainly this is what we expect our diplomats to do, to be officers of the great army that should be making its first business that of developing and sustaining a peace with justice and honor. I am told on figures that were no later vintage than April, 1957 that 87 of your graduates are actively now in the Foreign Service; possibly there have been hundreds through these 40 years. That seems to be the figure now actively working. I would hope your number would increase. We need people who will find in the service of their country, and of peace, their great satisfaction, and who will apply themselves to understanding the world as we saw it symbolized in the revolving globe in the entrance of this hall, a single entity not too much concerned by the immediate considerations of private gain or the affect on our own particular community of wool importation or the bad effect that is caused at times by some ill-tempered description of other people in the world; but people who see that no part, no matter how important, can be greater than the whole and therefore in developing our country recognize that they must help to develop understanding and knowledge throughout the world, and in it peaceful intentions, and determination to make those intentions realities. So to say that I am honored today by the University, that I am complimented by its presenting to me its honorary doctorate is a great understatement. I assure you that the presence here of these dedicated men, instructors and students, in this audience is an inspiration, a memory that I shall carry with me.
THE PRESIDENT AND DIRECTORS OF GEORGETOWN COLLEGE, TO ALL WHO SHALL VIEW THIS DOCUMENT: GREETINGS AND PEACE IN THE LORD

It is a happy characteristic of historically great nations—more properly, perhaps, an earnest of a guiding Providence in the affairs of men—that the times that try men's souls discover or engender their most illustrious leaders. Often, it is true, in the stress of circumstance "some have greatness thrust upon them"; it is equally true that once elevated to leadership and responsibility, their own personal character is tried, as the gold by fire, and their own integrity and worth dictates the success or failure of their destiny.

Our own nation faces today crises as crucial as any in our history, and, happily, boasts of many men of deep probity and high integrity in its leading posts of responsibility and governance. Paramount among these is our august Chief Executive, whose gracious acceptance of Georgetown University's proffered tribute is a source of consummate honor and pride.

His military career, from youth through maturing years, seemed a providential preparation for the supreme command entrusted to him, of the most powerful military forces the world has ever seen, in the most terrible war that history has yet recorded. In this post of awesome power and crushing responsibility, his innate spirit of self-command and moderation won the confidence of his counymen, and the trust of the allies; while his steadfast probity and military prowess won from the enemy respect in battle, and ungrudging admiration in their defeat.

With the close of the war, he would lay aside the sword and take up the fruitful and constructive work of peace as President of a great University, but the soldier in him responded dutifully to the call of his country and of the free world, to establish the NATO forces as an instrument of peace rather than as a weapon of war.

Once again, when he would have retired most willingly to the well-earned peace of private life, he was called by his fellow citizens to lead them and guide the nation through the perils and dangers of these troublous days. In this exalted position he has dedicated himself and all his powers, under God, to the preservation and advancement of peace with justice throughout the world. Deeply abominating war, as only a soldier can who has known its devastations, he lends to every honorable effort of compromise and conciliation his earnest and warmhearted support. Witness alone his historic dedication of the awesome power of the atom to the fostering of peace, and the enrichment of the fruits of peace.

High as the position he holds, and mighty as the influence he wields in the destinies of our own country and of the world, his innate modesty of character precludes anything like self-elation: he is, as he has ever been, a man of his people. To enemies, openly aggressive or slyly undermining, he exhibits the visage of uncompromising courage and firmness; to the onerous burdens and cares of his office he shows the smile of faith in himself, in his counymen and in his God.

History will preserve a large and distinguished place for his accomplishments. It is but meet and fitting that his deserts receive their due meed from his contemporaries. To the unlimited honors already paid to his personal character and his official integrity, Georgetown University is proud to add the tribute of her highest accolade by proclaiming, in virtue of her Charter from the Government of the United States.

DWIGHT DAVID EISENHOWER

Doctor of Laws, honoris causa

And for a lasting testimony and memorial of this happy occasion, these letters have been duly issued at Georgetown, in the District of Columbia, on the thirteenth day of October, 1958, in the Dedication ceremonies of the Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service.
