COVER: The illustration is the work of the late Don Swann, noted American etcher, made about 1930 after the completion of New North. Only three hundred copies were struck and the plate destroyed. The copy reproduced here was presented by Leo H. McCormick, '30 to Richard J. McIconey, '52 for display in the new 1789 Inn in Georgetown.
As summer fades and another academic year begins, we are presented with an opportunity to make the coming year a truly memorable one for Georgetown—through Annual Giving.

Five hundred alumni in seventy areas throughout the country have offered to work on the 1962-63 campaign and many more are signing up daily. But to fulfill Georgetown's continuing quest for excellence, more willing hands are needed.

Our workers made last year's drive the best in the University's history. And, as success breeds success, all signs portend a greater year to come, providing we have the full support of our local alumni.

The priceless ingredient is leadership. And each Georgetown Alumni Club can and must provide that leadership at the grass-roots. Last year for example, Cleveland Club Alumni under Joe Sussen's leadership increased gifts 178 percent with 53 percent of all alumni in the area making a donation.

Last year's fund gave scholarships to needy students, pay raises to worthy professors, additional books for our libraries, equipment for our athletic programs and, in countless ways, helped meet the University's operating deficit—incurred, as every alumnus knows, because tuition just doesn't meet costs.

ALL GIFTS ARE IMPORTANT, REGARDLESS OF THEIR SIZE.

Here is a breakdown of gifts to the 1961-1962 Fund:

The opening of the much needed Science Center calls for an expansion of our faculty and staff—a heavy investment in prestige which will redound to the benefit of every Georgetown man. This, plus the many improvements which every one of Georgetown's nine schools is making should surely increase your pride in your alma mater and your willingness to join the march forward.

Our workers currently cover areas comprising 14,600 out of the total 30,000 alumni. Many of you cannot be reached personally, so we must rely on the U.S. mailmen as our solicitors. By answering our requests by mail you can help cut down on the task cut out for our workers. The forthcoming local campaign is scheduled to end on November 30. But only if we have a substantial increase in our returns can we stop soliciting alumni on that date:

How can you help?
1. Send in your contribution by mail, now, while you think of it.
2. Offer to aid your local Club President or write to Chairman Paul Coughlin at Alumni House, telling him of your willingness to help.

Through your efforts, we can write a new page in Georgetown's glorious history. Bear in mind that no one will be asked to do more than he can handle. But also remember that the need is great. The time is now.

Hears the Voice of the Pope

By HARRISON SMITH, Ph.D. '50
Lecturer, University College,
University of Maryland

WILL THIS be known in history as the "ecumenical year"? The voice of the Pope has not been heard in the East with such interest since the Crusades which terminated in disaster. In an interesting article published in the Georgetown Foreign Service School's Courier in March there are enumerated the various rites of the East which are united to the Roman See of Peter. It is not, however, with these uniates under Cardinal Coussa that the stir of unification is primarily concerned, but rather with some even independent churches of the "Holy Orthodox Catholic Apostolic Eastern Church" and some other separated Churches of the East not in communion with either Rome or Orthodox Constantinople. Aside from the obvious difficulties represented by Anglicanism, as well as Lutheranism and Calvinism, there is a natural inclination to hope that Orthodoxy and Catholicism can heal their centuries-old schism.

What gives rise to such a pious, but startling aspiration? After a century of inactivity, the calling of an Ecumenical Council of the Church is, according to Cardinal Bea’s announcement this Spring, for the purposes of discussing preparations for a long range program for the ultimate return of nine hundred million Christians by making some practical concessions. This most dramatic of several recent gestures will challenge the faithful to cast off historic prejudice, while at the same time compel the narrow of spirit to tack before the winds blowing off the present visionary, universal Sovereign Pontiff, who as Nuncio to Turkey lived in the Near East for years and came to know and understand it as none of his predecessors could.

This writer spent five months last winter in the Old Pera Palace Hotel in Istanbul where he met prelate after prelate as they slipped quietly into the suite once occupied by Kemal Ataturk and now kept busy with Orthodox dignitaries from every corner of the East visiting His All Holiness, Athenagoras I, Ecumenical Patriarch of Orthodoxy at Constantinople. Other historical circumstances stimulate the talk of closing the schism of 1054. Patriarch Athenagoras has lived nineteen years in the West where he was the Primate of North America in Greek Orthodox circles. On his desk one finds a photograph of the Honorable John Fitzgerald Kennedy and three volumes of the memoirs of former President Harry Truman. In the modest patriarchal palace of St. George across the Golden Horn in the poorest section of Old Stambul this spiritual descendant of Andrew, brother of Peter, receives all who call with the traditional "Turkish Delight" on Sunday afternoons. The message is always the same: Once the love of Christ has entered one’s heart first, dogma and union will be resolved.

In theory he is the spiritual leader of the Churches of Constantinople, Alexandria, Antioch, Jerusalem, Mt. Sinai, Cyprus, Russia, Greece, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Roumania, as well as being loosely tied to Georgia, Armenia, and Albania—some of which deem themselves independent and some autocephalous. He firmly believes they wish him to lead them into a closer relationship with Rome, although there are, as there will shortly arise in Catholic circles, carping voices on the hopelessness of this herculean task. On the day your writer lunched with him he made it abundantly clear that he wants to meet Pope John personally, shattering centuries of isolation in much the same way the British Royal Family and the highest primates of Anglicanism have done, although a meeting outside Italy would eliminate sticky questions of protocol. His venerable eyes were alight with a new brilliance when the conversation turned to the prospect of such a meeting.

Ecclesiastical leaders on both sides sense the pitfalls that could wreck this new harmony achieved by two unique rulers living in the opposite camp. The dogma, according to Cardinal Bea, can only rest intact, and it would be better if liturgical differences such as language, celibacy and canon law codes where peripheral areas of hope for accord exist, where approached first. Sacramental validity not being disputed, such "petrine supremacy" and "papal infallibility" will need to be skirted.

After reading of the persecutions of the Orthodox Churches behind the Iron Curtain in Robert Lee Wolff's The Balkans in Our Time (Harvard University Press, 1956), your writer set out on two extended excursions into Bulgaria, Roumania, Yugoslavia (Serbia, Bosnia and Macedonia) and Hungary to examine for himself the content of Orthodoxy in the lives of those who live and wait in silence. He was received by and talked with many Orthodox prelates as he visited countless churches. The effect was depressing, particularly so was the absence of little children and the State's determination to schedule enforced school activities at the same hours as the "Divine Liturgy".

There are two great reasons, aside from doctrinal disputes, why Catholicism and Orthodoxy should be in cordial, harmonious, and reciprocal relationship: Christendom — which rests on the One Holy Catholic and Apostolic Church, truly believing in Apostolic Succession — must present a consolidated position to the pagans and non-believers of our times; but more compelling is the realization that when the tide of communism recedes or when it is rolled back, there is no other socio-political institution on which the West can hope to reconstruct the battered communities and heal the scars of the souls seared by decades of fallaciousness. The sole constructive foundation will be Orthodoxy as founded by Cyril and Methodius, and preserved in the spirituality of the Orthodox clergy. Whatever may be their lamentable and varied deviations and submissions to the State, they are still the link; they still chant their offices so that "My Word shall never pass away". The classic messages found in the words of the Saviour of Man continue to fall upon the ears of those who yet hover, however hesitantly, around the altars and ikons of Byzantium all over the Balkans. Because Pope Pius VII understood this better than some of his cardinals the "light which is light indeed" was allowed to continue to flicker in Napoleonic France so that in the end it burned brightly again.

Admittedly, in the long haul the State is able to see to it that the Church does "wither away". Yet what alternative does the Western World have other than to cling to that one eternal institution which has guarded the sacraments throughout centuries of the overlordship of Islam? Will it not, as the late founder of the Foreign Service School, the Rev. Edmund Walsh, was fond of saying, "live to chant a requiem"? Orthodox East and Catholic West must come into "working agreement" even though they may feel bound in conscience to preserve certain issues where submission is impossible. The Holy Father now gloriously reigning has used the words "separated brethren", and a professor at Fordham recently declared the time had come to find another expression for our brothers than "non-Catholics" which suggests the back of the hand.

The bankruptcy of disunion that permeated the Coalitions of 1914-1918 and 1940-1945 caused the great tasks of reconstruction to founder on uncertain and drifting courses; it might be called, as the former Polish Ambassador to Washington said, "defeat in victory". Should it please God to lift the curtain — and in time it will come to pass, the walls of China, the Maginot Line, and the Roman wall of England all crumbled — then the West must have a pre-arranged answer to the then imminent tasks. Orthodoxy will be the path of honor and truth that can be expected to appeal to the dormant institutions of these devastated areas. If the General Council of the Church this autumn can stimulate a modest sense of ecumenicalism without stumbling over the granite stones of dogma, it will be then as Sir Winston Church-
President and Attorney General
Commend Legal Internship Program

Georgetown University's pioneering legal internship program to train young lawyers to defend the poor in criminal cases received high praise recently from President Kennedy and his brother, the Attorney General.

They sent messages to Dean of the Georgetown Law Center, Paul R. Dean, congratulating Georgetown and eight students who were awarded certificates in Trial Advocacy at a dinner in their honor in New South Hall on the Georgetown campus.

The President's message follows:

"It is with pleasure that I extend my warm congratulations to the Georgetown University Law Center upon the completion of its second successful year of the Legal Internship Program.

"Professor Shadoan and Associate Dean Pye are to be congratulated for their supervision of the interns in this vital activity. The Interns themselves deserve the gratitude of all of us for their competent and courageous representation of those unable to afford counsel. This work is in the highest tradition of the profession.

"I am informed that the Judicial Conference for the District of Columbia Circuit has recently commended the Interns for their excellent performance in this important area. It is gratifying to know that their outstanding work has been so well received.

"The Legal Internship concept signifies the progressive-ness of our system of Legal Education and the activities of your young attorneys represent a significant contribution to the cause of even-handed justice for rich and poor alike".

The Attorney General said that the Law Center's contribution "to legal education and the internship program's contribution to the cause of equal justice for all cannot receive too great a commendation. Best wishes for the continuance of this outstanding contribution to the law and the legal profession."

Certificates were awarded to Thomas G. Conway, Kingston, N. Y.; Wallace L. Duncan, Salt Lake City; Marvin J. Garbis, Baltimore; Phillip A. Hubbart, Detroit; Gerald A. Messerman, Cleveland; Patrick A. MacDonald, Detroit; Harold K. Schroeder, Buffalo; John A. Yacovelle, New Brunswick, N. J.
Dear Jim:

I wish to express to you for myself and on behalf of the members of my Law Class of 1922 and their wives our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for a most enjoyable weekend during the commencement week class reunions.

It was great to get together with many of the old classmates and it was equally great to be accorded the utmost in courteous and bounteous treatment at every event. You handled things beautifully, Jim, and on many sides I heard the folk say how thrilled they were with everything. The faculty host assigned to my Class of Law 1922, Mr. Phil Ryan, was most generous to us and looked after our every whim and desire in a most praiseworthy manner.

All that I can say is that all the members of my class left for home reluctantly, but most happy.

Thanks a million, Jim, and I hope to be here five years hence for another go at it.

With my best to you always, I am

Gratefully yours,

Joseph A. Cantrel, L '22

Dear Jim:

It will probably take another Five Years for the College Class of 1932 who attended the reunion to recover from a most joyous and perfect Alumni Reunion.

Some thirty-five couples returned with a perimeter of Miami, Florida, Detroit, Michigan, Utica, N. Y. and Boston, Mass.

All were in perfect agreement that their every want, comfort and need was provided by most courteous guides, messengers, waitresses and added to their great pleasure.

We all thought the high light was the Saturday Luncheon, where a sumptuous array of food salads and delicacies were dispensed from the most beautiful decorated food serving table ever witnessed in any college dining hall.

To revive a cliche, the stately beauty of the New South Dormitory is breathtaking. Air conditioned and the Decor so pleasing it is hard to see how the students ever leave, instead of smelly old Ryan of happy memories.

In this entire report I speak from the bottom of my heart and for the members of class of 1932 our deep appreciation of your wonderful and kindly efforts that made our 30th Reunion at Georgetown the greatest ever and a weekend to be treasured with our loving thoughts of Alma Mater.

Again, with my deepest and kind-est personal regards and many thanks to all your excellent staff, I am,

Sincerely yours,
William J. Gerety, Jr., C '32

Dear Dr. Ruby:
I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and all your associates for making the reunion the finest weekend I have spent since leaving Georgetown. In all sincerity, I believe that it will be difficult, if not impossible, to improve on the "on campus" reunion as developed by you. The food, the catering, the accommodations, the scheduling of events and all the little extras made an ideal situation to renew old acquaintances and gave me a further reason to be proud to be known as a graduate of Georgetown.

Very truly yours,
Donald P. Walsh, C'57, L '57

Dear Jim:
Thank you again and again and again for a wonderful weekend. It could not have been better.

I congratulate you on the way everything went—especially the fine weather you provided for us.

Sincerely,
John F. McDonough, C '27

Dear Father Bunn:
I want to take this opportunity to thank you for a very wonderful weekend at our 25th Reunion at Georgetown. I had a delightful time and the fact that we all stayed together up at the Hilltop was wonderful, especially after being away so many years.

All of the comments I heard concerning the Reunion were how wonderful it was and I do believe that those who were there were glad they came back. I think the manner in which you handled the Reunion was excellent and I know you are going to get a wonderful feeling among the alumni.

Thanks again for everything.
Sincerely,
W. J. Williams, C '37

Dear Doctor Ruby:
I was very happy to return to my 25th Reunion and to have received my new diploma. I had it framed and this was a reminder that I should write you.

Permit me to state that the Reunion was wonderful, and as everyone knows, you were the Producer and Director.

Everything went smoothly and affairs like these just do "happen!" Someone has to arrange, organize, guide and direct you and your office associates did an outstanding job.

I want you to know that Mrs. Mountford and myself had a marvelous time, and I fully intend to return for each five year Reunion if the Good Lord permits.

Kindest regard for continued success in your work.

Sincerely,
William E. Mountford, M '37

Dear Jim:
Just a note to express the sincere thanks of my wife, Eleanor, and myself for a first class weekend. Georgetown went all out for us as it has so many times in the past.

I cannot think of a single arrangement your people made which I would have changed at the Reunion.

Very truly yours,
Charlie Smith, FS '42

Dear Father Bunn:
Mrs. O'Brien and I could not allow the very happy and refreshing occasion of our recent Reunion weekend at Georgetown to pass without conveying to your good self the great benefit we both derived physically, mentally, and even spiritually from the all too transitory and fleeting communion with Alma Mater and the renewing of acquaintances of happy undergraduate days.

The physical appointments and conveniences placed at the disposal of the returnees and their families left nothing to be desired, and the size of the Reunion and the numbers of those attending were startling when observed as an integrated whole. Please be assured of our satisfaction, pleasure and edification on returning to the modern Georgetown campus. It has indeed flourished greatly during the intervening years, and particularly those of your tenure as President.

All of the returning alumni with whom I spoke have voiced an emphatic vote of thanks to you and to Jim Ruby for a truly memorable Reunion.

Trust that you will have a restful summer (although I suspect you will be as much on the go as ever), I remain

Sincerely yours,
Gerard J. O'Brien, C '32

Dear Dr. Ruby:
You and your associates are to be congratulated on the wonderful weekend, June 8, 9, 10, that awaited us upon your return to Georgetown.

Hope 1967 arrives in a hurry!

Cordially,
John A. Winter, '57

Dear Jim:
I would like to take this opportunity to express my congratulations on a fine job. I don't believe I can recall hearing one complaint either on the services or otherwise, and overheard many comments in regard to the fine service and rhythmic precision with which each of the particular events was carried out.

I feel certain that I express the feelings of our entire class when I say "Thanks".

Sincerely,
D. C. Gibeau, C '37
My appointment as the full-time Director of Placement at Georgetown University Law Center is indicative of the renewed emphasis that colleges and universities throughout the country are placing on the graduate's first job after he leaves the "halls of ivy". Educators have come to the realization that it is not enough to provide their young students with a sound education; a good start in applying their newly-learned skills is now recognized as part of the college and university's over-all responsibility.

Perhaps one of the most compelling forces behind this renewed emphasis upon the proper placement of graduates is the fact that all too many graduates have fallen the victim of a haphazard, trial and error process in the selection of post-graduate career opportunities. Nothing is more disheartening to the educator than to see a student misuse or misdirect his talents. Yet, the truth of the matter is that many students, either through a false assessment of their own talents or ignorance of the realities of a pre-selected career, waste, valuable time in pursuit of a career or job opportunity for which they are hopelessly ill-equipped. Many graduates more preoccupied with quick financial success rather than sound career development soon arrive at a dead end street as far as career enhancement and development are concerned.

A sound college or university placement program actively supported by both the faculty and alumni can do much to help the young graduate avoid many of the more obvious pitfalls that face him as he prepares to plunge into the cold realities of the "work-a-day world". A college or university student, occupied with academic pursuits and never exposed to the practical aspects of the career for which he is so diligently preparing, is apt to fall victim to some startling miscon-exceptions in regard to the realities of his future career. A well thought out placement program should fill this gap of misinformation and intelligently present to the student a realistic picture of what he may expect when he becomes actively employed in his chosen career. Such a program should utilize the members of the alumni who have had the practical experience and who traditionally are always willing to help the young graduate.
On the University Campus

Many students, as they approach graduation day, have determined in their own minds their future career patterns. Others face graduation with some degree of timidity and indecision. While each graduate must mold his own destiny, deciding upon a career subsequent to graduation is a vital decision where experienced assistance and guidance is invaluable. Here again, a good placement program can help the graduate assess his individual talents and channel his ambitions into a field where he may expect success rather than failure or disillusionment.

While a high scholastic average gives a graduate an important advantage in the competition for career opportunities, it is no guarantee of success. Many a promising graduate has failed to qualify for an outstanding job opportunity because of poor jobseeking techniques. Job seeking on the part of the college or university graduate is becoming more competitive every year. Prospective employers, while I believe are still overly preoccupied with scholastic averages and class ranking, are beginning to look for additional qualities in prospective employees. Maturity, poise, attitude and personality, factors always considered, are becoming more important than in the past due to the greater competition. While a placement director cannot create these desirable qualities, he can assist the graduate by counseling him in these directions.

A well planned placement program has many facets. I have briefly highlighted some of the more obvious. Unfortunately, the college and university placement office has come to be regarded by some as a glorified employment agency. A placement office should take an active part in assisting a graduate or alumnus in finding career opportunities commensurate with his skills and experience, however, a university or college that institutes a placement program has a right to expect more than just a brokerage service. The placement office should, at least, attempt to bridge the gap between the academic world and the realities of making a living. Such a program is not a cure all, but it should try to eliminate some of the indecision and haphazard career selection that has heretofore characterized many a graduate's search for suitable employment.

In view of the fact that the readers of The Georgetown University Alumni Magazine represent a cross section of careers, I have not particularly stressed placement of law graduates. However, the law graduate is generally faced with the same problems as his undergraduate counterpart, plus several additional ones. The legal profession is becoming more technical and consequently more specialized. The profession has not escaped the trend toward centralization that has so characterized our times. While it is still possible for a young law graduate to hang up his shingle and go into business for himself, his chances of success are becoming increasingly more remote. Today, most law graduates must find their opportunities in large law firms or corporations. The curricula of law schools are changing to reflect a heavy emphasis on specialized fields of law. The law graduate of today must reflect the present requirements of a very complex profession. In such an area, a meaningful placement program becomes a vital requirement both to the school and the students.

Placement within the framework I have discussed is a relatively new addition to the campus. Much more must be accomplished in the field, however, educators have now come to realize that their responsibility to the student does not end by handing him a diploma. Recognition of the problem will do much in accomplishing the chief aim of a placement office—that of assisting the graduate in making an intelligent choice in the selection of his first job; a job that will enhance his professional growth in the career of his choice. I consider it a rare privilege to be connected with such a worthwhile endeavor.
With the Alumni Clubs

San Francisco

The Georgetown University Alumni Association of Northern California held a no-host cocktail party on Wednesday, August 8th in the California Room of the Hotel Sheraton-Palace, San Francisco. The annual mid-year affair was attended by Georgetown Alumni and parents of undergraduate students. It was especially planned by Hon. Frank W. Rose, L '36 to coincide with the meeting of the American Bar Association. All visiting Georgetown lawyers were invited. Special guests of honor were Father Joseph A. Sellinger, S.J., Dean of the College and Paul R. Dean, Dean of the Law Center.

Baltimore, Maryland

The Georgetown University Alumni Club of Baltimore concluded its first year of reactivation with a social event—a cocktail party held Sunday, May 27th at Loyola College. Forty alumni and friends attended.

The coordinating Committee of the Club has scheduled the first meeting of the 1962-63 year for Friday, September 28th. Raymond Kirby, G '35 is chairman. At that time elections and the formal organization of the club will take place.

Buffalo, New York

President John F. Connelly, Jr., C '52 reports this news of the Buffalo Club:

'A banquet was held at the Buffalo Athletic Club in honor of John F. Connelly, C '14 for his selection to the Athletic Hall of Fame. 150 Georgetown Alumni and friends of Mr. Connelly attended. The guest of honor was presented with an engraved watch and solicitations from the Common Council of the City of Buffalo by President, Chester Goraki.

'Edwin Lang Miller, C '10 was the guest speaker and told many stories of the days of Jim Thorpe playing against Georgetown. Harry Kelly, C '16 talked of his days with Jack Connelly on the ball field. Charles J. McDonough, L '27, outstanding Buffalo attorney, was the toastmaster and did a commendable job. John Napier, C '47 was Chairman of the dinner and Rev. Stanley A. Curtin, S.J. gave the Benediction. It was generally accepted as being the most outstanding party ever held by a Georgetown group in Buffalo.

'Frank Offerman, L '51 presented the Georgetown Cup for the Catholic High School Baseball Championship to Bishop Timon High School.

'The date will be announced shortly for a Georgetown Alumni dance in the fall. Mr. and Mrs. John Hurley, C '48, L '51 will be chairmen.'

Connecticut

President of the Georgetown Alumni Association of Connecticut, Bernard J. Dolan, Jr., C '49 reports that the Club held its annual golf outing at the Race Brook Country Club in New Haven on Tuesday, August 7th.
About 150 men participated. Awards were presented, a short entertainment program provided, and representatives of the University attended.

Michigan

Georgetown alumni of Michigan met at a luncheon meeting on Thursday, June 28th at the Savoyard Club, Detroit. Tentative plans as well as old times were discussed and new Officers were elected. About 30 alumni attended.

Dave Marantette, C '63 spoke at the meeting briefly, but extremely well, about the Glee Club Concert tentatively planned for Detroit.

New Michigan Club officers are: President Daniel N. King, L '54; Vice President Miles M. O'Brien, Jr., C '57; Secretary Peter F. Kennedy, C '56; and Treasurer Christopher J. Duncan, C '58.

Metropolitan New York

The Georgetown University Club of Metropolitan New York, Inc. held its annual Golf Outing and Dinner at the Apawamis Club in Rye, New York on June 19th. Over 100 alumni from the New York area attended. Howard Kavookjian, C '50 and Bill Keating, C '57, served as co-chairmen and assisted Master of Ceremonies John Pinto, C '42 in awarding prizes. Kyle Rote, radio commentator and New York Football Giants luminary; Dr. Joseph D. Crumlish, C '48, G '54, Director of the Alumni Annual Giving Fund; William S. Catherwood III, C '42, President of the National Alumni Association; and George H. Cain, C '42, President of the Club, gave brief "after dinner" talks.

William L. O'Conor, Jr., C '39, Chairman of the Club's Scholarship Committee, announced recently that a four year scholarship had been awarded by the Scholarship Fund to James V. Faulkner of Valley Stream, Long Island. Faulkner, who was graduated in June from St. Francis Xavier High School, was Cadet Colonel commanding the cadet regiment, co-captain of the track team, active in debating, and on the staff of the school newspaper. An honor student, he completed the Greek Honors course at Xavier and expects to pursue a pre-medical course at Georgetown.

The Club will sponsor its annual reception for freshmen entering the University and their fathers on Wednesday, September 12th. Young men and women entering the College of Arts and Sciences, School of Foreign Service, School of Nursing and Institute of Languages and Linguistics will be invited to the affair which will be held from 8 to 10 p.m. at the 107th Infantry Regiment Armory at 66th Street and Park Avenue, Manhattan. Father Sellinger, George Cain and Club Secretary Bill Moyles, C '52 are handling arrangements.

The Club's Fall Smoker will be held on Thanksgiving Eve, November 21st, at the same location.

Cincinnati

William L. Dolle, Jr., C '50 reports:

"On Saturday, July 7th, the Georgetown Club of Greater Cincinnati had its annual Summer Outing at Chaswirl Farm, which is the residence of the Williams Family. Despite the unavoidable absence of many familiar faces, there were more Alumni in attendance than at any previous Summer party. John Schwierling, L '57 and Jack Frank, C '60 were chairmen of the affair, and since everything went so well they may have won the permanent chairmanship of this outing."

THE JOHN CARROLL DINNER – 1962

The eleventh annual John Carroll Dinner of the Georgetown University Alumni Association will be held under the sponsorship of the Georgetown Club of Rochester on Saturday evening, September 29th in the Cotillion Room of the Sheraton Hotel in Rochester, N. Y., with cocktails starting at 6:00 P.M.

The 1962 awardees are—Col. Leo A. Codd, '22, Executive Vice President of the American Ordnance Association and immediate past President of the Alumni Association; Mrs. Margaret Baggett Dolan '35, President of the American Nursing Association and Professor of Public Health at the University of North Carolina; Hon. James P. B. Duffy, '01, former Member of Congress, and Rochester Attorney; Dr. Joseph A. Lane, '22, President of the Medical Society of the State of New York; and B. Edward Shlesinger, '15, Rochester Patent Attorney.

For dinner tickets send $7.50 per plate to Robert N. Kleisley, '55, 28 North Country Club Drive, Rochester 18, N. Y.
Georgetown University announced the appointment of Dr. Jacinto Steinhardt, Director of the Operations Evaluation Group at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as Science Advisor to the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S.J., president of the university.

Dr. Steinhardt will also teach chemistry and coordinate research at the new $4,250,000 Science Center.

Dr. Steinhardt, 56, has done seventeen years of research in physical chemistry of the proteins at M.I.T., and directed the Navy's Operations Evaluation Group under an M.I.T. contract.

He received his Ph. D. in Biophysics from Columbia University in 1934 and for four years did postdoctoral research under National Research, General Education Board, and Rockefeller Foundation Fellowships at the University of Copenhagen (Denmark), the University of Upsala (Sweden), Cambridge University (England), and at Harvard.

Prior to the second world war he was engaged in physico-chemical research for the Textile Foundation on protein fibers at the National Bureau of Standards.

He served overseas in Atlantic and Pacific theatres as a naval operations analyst. He was awarded the Medal of Freedom and the Presidential Certificate of Merit. He is a founding member and past president of the Operations Research Society of America.

Research Expansion

With its $4,250,000 new Science Center nearing completion Georgetown University has an enlarged research program scheduled for Summer School and the next academic year.

Included are grants amounting to $18,902 for work under direction of Rev. M. P. Thekaekara, S. J., Acting Chairman, Department of Physics.

The National Science Foundation has granted $21,000 for the third Summer Conference on "Recent Advances in Astro-Geophysics for College Teachers." Grants of $22,000 and $23,000 were made in 1960 and 1961 for the study of results from spectographic, rocket, satellite and radio-astromonomical methods.

The Foundation has also awarded $24,700 for the support of "Fixed Equipment for Research Facility in Physics," for a year. It will be matched by an equal amount from the University Development Fund, to be used towards purchase and installment of fixed equipment in the Science Center.

The Atomic Energy Commission has granted $22,037 for a nuclear science education program.

ill once said, "the end of the beginning."
Eccumenicalism has its lay aspects as well. In quiet little branches on the side lines in non-ecclisiasical circles the grand theme of the brotherhood of man as lay Christians edged forward cautiously. Examples occur in charitable organizations and societies. Recently, H. I. H. Prince Vladimir, Head of the Russian Orthodox House of Romanoff, accepted a high honor from the Papal "Knights of Malta" (Sovereign Military Order of St. John of Jerusalem); the "Knights of Malta" (H. E. the Lt. of the Grand Master) recently made a courtesy visit to the English knights of the Most Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem, an Order primarily Protestant in composition, but which does admit Roman Catholics. Now H. M. Orthodox King Peter II of Yugoslavia at Grandson Castle in Switzerland has accepted the Grand Protectorship of the "Knights Hospitaler" (Sovereign Order of St. John of Jerusalem) whose eccumenical concepts admit both Catholics, Orthodox, and Protestants.
Immense care must be taken to proceed reverently, avoiding abusive and hostile language that wound the sensibilities of men long separated by religious warfare, but who are willing today to gently approach their brethren in the spirit of the admonitions of Christ who is the chief cornerstone of all their temples.
(Editors Note: The writer was recently created an Officer, Order of St. Mark, by His Beatitude, Christophoros II, Orthodox Patriarch of Alexandria, a decoration rarely conferred upon Roman Catholics)

What the world's best telephone service is built on

The foundation of your telephone service is composed of three integrated Bell System activities.

First, there's research at Bell Telephone Laboratories to find new telephone services and new ways to improve present services.

Second, there's manufacturing by the Western Electric Company in order to produce top-quality telephone equipment at the lowest possible cost.

Third, there's the operation of the Bell System performed by the local Bell Telephone Companies at high standards of economy and efficiency.

The results of this three-stage action are improved local and Long Distance service ... ever-better telephone instruments ... the invention and use of such modern marvels as the Transistor ... fast, dependable communications for defense and for you.

His home is protected with Farmers Insurance, too.

More and more thousands of men who have enjoyed the benefits and savings of Farmers Auto Insurance are turning to Farmers to fill their other insurance needs, too.

Farmers HomeOwners Dwelling Package Policy is a complete policy for the home. It provides coverage against fire, windstorm and other perils. It insures against damage and theft of your valued possessions. And it provides personal liability coverage—which pays for doctor bills and hospital fees—as well as many other important features.

Farmers HomeOwners Dwelling Package Policy is a 4-way policy. It eliminates overlaps and duplicate coverages. It does away with the need for additional policies and thus saves you real money. Ask your Farmers Agent to explain the many advantages of insuring your home with Farmers Insurance Group.
